Shoot-Out Defendant Asserts She's Innocent

By MARY LEYDECKER

Where will Angela Y. Davis, who yesterday protested her innocence in a Marin court hearing, be tried?

The attorney who will handle her trial, Howard Moore Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., was en route to Georgia today from Marin County and was not available to confirm or deny a report that he will ask that the trial be held in another county.

The 26-year-old Communist claimed yesterday that she is a victim of a political frameup and that she is innocent of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges.

Miss Davis is accused of supplying the guns and helping plan the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed.

Moore, a former Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee attorney, indicated in court yesterday that motions for a change of venue from Marin and one seeking to sever Miss Davis's case from that of her codefendant, Ruchell Magee, were being considered.

Yesterday, five attorneys representing Miss Davis asked that she be allowed to act along with them as her own laywer. The move, apparently intended to allow the black militant to speak in court without forcing her to take the witness stand, was taken under consideration by Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

The judge said, however, that he will ask an outside judge to make a ruling on this and other motions, in-

STATEMENT TO COURT

In court yesterday, Angela Y. Davis was allowed by Judge Joseph G. Wilson to read the following statement:

As a preface to these brief remarks, I now declare publicly, before this court and before the people of this country, that I am innocent of all charges which have been levied against me by the State of California.

I am innocent; therefore I maintain that my presence in this courtroom today is unrelated to any criminal act. I stand before the court as the target of a political frameup, which far from pointing to my culpability, implicates the State of California as an agent of political repression.

Indeed, the state reveals its own role by introducing as evidence against me, my participation in the struggles of my people, black people, against the obvious injustices of this society, specifically, my involvement in the Soledad Brothers Defense Committee. The American people had been led to believe that such involvement is constitutionally protected.

In order to insure that these political questions are not obscured, I feel compelled to play an active role in my own defense. As the defendant, as a black woman and a Communist, it is my duty to assist all those directly involved in the proceedings as well as the people of this state the American people in general to thoroughly comprehend the substantive issues at stake in my case.

These have to do with my political beliefs, affiliations and my day-to-day efforts to fight all the conditions which have economically and politically paralyzed black America. No one can better represent my political beliefs and activities than I.

UAR Threat Mars Talks Resumption On Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Egypt mounted a diplomatic offensive today to win concessions from Israel in the Middle East peace talks and warned that there might not be an extension of the cease-fire which expires Feb. 5 unless the concessions were forthcoming.

The talks resumed Tuesday after a lapse of nearly five months with U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring meeting separately with Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah, Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat and Jordanian envoy Muhammad H. el-Farra. Further talks were set for today.

El-Zayyat voiced Egyptian suspicion of Israel's sincerity Tuesday after a meeting with Jarring in the mediator's 38th floor office in the U.N. Secretariat Building: "I am not as hopeful as when I went in. I did not get anything to show there is a serious intention to talk."

Tekoah met with Jarring for half an hour today. Tekoah declined comment on el-Zayyat's charges that Israel was not seriously negotiating and would say only, "we have resumed the talks," He said he would remain in "constant touch" with Jarring.

Today, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad told newsmen in London that a clear cut Israeli commitment to withdraw from occupied Arab lands is the key to an extension of the cease-fire deadline of Feb. 5. He made the statement after talks with high British officials.

"We want to hear clearly that Israel is ready to withdraw and U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring should present a program of implementation of the November, 1967 Security Council resolution," Riad said. The Arabs hold that that resolution calls for Israeli withdrawal from "all" captured lands. Israel does not accept the word "all."

U.S. Ambassador H. Walworth Barbour conferred in Jerusalem today with Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and diplomatic sources said they discussed the Egyptian threats not to continue the cease-fire unless Israel provides a timetable for withdrawal. The sources said Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin also was discussing the matter in Washington with U.S. assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco.

Authoritative Israeli sources said the talks must give first priority to the shape of the peace each side wants and could break down unless the continual threats of new hostilities cease. The sources said Israel would press for a new cease-fire agreement early in the Jarring talks.

Riad was vague on the possibility of new fullscale hostilities in the Middle East. He said Egypt expects Israel to try to force it to surrender and, "it is our duty to liberate our territory, and we shall not ask permission from anybody as to how and when we shall do so."

He said Cairo looks for "peace with justice" and is prepared to accept "a package-deal" settlement based on the 1967 U.N. resolution. But he said Egypt is not prepared to face an indefinite status quo if by Feb. 5 Israel has failed to offer a clearcut commitment to withdraw.

In Cairo, the semiofficial

Anti-U.S. Protests In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—A half dozen Soviet workers walked into the U.S. Embassy today and delivered letters protesting against what they called "Zionist hooliganism" and "anti-Soviet hysteria" in the United States involving Russian citizens and performers.

The Soviet government Tuesday announced it had officially protested to the United States against such alleged acts and warned that it could not be responsible for the safety of the 400 or more Americans in Russia. The State Department rejected the note and said it would hold Russia responsible.

The anti-Russian acts in the United States including attacks against Soviet offices in New York stemmed from protests against the alleged mistreatment of Jews in Russia and the Leningrad trials of Jews on attempted airplane hijack charges.

The latest Soviet protest came at the United Nations in New York when the Soviet mission to the U.N. protested a "hooligan" attack that allegedly injured a Russian diplomat and frightened his sleeping son inside the Soviet Mission. The protest demanded prosecution

Solano Jury Closeted In Valentine's Day Case Study

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A Solano County Superior Court jury today began deliberating the 34 charges against seven men arrested during the violent Feb. 14 labor demonstration outside the Independent-Journal.

Judge William E. Jensen spent this morning reading to the jury 29 pages of instructions as to the laws the seven were accused of breaking.

The 10 women and two men on the panel then retired to begin deliberations on a mountainous pile of evidence submitted during the trial that began 11 weeks ago. The evidence, besides the testimony of 40 witnesses, included portions of two television films of the Valentine's Day violence, more than 175 photographs, a slingshot, two blackjacks, a picket sign and various missiles.

The trial was switched here after the defense told a Marin County judge it felt the seven couldn't get a fair trial in San Rafael.

During two days of summation arguments, Marin County Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas declared that the demonstration against the I-J was "an application of good old strong-arm techniques to show the employer they could shut him down."

San Francisco International Typographical Union 21 had struck the I-J Jan. 7, and the Feb. 14 demonstration drew a crowd variously estimated at 400 to 800 persons in support of the printers. During the day, windows throughout the I-J plant were smashed, a delivery truck was set afire, 2 persons were injured and 14 were arrested on various felony and misdemeanor charges.

"These defendants and the others there that day went there not to exercise their right of free speech," Thomas declared as he finished prosecution arguments at 9:40 p.m. yesterday. "And they were not there to persuade I-J employees not to work, nor to gain public support" for the striking union.

Five of the seven on trial are printers, including John J. DeMartini, 47, of Mill Valley, vice president of Local 21. He is the only I-J employee among the seven men on trial.

"If DeMartini and the union were interested in getting public support" against the I-J, "they were going at it in a very peculiar way," Thomas said.

Defense attorney Carl B. Shapiro repeatedly labelled four of the counts against the defendants as "the I-J charges" during his final arguments yesterday. The counts involve participation in a riot, unlawful assembly and refusal to disperse.

"If the I-J can establish this was a riot or an unlawful assembly, it helps them gain public sympathy," Shapiro said.

Dole Is Probable GOP Chief

The message went out by telephone to Republican National Committee members who will meet in Washington Jan. 15 to elect a successor to Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, who is resigning to become secretary of the interior.

Morton, now at a holiday retreat in the Bahamas, was reported to have telephoned Washington Monday to pass the word to Dole and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

Dole met Tuesday with Scott and the assistant Senate GOP leader, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. Neither Scott nor Griffin was enthusiastic about the choice.

Morton announced through the national party headquarters that a nominating coomittee was being created to consult him and the President before submitting a name to the national committee.

A committee of 12 is being formed—and advised that Nixon's choice is Dole. It expects to meet with the President Jan. 14 if he has returned by then from California.

Scott, who served as GOP chairman in 1948-49 while a member of the House, has argued consistently that the chairmanship should be a full time job and not held by a member of Congress.

It also was clear that Scott was cold toward Dole because he felt the Kansan would appear to be an administration spokesman who sometimes might seem to be in conflict with the official Republican leadership in the Senate.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee has been checking the sentiment of Senate Republicans to decide whether to run against Scott for the floor leader post when Congress reconvenes Jan. 21.

Dole has maintained neutrality toward any such contest.

Laird Forecasts End To U.S. Viet Missions During Year

PARIS (UPI) —U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today American forces in South Vietnam will wind up their combat missions this year.

Speaking ata news conference Laird said South Vietnamese armed forces henceforth will assume the burden of fighting the Communists and remaining American troops will have a security mission only.

Laird told newsmen the Nixon administration has accomplished "substantial progress" in disengaging the United States from the Vietnamese conflict.

He said Phase One of the program of Vietnamization, or handing over the ground fighting to the South Vietnamese, was ahead of schedule and would be completed before the end of 1971. Phase One, he said, consisted in entrusting American forces chiefly with logistic, artillery and aircraft operations.

Laird said the Vietnamization program was a complementary action and that the Nixon administration still considered the two-year-old Paris peace talks as the main hope for producing a settlement.

Laird said that completion of Phase Two of the Vietnamization program will see American forces hand over to the South Vietnamese the artillery, logistic and aircraft support. He said Saigon troops will be able to meet not only a Viet Cong but a North Vietnamese threat as well.

Laird said that since the Nixon administration took over early in 1969 American military personnel in Southeast Asia dropped from 549,000 to 345,000 presently, or 9,000 below the ceiling fixed under the phase-out.

He said that by May 1, 1971, there will be only 285,000 men in the area or less.

Thus, he said, by the end of

Four U.S. Officers Cleared Of Charges In My Lai Affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Charges were dropped by the Army today against four officers accused of covering up the alleged My Lai massacre.

The action left only three officers still charged out of 13 originally accused of suppressing information about what happened at the village in South Vietnam on March 16, 1968. None of the 13 was accused of crimes of violence in the death of civilians at My Lai.

Guinn and Gavin were both advisers to South Vietnamese officials in Quang Ngai Province, where My Lai is located.

Watke was commander of a helicopter company flying choppers in and around My Lai the day of the incident. Calhoun was executive officer and operations officer of Task Force Barker, the unit made up of Capt. Ernest Medina's company and two other companies.

Of the 13 officers charged last March with nonviolent crimes, three still face charges including the highest ranking officer involved in the case.

He is Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, who commanded the Americal Division, of which the

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Polish Aftermath

WARSAW (UPI)—The Polish Communist Party has ordered a fullscale review of the food riots last month and the economic factors that caused them, it was disclosed today.

The disclosure came in today's edition of the official party newspaper Trybuna Ludu which quoted Antoni Walaszek, the party secretary in Szczecin (Stettin)—one of the cities where violence erupted.

Walaszek told a meeting in Szczecin on Tuesday that the party Politburo "has begun preparations to convene a plenary session of the Central Committee to make a detailed evaluation of the December events and the results of the last five-year economic plan."

LaPorte Charges

MONTREAL (UPI) — Four members of the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ) were charged formally Tuesday with the kidnap-murder of Provincial Labor Minister Pierre Laporte last fall.

Paul Rose, 27; Jacques Rose, 23, his brother, Francis Simard, 23, and Bernard Lortie, 19, were ordered, to appear in court Thursday when a trial date will be set.

Police read an unsigned statement at a coroner's inquest Monday, which they said was made by Simard, which said the Rose brothers strangled Laporte with the chain of his religious medal Oct. 17.

Podgorny To UAR

CAIRO (UPI)—Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny will visit Egypt next week in his first trip to the Middle East since he visited the area immediately following the 1967 war, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today.

The newspaper said Podgorny, accompanied by a high-ranking Soviet delegation, will attend ceremonies marking the completion of the Soviet delegation, will attend ceremonies marking the completion of the Soviet-financed Aswan high dam and hold talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Opium Ban Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Crime Committee suggested today the United States ban all legal imports of opium and morphine as a way to cut down heroin addiction.

The committee said in a report that such a ban could be accomplished because there are synthetic substitutes which could be used as pain killers. Such a prohibition, the committee added, would facilitate international controls on illegal narcotics. Heroin is made from opium-producing poppy seeds, which also are used for making morphine.

"Outlawing the importation of illicit morphine into this country also strengthens the position of our negotiators charged with the task of convincing opium-producing countries to end that production," the committee said.

Pittsburgh Strike

PITTSBURGH, (UPI)—County health officials threatened to go to court to end a three-day-old strike of municipal workers which has stopped garbarge collection. A "health hazard" appeared imminent.

The city's 110 public schools have been closed since Monday to their 73,000 students by 2,000 striking members of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers. The city's two newspapers shut down Sunday night when 230 pressmen struck the Pittsburgh Press Co.

A wildcat strike of several hundred city employed Teamsters Union members spread to 2,500 municipal employes Monday, including sanitationmen, road crews, plumbers, mechanics and laborers.

Chile Take-Over

VALPARAISO, Chile (UPI)—Marxist President Salvador Allende announced Tuesday his government was taking over two American firms and said foreign businessmen who refuse to comply with Chilean laws will be asked "to return to their homeland."

"We don't want some Americans to stay too long in Chile," Allende said in reference to an apparent government decision to buy out an affiliate of the Ralston Purina Co., a cereal firm.

The company is Alimentos Purina S.A. and has been taken over by the government for alleged undercapitalization which threatened jobos of Chilean workers.

Allende listed the other firm as NIBSA, partly owned by the National Brass Co. of Elkhart, Ind. NIBSA is a valve and fittings firm.

Tuition Hike

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Tuition at Harvard University has been hiked $200 to $2,800 for the 1971-72 school year, according to officials at the nation's oldest university who announced the third straight tuition hike in three years Tuesday.

New Mexico's first major storm of the winter has brought joy to these two Albuquerque youngsters as they pose their dog Caesar for snow sculpture. The cold front, which has also been felt in the Bay Area, has abated in Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, describing the weekend snow blast as the worst since "'89." Only Florida has managed to escape winter's first real frigid touch. Temperatures were in the mid-70s in Miami and Key West, Fla.

Army Dope Crackdown In Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command said today as many as 45 per cent of all American soldiers in Vietnam are believed to have used marijuana or hard drugs. It announced a massive campaign to destroy marijuana fields and rehabilitate drug users.

The command said drug violations had been rising steadily and rapidly ever since U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War began 10 years ago.

In an official directive to military police and other elements of the command, the U.SK. Headquarters here said there are expected to be at least 11,000 arrests among GIs by the time figures for all of 1970 are totaled. And it estimated there are at least five habitual drug users for every man caught.

A quarter million Japanese tourists visited the U.S. in 1970.

U.S. Bombers Blast Ho Chi Minh Trail

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52 bombers struck targets in South Vietnam today for the second time in three days. Military sources reported one of every four American planes lost in Indochina in 1970 went down in Laos.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 632 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in a month-long campaign in the Mekong Delta.

B52s pounded the Ho Chi Minh Trail and its branch roadways in Laos and parts of South Vietnam. The areas bombed Tuesday night and today were not far from the site of Stratofortress strikes Monday, just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

The strikes reported today were only the 10th mission by B52s inside Vietnam since they began a concentrated bombing campaign at the Ho Chi Minh Trail on Oct. 9.

Military sources said the air war in Laos had been responsible for 25 per cent of all American aircraft losses in the Indochina war last year.

The U.S. Command has reported aircraft losses in Laos only since March 18.

FBI Boss Skims Over The Radicals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today racial disorders, attacks on polce and subversive activities continued to be a threat to the country in 1970, but he noted a decline in racial incidents in schools.

Hoover's observations were included in his 1970 annual report, which noticeably lacked any of the rhetoric and tone of impending trouble of Hoover's testimony two months ago when he asked Congress for money for an additional 1,000 agents.

The report noted but did not dwell on the Black Panther Party and the radical new left, as have recent past reports. It did not mention the alleged plot to kidnap a White House official, outlined by Hoover in congressional testimony.

Toover said racial disorders in 1970 did not reach the level of the riots of the 1960s. He also said the number of racial disorders in secondary schools declined from 299 in the first four months of the 1969-70 school year to 160 during the same period this school year.

But "the number of incidents of racial disorder that did occur in our cities and in secondary schools, along with the many unwarranted attacks on police, strongly indicate we are far from the realization of racial harmony in the nation," he said.

Hoover said persons identifying themselves as Black Panthers were responsible for the deaths of six police officers and the wounding of 22 others, a "marked increase" from the previous two years when five were killed and 42 wounded.

Hoover's report led off with a five-page recitation of FBI accomplishments against organized crime. He said FBI investigations in 1970 resulted in 468 convictions of persons involved in organized crime, with 1,200 other cases pending. He said nine of the top bosses of the two dozen criminal syndicates were arrested.

High Mercury Level In '27 Fish Catches

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Fish caught decades ago in New york have been found to contain levels of mercury higher than those now considered contaminating by the federal government, state officials said Tuesday.

Henry l. Diamond, commissioner of Environmental Conservation, said tests made on museum specimens have produced "high levels in about a dozen preserved fish." The evidence was "statistically ... not enough" to determine if such high levels of mercury were common years ago, or to draw any conclusions about the effects from eating such fish, he said.

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) rules specify mercury in excess of 0.5 parts per million is hazardous. Samllmouth bass and pike caught in Lakes Ontario and Champlain as far back as 1927 had concentrations of 1.0 parts per million, Diamond said. The peak mercury level the state testers found was 1.03 parts per million in fish taken from Lake Ontario near Rochester in 1939.

Some of the specimens' mercury contamination could be associated with manufacturing processes in operation in nearby waters at the time the fish were caught, Diamond said. But he also had results on fish caught during 1930 in undespoiled Adirondack ponds. Those preserved fish had mercury levels of 0.5 parts per million—the same concentration of mercury that caused federal officials to call off the market supplies of swordfish and tuna in recent months.

Transbay Tube To Marin Suggested By Sonomans

SONOMA (UPI)—The president of the Sonoma Chamber of Commerce Tuesday said an underwater tube for rapid transit should link San Francisco and Marin County, enabling a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge to handle automobiles.

Chamber President Mel Washington made the recommendation at a hearing of the Golden Gate Bridge directors attended by about 50 persons.

The bridge district is holding a series of public hearings throughout the counties making up the district: Sonoma, Marin, Napa, Mendocino, San Francisco and Del Norte.

The hearings concern five alternate plans proposed for the district's long range needs.

Three of the plans call for a transit deck on the bridge for buses or rail traffic only. Two envision an underwater tube for rail transit between San Francisco and Sausalito.

Another has the Bay Area Rapid Transit traffic entering Marin on a bridge running parallel to the Richmond-San Rafael bridge.

Sonoma County Supervisor Ignacio Vella said mass transit plans must be worked out to include "Petaluma, Santa Rosa and Healdsburg from San Francisco."

"We will pay the price 200 fold ten to 20 years from now if we do nothing," he said.

cluding one asking bail for Miss Davis. She is to return to court in early March.

Meanwhile, both Marin officials and the National United Committee to Free Angela Davis viewed with some alarm a State Department invitation to 14 Russian scientists to come to Miss Davis's trial.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, in charge of courtroom proceedings for the trial if it is held in Marin, sent a letter to Martin J. Hillenbrand, assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Maloney wrote to Hillenbrand, the author of the invitation, that "if there is any likelihood of an acceptance," he should be "aware of several facts."

Maloney told Hillenbrand that the 104-seat courtroom would scarcely be able to "accomodate 14 observers plus interpreters plus State Department representatives plus United States and Russian security personnel . . ."

Fear that an entourage of Russians and their guards might take over the courtroom also was expressed by the Angela Davis committee, which is headed by her sister, Fania Davis Jordan, and Franklin Alexander.

In a written statement, the committee called it a "paradox" that "Soviet citizens will be given VIP treatment while thousands of worried and concerned Americans, expecially black Americans," will be prevented from coming to the trial.

It is unknown whether the Soviet government will even allow the scientists, who had expressed concern for a fair trial, to come to this country.

In addition to protesting innocence yesterday in her first public statement since she was captured in New York City, Miss Davis also was quoted in the publication "Muhammad Speaks" as giving her reasons for her flight to avoid prosecution.

"I fled because I was convinced there was little likelihood I would get justice in California," she was quoted as saying.

She accused Gov. Ronald Reagan and his "Fascist cohorts" of firing her from her job at University of California at Los Angeles because of political views, adding "How could I fail to realize that they were now determined to murder me."

Meanwhile, at the Marin Civic Center, intensive body searches of persons entering the complex have eased since the installation of metal detectors at each entrance.

Sheriff's Capt. Harvey Teague said today that frisking is now being done "at random" with the choice of whom to search up to deputies at the doors.

Marinite Is Arraigned For Inciting

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A former candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge has been arraigned on charges stemming from a post-game fight among spectators at Kezar Stadium Sunday.

A second Marin man accused in the brawl was to be arraigned today. Meanwhile, city officials have called for action to halt hooliganism and drunkenness at San Francisco football games.

Arraigned Monday was attorney Thomas H. Thorner, 38, of Kentfield, who was charged in municipal court with inciting to riot, disturbing the peace and interfering with a police officer. He is to plead Monday.

Wayne M. Clark, 27, a hair stylist from San Rafael, was to be arraigned today. He was arrested on suspicion of resisting arrest and disturbing the peace in the melee at the stadium.

Both men claimed they took no part in the fights or in the barrage of beer cans and bottles that punctuated the Forty Niners' loss to the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football Conference title game.

Mayor Joseph Alioto said, "It is perfectly clear that something must be done to cut down rowdyism during and after games." However, the mayor, who attended the game, declined comment on a prohibition ordinance drafted by the recreation and parks commission.

Supervisor Peter Tamaras declared the drunken brawling a "terrible disgrace" to San Francisco.

The chairman of the recreation and parks commission, Loris DiGrazia, said San Francisco "can't afford to have people's lives endangered as they were Sunday at Kezar."

virtually condemns to silence the one person who stands to lose most would seem to be self-defeating. It is particularly crucial to black people to combat this contradiction inherent in the judicial system, for we have accumulated a wealth of historical experience which confirms our belief that the scales of American justice are out of balance. In order to enhance the possibility of being granted a fair trial, of which I am at present extremely doubtful, it is imperative that I be allowed to represent myself. I might add that my request is not without legal precedent.

If this court denies our motion to include me as co-counsel in this case, it will be aligning itself with the forces of racism and reaction which threaten to push this country into the throes of fascism. The many people who have become increasingly disillusioned with the court system in this country will have a further reason to solidify their contention that it is no longer possible to get a fair trial in America.

the U.S. fiscal year a total of 325,000 American soldiers will have left Southeast Asia while the fighting potential of the Allies in the area has been sharply strengthened.

"The Nixon administration attaches great importance to the negotiations here and the work being done were by Ambassador (David K. E.) Bruce," Laird told a news conference.

"The goal of this administration is still very much a negotiated settlement in Vietnam and Southeast Asia," he said.

Laird said the Vietnamization program was ahead of schedule and that by May 1, the number of American military personnel in Vietnam will have been reduced to 284,000.

Laird pronounced the Vietnamization program "a full success." "Vietnamization aims at allowing the South Vietnamese to have a combat capability of meeting not only any threat from the Viet Cong but also to handle any attack by North Vietnam," he said.

"I think the North Vietnamese and the VC (Viet Cong) can do very well to notice of this," Laird said. He said the administration was "confident that Vietnamization will work."

of the militant Jewish Defense League (JDL) for the attack.

The Russians said during anti-Soviet demonstrations in front of the Soviet mission on Dec. 27-28 members of the JDL installed themselves on the balcony of a synagogue across the street and threw a bottle into the mission. They said it crashed into a room, seriously injuring the father and frightening the child.

MIDEAST

newspaper Al Ahram which often voices the Egyptian government viewpoint accused Israel of using delaying tactics in the talks, and referred to Tekoah's statement that the basic settlement issue may not be discussed for three months and that the cease-fire should be maintained in the meantime.

Then it voiced the same position as Riad: "Egypt will not agree to renew the cease-fire if agreement is not reached on a timetable for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories." It said the Israeli attitude threatened to escalate Mideast tension and this could "lead to dangerous consequences for which Israel would be fully responsible."

Israel had no immediate comment on the talks, but Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today in Jerusalem that Egypt has more than reestablished its missile power in the Suez Canal truce area despite Israeli air attacks last summer which destroyed more than 100 Soviet-made batteries.

His statement was considered significant because it was Israeli charges of a missile buildup that led Israel to pull out of the talks last autumn. Since then Israel has received U.S. assurances the balance of power will be maintained.

Israel got another unofficial pledge today from Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who told a news conference at Tel Aviv's Lydda Airport today: "The United States is committed to Israel's survival. It has always been and I expect always will be."

In the actual talks Tekoah was reported to have insisted on discussing procedural matters such as site and level of the talks rather than substantive issues such as Israel withdrawal.

"inept," operating without any well-defined tactics, and were brutal to demonstrators, depriving them of their rights of assembly under the First Amendment.

Thomas held that "the police used remarkable restraint" and were harrassed, pelted with missiles and assaulted by demonstrators.

The defendants, besides DeMartini, include Terry W. Lansing, 20, of Oakland; James J. Brooke, 36, of Guerneville; Joe E. Reese, 32, of Hayward; Charles P. Vance, 56, of South San Francisco, and Nimmes H. Shelton, 41, and Alvis D. Bailey, 43, both of San Francisco.

All except Shelton are accused of felony assault on police officers; Shelton and Bailey are accused of felony possession of blackjacks, and all are charged with participating in an unlawful assembly or in a riot, misdemeanor charges.

The jury was sequestered beginning with dinner last night. It will remain in a motel except during its daily deliberations. The panel put in a long day yesterday, from 9 a.m. to 9:40 p.m., with a total of two and one-half hours off for meals.

CHARGES

My Lai units were part, at the time of My Lai.

He was superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point when he was charged with "failure to obey lawful regulations and dereliction in the performance of his duties." Koster resigned from West Point the same day the charges were placed.

The other officers still facing similar charges are Col. Oran K. Henderson, then commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade, and Capt. Dennis H. Johnson, then serving with a military intelligence detachment.

The charges against Koster and the others grew out of an investigation by a special Pentagon panel which conducted secret hearings in Washington and also visited Vietnam.

Those accused of suppression of information about My Lai were transferred to Fort Meade after the charges were made. Gen. Seaman was then assigned the responsibility of conducting an investigation—the military equicalent of a grand jury proceeding.

Tools Taken

Tools of undetermined value were stolen between 11 p.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday from Brogioli's Richfield Service Station, 100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, police said yesterday.

OBITUARIES

Rica Mayer Dies At 104

Funeral for Rica Mayer, 104-year-old San Anselmo resident who died in a local hospital Sunday after a long illness, is scheduled in Vancouver, Wash.

A native of Vancouver, Miss Mayer spent her childhood in Washington, D.C. She never married and never had an occupation but lived with her sister who was married to an Army man.

She spent a few years in the Philippines with them and then moved to California more than 50 years ago, living in San Francisco until eight years ago when she came to San Anselmo to live with Ann Kendrick, a friend. Two years ago she entered a convalescent hospital.

On the occastion of Miss Mayer's 100th birthday in 1966, her great-great niece, Mrs. William E. Carewe of Ross, said, "She's very keen and in good health. She loves to read and enjoys TV. She quit smoking 10 years ago."

Burial will be in Vancouver Memorial Cemetery.

MRS. LADAS

Funeral for Georgia G. Ladas, 76, of 14 Pacheco Street, San Rafael, was held Thursday in Marysville. She died Dec. 29 at a local hospital apparently of a heart attack.

A native of Sparta, Greece, she had lived in Marysville for 50 years prior to moving to San Rafael two years ago.

She is survived by two daughters, Janice Marefos of San Rafael and Patricia K. Ladas of Sacramento; four sons, Philip G. Ladas of Sacramento, Nick G. Kerhoulas of Yuba City, James G. Kerhoulas of Fremont, and Peter G. Kerhoulas of Sacramento; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Sierra View Memorial Park.

ALMA FISHER

Funeral for Alma Fisher, a longtime resident of Marin County, will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Fisher died Saturday at a Mill Valley convalescent hospital after a long illness. She was 82.

She was born in Minnesota and had worked in the alteration department at the White House department store in San Francisco until her retirement in 1949.

There are no known survivors.

RICHARD BOYER

Mass of Requiem for retired Army Lt. Col. Richard J. Boyer of Fairfax will be offered at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax.

Boyer, of 110 Forrest Avenue, died Sunday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. He was 50.

He had retired from the Army in 1966.

Born in Wadena, Minn., Boyer attended Crosby-Irontown College in Minnesota for one year before entering the Army in 1942. After being commissioned a second lieutenant in 1943 and attending armored school, he served in Europe under Gen. George C. Patton.

He was involved in the Normandy invasion, the campaign around Rhiems, France, and the invasion of Germany.

He spent two years in Korea during that war and was also in Thailand and Vietnam just before his retirement.

He had also served eight years at Fort Eustis, Va., and four years in Germany, before being assigned to Fort Mason in San Francisco in 1960. He was later transferred to the Oakland Army Terminal.

He received the Bronze Star, the Verdun Medal and the Korean Service Medal with one silver and two bronze stars.

Since his retirement, he had worked as a marine carpenter in Oakland.

He was a member of St. Rita's Men's Club, Carpenters Local 1149 and American Legion Post 37 of San Rafael.

Surviving are his wife, Marian; one son, Richard Jr. of Fairfax; five daughters, Marian Allen of Petaluma and Michelle Courtz, Maureen, Marie and Marjorie Boyer, all of Fairfax; one brother, Joseph Boyer of Wayzata, Minn.; one sister, Marian Kern of Wadena, and his father, Joseph Boyer of Puyallup, Wash.

Rosary will be today at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be at Fort Leavenworth National Cemetery, Kan.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Marin County Heart Association.

FRANK GOBBI

Funeral arrangements for Frank Gobbi of San Rafael are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley. Gobbi, 80, died Monday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Italy, he had lived in California and Marin County 35 years, residing at1330 Fourth Street. Gobbi was a retired construction worker.

TEIICHI YOSHIOKA

Funeral for Teiichi Tom Yoshioka, 68, of Petaluma, will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Enmanji Buddhist Temple, Sebastopol.

Yoshioka died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was born in Koloa, Kauai, Hawaii, and moved to San Francisco in 1916 to attend Healds's Business College.

Yoshioka moved to Petaluma after World War II. He had been employed by Bethlehem Steel Co. until his retirement three years ago. He was a member of the Sonoma County J.A.C.L., Japanese Association, and the Enmanji Temple.

He is survived by his wife, Fumiko; two daughters, Carol Haan and Joyce Kawahara of Petaluma; two sons, Lloyd Yoshioka of Petaluma and Milton Yoshioka of San Jose; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Otani of Petaluma and June B. T. Johnsen of Hollister; a brother, Hiroshi Yoshioka of Petaluma and 10 grandchildren.

Concluding service will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma, followed by inurnment at Chapel of the Chimes, Santa Rosa.

STELLA ANTICEVICH

Funeral for Mrs. Stella Anticevich, a native of Sausalito, was held yesterday at Church of the Nativity in San Francisco.

Mrs. Anticevich died Sunday at a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. She was 81.

Mrs. Anticevich, a resident of San Francisco for the last 35 years, is survived by her son Chester, a member of the board of directors member of the San Francisco Musicians' Union; a daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Barbaria of San Francisco, and four grandchildren. Her late husband, Mark Anticevich, was a Sausalito businessman.

Burial was at Holy Cross Cemetery, San Francisco.

Ecology Study Fund To Be Asked

The Marin County Board of Education has approved applying for state funds to initiate a countywide environmental education program.

However, according to Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy, while the application will request about $40,000 to finance a complete program, the board expects the state only to provide between $5,000 and $10,000.

If only limited funds are received, Mauzy said, the county will proceed with preliminary surveys and studies for the program.

He said a study committee organized last year and made up of educators, trustees and officials of the Audubon Canyon Ranch will proceed with the study to insure no duplication in various programs now being considered by some Marin school districts.

The matter was first presented to the board in November, but board members refused to approve submitting the application pending more complete plans from the committee and its staff.

Mauzy said the application deadline is Jan. 15 and he expects and answer from the state within 20 days.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

TRANSPORTATION — Approved a transportation agreement with the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council for rental of the council's bus at $25 per day.

MULTIHANDICAPPED — Approved submitting an application to the state department of Education for funds for two experimental classes for multihandicapped children.

NEGOTIATOR — Appointed Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services, as board negotiator for nonteaching personnel. He already is the board negotiator on teacher contracts.

CONSTRUCTION — Delayed awarding a construction contract for an occupational training shop at Magnolia Park School pending a decision by the county supervisors on an appeal from neighboring homeowners who have asked the workshop be moved from its proposed location adjacent to homes.

REED DISTRICT — Referred to Supt. Virgil S. Hollis a statement from the Reed School District that it wished to continue with regular county services.

GIFTS — Accepted $3,900 from the Marin Ballet Aquacade, $190 from the Deer Park Villa Restaurant in Fairfax and $2,000 from Valerie Corvin of San Francisco for educational equipment.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Jan. 18.

Slow Trials Are Attacked

NEW YORK (UPI)—Defendants in federal criminal cases must be tried within six months of arrest or the charges must be dropped, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals Council ruled Tuesday in an attempt to speed up trial procedures.

The ruling, which applies to district courts in New York, Connecticut and Vermont effective June 5, also mandates a jailed defendant must be released on bail or on his own recognizance if he is not tried within three months.

Further, the ruling states U.S. attorneys who prosecute the cases must make every effort to arraign defendants who may be serving sentences on other convictions, or file a detainer with the authorities having custody of the prisoner.

Window-Snoop Hearing Set

Stanford Edward Terry, 23, and Timothy John Blain, 20, both of Fairfax, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana.

The two were arrested at their home when drug agents saw Blain through a window smoking a pipe of the type used to smoke narcotics. Agents said they found suspected hashish and marijuana at the residence. Blain is also accused of a misdemeanor count of having a pipe for smoking drugs.

Bird Watchers Sight 193 Species In Marin

Marin County bird watchers appear to have earned third place in a national bird counting competition staged between Dec. 22 and Sunday.

John Winter, a scientist at the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, said yesterday the combined forces of the Marin and Golden Gate chapters of the National Audubon Society and the observatory unofficially counted 193 species of birds.

The Point Reyes figure, taken inside a 15-mile circle centering on the Point Reyes National Seashore, topped by one the unofficial total gathered by rival San Diego.

The Marin count, taken from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday, produced such sightings as that of a peregrine falcon, European wiggeons and blue gray gnat catchers.

Winter said numerous white and brown pelicans and a surprising munber of whistling swans were sighted.

He said unofficial counts showed Freeport, Tex., sighted about 205 species and Cocoa, Fla., about 195.

While Marin may not have taken top honors in species counted, he said, it should be tops in the number of birds counted.

The combined forces fielded about 165 bird counters.

The idea of a holiday season bird census began more than 70 years ago with a proposal by Frank M. Chapman, curator of the Natural History Museum in New York City. He was dismayed by a 19th Century hangover of Christmas-season hunts in which local sportsmen chose up sides and took to the woods, killing every creature they could find. The side with the most carcasses won.

Official results of the 1970 bird census will not be released for several months, Winter said.

Indians Die

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Five persons died in two neighboring villages in Andhra Pradesh state after drinking fermented coconut palm Monday, the Press Trust of India reported today.

Bennett Pledges To Go After Big Businesses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Consumer advocate William M. Bennett has begun his first term as a member of the State Board of Equalization with a pledge to campaign for higher taxes for big business and a better break for small taxpayers.

"The people will no longer stand for the kind of things we have," he said of the state's present tax structure. "We all know that big business gets a better break on taxes than you and I."

In an interview Tuesday prior to attending his first business meeting of the tax appeals board, he predicted that if the legislature did not soon pass tax reform legislation, initiative measures would be placed on the ballot.

"If the large taxpayer is favored over the small taxpayer, the law has to be changed," he said.

Calling economics "the basis of political equality," the Kentfield Democrat predicted "taxes will be the issue of the 70s."

Bennett, an attorney, said that his position as a member of the board would allow him to "speak with authority" for tax reform. "I look forward to speaking on tax matters."

A former member of the State Public Utilities Commission, where he was a strong advocate of consumer interests, Bennett was elected to the board last November to succeed the retiring Paul R. Leake, a Woodland publisher.

Peace Committee Campaign Success

Take Officer Back, State Tells Council

A state hearing officer has recommended that a Sausalito police sergeant, fired last May, be reinstated but demoted to patrolman.

In making his recommendations, Hearing Officer Paul A. Winton admitted Sgt. Thomas H. Zink "had been guilty of inexcusable neglect and incompetence in the performance of his duties. He has used bad judgment (and) disregarded (police) department policy, rules and procedures."

But Winton added that he did not feel Zink's actions warranted his dismissal from the Sausalito department, although he said "cause for disciplinary action . . . exists."

The 33-year-old Zink was fired in May after 11 years on the force. In a letter which notified Zink of his dismissal, then Acting City Mgr. H. Eric Borgwardt charged the police officer with several offenses, including arriving for work late, out of uniform and with the odor of alcohol on his breath.

It also accused him of "negligent handling of a firearm," "use of a stimulant while on duty," "emotional instability" and "an inability to maintain a satisfactory relationship with subordinate officers."

Winton's report, which capped testimony from city employees, psychiatrists and persons representing the fired officer, was presented to the Sausalito council last night. The extensive hearings, for which Winton was paid $50 per hour by the council which hired him, were held at city hall in November and early December.

The council, which must make the final decision in the case, has set a hearing on the matter for Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. in the city's main firehouse. The session will be closed to the public and the press at the request of Zink's attorney, Mayor Alexander R. Imlay said.

Auditions Slated For Parts In 'Baal'

Auditions for five parts for men in an adaptation of Bertolt Brecht's "Baal" will be today at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Mill Valley Golf Course clubhouse.

The musical will be presented in about six weeks under the auspices of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts.

103rd Candle Placed On Marinite's Birthday Cake

Ava Campbell celebrated her 103rd birthday today at a quiet noon party with her daughter and friends at the Fifth Avenue Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael.

Mrs. Campbell, who describes herself as "very, very old," nevertheless keeps track of national events through newspapers and books and finds time to write poetry, her favorite pastime.

"She even has recently commented on the need for government reform," said George Davis, hospital administrator. "But poetry and her daughter's schooling in Rome are still her main topics of conversation." Her daughter is Mrs. Donald deFremery of Portola Valley.

Mrs. Campbell has resided at the hospital for five years and was honored on her 100th birthday with a special birthday congratulatory message from former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The first copyright law was passed in 1790.

Council Overrules Zoning Objections

If planned unit housing developments are permitted in Sausalito's single-family residential zones, the units must be separate, without common walls and roofs, the Sausalito City Council agreed last night.

The lone dissenter in the council's action was Councilman Stephen A. Fraser, who said the action would "greatly limit design possibilities" and increase the likelihood of tract-like developments.

The council submitted its proposal to the city planning commission, which had originally proposed a change in the city's zoning ordinance to allow such development in single-family areas. Also turned over to the planners were recommendations from fire Chief Charles E. Masten on the method of locating units to permit efficient fire protection.

The council stood firm on its earlier decision to allow nothing but detached structures, despite pleas from several persons in the audience and objections from the city's planning director and the chairman of the planning commission.

H. Eric Borgwardt, the planning director, said he did not "professionally agree" with the limitation. And Chairman Robert L. Nissen also asked the council to reconsider. "The planning commission and council can be diligent in reviewing plans for all future developments and seeing they come forth in the best interests of the city," Nissen said.

Attorney Hugh Lawrence agreed withNissen, urging the council members not to tie the city's hands, but rather consider each proposal on its own merits.

Lawrence said he felt it was not economically feasible to build small, separate structures in a planned unit development in Sausalito.

In separating the units, "you are eating up open space as you go along and making it difficult to generate any large spaces around the buildings," a person in the audience said.

Councilman Robin Sweeny said she believes that "open space is being used to force buildings with common walls and a common roof on a community," not in the interests of conservation, but of economics.

Councilman Wyman Hicks said he was convinced any planned unit developments in Sausalito, even those with common walls, roofs and foundations, would still be priced out of the reach of the average family.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

HEARING — At the request of developers Frank Lynch and E.R. Fitzsimmons, postponed until Dec. 19 a public hearing on a planning commission denial of a zone change necessary for a proposed 400-unit planned apartment development on Wolfback Ridge.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a request from Arie Slikkerveer to allow property between 428 and 440 Sausalito Boulevard to be subdivided into two parcels. The council removed three conditions which the planning commission had placed on the subdivision after the city attorney said two of them were not legal.

BICYCLE PATHS — Approved routes for north and southbound bicycle paths in Sausalito as recommended by the city's recreation commission and directed the commission to go ahead with plans to establish paths in the Marinship area.

UNDERGROUND — Approved, in principle, an underground utility district for property on Second Street between Richardson and North streets. But the council withheld final approval until the city can determine the cost required to relocate a fire alarm system now located on utility poles in the area.

CONSOLIDATION — After a report from the fire chief, voted to spend $1,270 as the city's share in a study to determine the feasibility of consolidation of Southern Marin fire districts.

DEVELOPMENT — Set Dec. 19 for a public hearing on a proposed 18-unit planned housing development on Santa Rosa Avenue near Glen Drive. Developer David Hunter has already received planning commission approval for the development.

AWNING — Approved an encroachment application by William Thompson for an awning for a restaurant and tobacco shop at 705 and 707 Bridgeway.

AGREEMENT — Agreed to extend for three years a joint powers agreement between the city and county for joint planning activities.

TRY A LOW-CAL STUFFED BEET SALAD

Hollow the beets with a melon cutter or sharp spoon, leaving a thin shell. Slice cabbage coarsely into blender container along with chunks of other vegetables, filling container almost to top. Add cold water to within 2 inches of top, cover and blend for 2 seconds. Be careful not to overblend. Drain vegetables and repeat until all vegetables are shredded. Empty drained vegetables into bowl and sprinkle with celery seed. Combine remaining ingredients and add to vegetables. Spoon into beets. Arrange on a serving plate on a bed of salad greens.

FOOD THAT WAS WALKED FOR

Robert Morgan of San Anselmo sets aside bottles while Colleen Fitzhenry of Kentfield stacks cans of peas and Annette Lareau of Fairfax puzzles over the contents of an unlabeled can. The three, co-organizers of the Marin "Walk Against Hunger," were at the San Rafael office of the Economic Opportunity Council sorting food whose shipment to Marin was financed by proceeds from the walk. The $7,786 contributed to the EOC by the hunger walk will pay shipping costs for $200,000 in federal high-protein food targeted for 500 Marin families with nutritional deficiencies, according to Richard Nielsen, program director of the supplemental food program.

Unofficial Nod To Apartments' Designs

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee last night unofficially approved the design of three apartment developments planned for various parts of the city, according to Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill.

Although the committee has no jurisdiction over the projects, it has requested developers to bring tentative plans before it to spot any major problems before the drawings reach the planning commission, McGill said.

The committee approved the concept of 160 apartments to be built by Securities of America on Shelter Ridge, above Highway 101. Preliminary plans will be considered by the planning commission Monday.

Also approved in principle was a 14-unit townhouse development to be built on approximately one acre at 230 Miller Avenue by Lyman Emerson.

McGill said the townhouses would be similar in design and construction to 120 units planned by the Cal-Fong investment on 27 acres in Alto Bowl. The Emerson development would serve as a pilot project for the Cal-Fong one, McGill said.

The committee also approved 203 apartments to be located on 14.96 acres on the Richardson Bay shore adjacent to the present Shelter Bay apartments. The architectural design and the density of 15 units per acre were approved in principle by the committee.

Planners Want Better Access For Terminal

C&M Delivery Inc., had requested a use permit for a freight forwarding terminal at 21 Bridge Street.

The commission said that an access easement, known as Clark Street, should be improved before more traffic is placed on it. The commission suggested that other property owners on the easement be reached about needed improvements.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

HOSPITAL — Set a public hearing for Feb. 17 on a request by Quantas Development Co. to change the single-family residential zone to professional-medical behind the Washington Square Shopping Center and McDowell School. A 200-bed hospital and medical offices are planned.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Feb. 2 on a request by Young Brothers to rezone seven acres on North McDowell Boulevard.

Hunt For Tam Valley Robbers

Marin County sheriff's deputies were looking today for two men who invaded a Tamalpais Valley residence Monday and robbed the occupant of more than $6,000.

The victim, Nicholas J. Guercio of 504 Barone Lane, told deputies that one of the two men, both of whom wore nylon stockings over their heads, told him that he had been "fingered."

Guercio said the men, both armed, forced their way into the home when a babysitter, Hanna Kumihara, answered the front door at about 10:30 p.m.

One of the men told him, Guercio said, "Nick, you did me a favor but a close friend of yours put the finger on you. I have to do this."

When they demanded money, Guercio said, he gave them seven $100 bills from his pants pocket. They got 56 more $100 bills from a closet safe they made Guercio open, he told deputies.

After pulling the telephone cord from the wall, the men fled in a late model car, he said.

One of them, armed with a sawed off rifle, was between 28 and 32 years old, about 6 feet tall, 145 to 150 pounds and wore white overalls, Guercio said.

The other carried a German luger and was 25 or 26 years old, 5½ feet tall, 145 to 150 pounds and had dark hair, he said.

Youth Panel Picks Permanent Chairman

Paul Cohen of Mill Valley, acting chairman of the Marin County Youth Commission, was elected permanent chairman last night at a meeting at Marin General Hospital.

Other permanent officers elected were Carol McClure of Ross, vice chairman, and Laurie Packard of Corte Madera, secretary.

New officers were to have been elected in May, but commissioners postponed the election because of rapid turnover in membership when youths left for college.

In other business, commissioners set an area discussion session on youth problems for 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the San Rafael High School faculty dining hall.

"This will be a chance for students in the San Rafael area to voice their concerns to the youth commission," said Cohen. "It is the desire of the youth commission to try to better represent youth in the San Rafael area by hearing about their concerns directly."

He said sessions will be scheduled in other parts of the county.

The commission also recommended that $1,000 in county seed money be allocated to the Music Switchboard of Marin, which operates a telephone service at 882 College Avenue, Kentfield. David Hutchinson, director of music switchboard, said his organization serves as a clearing house for young musicians looking for jobs and bands which are looking for members.

The money must be approved by the board of supervisors.

Bridgeway's Widening Continuing

In a matter of days — if the weather holds — Bridgeway will become a four-lane street from Sausalito's northern city limits to Napa Street.

The city council voted last night to accept a right of entry from the Northwestern Pacific Railroad to complete widening of the street on lands the railroad owns on the east side of Bridgeway.

City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger said he hopes work will begin within the next few days on the approximately one-block area, just north of Napa Street, which is still to be widened. At present, there are two southbound lanes, but one northbound lane in that area.

In November, the council awarded a contract for the work to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael, whose low bid was $16,318.

Wohlschlaeger said the right of entry, which the city has been seeking for months, allows the city to begin construction, under certain conditions imposed by the railroad, before a price for the easement has been determined.

The city engineer said he did not know how much the railroad will charge the city for the easements, but said the price will probably be based on several factors, including value of surrounding land.

New Eagle scout

Terra Linda Boys To Get Eagle Ranks

Two members of Boy Scout Troop 76 of Terra Linda will receive scouting's highest honor at a court of honor Jan. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at Christ Presbyterian Church.

Receiving the Eagel rank will be Michael C. Coln, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Olav Coln of 1065 Las Ovejas Avenue, and James P. Kellogg Jr., 17, son of retired Army Lt. Col. and Mrs. Kellogg of 595 Thornwood Terrace.

As an Eagle scout project, Coln prevented erosion on a hillside in Sequoia National Forest. Kellogg worked with retarded children at the Forest Meadows Development Center in San Rafael.

Kellogg, junior assistant scoutmaster of the Terra Linda troop, has also held all other leader positions in the troop. He joined the Boy Scouts in 1964 in Ankara, Turkey, and switched to the Marin troop in 1966.

Coln is a junior at Lick-Wilmerding High School in San Francisco, where he is on a committee which draws up student schedules. His hobby is electronics.

He had been in Cub Scout Pack 76 of Terra Linda before joining the Boy Scouts at age 11.

Reed Policy Hearing Set On School Goals

Public discussion of proposed goals, philosophy and teacher evaluation in Reed School District was assured last night, largely because of intervention of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin.

A statement of goals and philosophy of the district, worked out during a long period by a staff-citizen committee, was presented to the district board meeting by Robert Hayes, committee chairman. Stanley Friese, who as interim superintendent had prepared the board meeting agenda before returning to his job as assistant county superintendent of schools, had recommended its adoption at last night's meeting.

However, Eleanor Martini of the League of Women Voters urged that public hearings be held before the adoption.

"After proper public hearings, goals in education would have a greater impact on our community," she declared. "We want the school goals established by the democratic process."

Trustee Thomas D. Price, saying "the League of Women Voters took my speech," proposed that last night's discussion be considered as the first public hearing, and that copies of the statement be circulated throughout the district and written comments invited, with further hearing and adoption set for the board's second meeting in February. This won approval of his fellow board members.

The League of Women Voters and Reed District Teachers Association both asked delay until the Jan. 19 meeting of adoption of proposed policies on evaluation of teachers. These, among other things, provide that a teacher must serve at least 75 per cent of the working days in three consecutive school years before being considered for permanent tenure.

Shirley Backen of the League of Women Voters objected to provisos that evaluation of teachers be solely by superintendent and principal. The league, she said, feels it should include the teaching staff, plus a measure of student progress as a gauge of the teacher's effectiveness.

Hal Bickel, chairman of the certificated employees council, asked that the evaluation policies be made matters of negotiation.

On board agreement to delay adoption until next meeting to allow further study, Bert Skaggs, executive director of the California Teachers Association's Council of Marin, wanted to know whether discussion of the policies was to be in open board session. "I hope you might direct your negotiators to go into this with the employees' council," he said.

"Does the CTA oppose a board considering matters such as this in open session?" demanded trustee Leo Souza.

Skaggs hastened to say it did not.

Study Of Sewage Plan Necessary

The Tiburon Sanitary District must participate in a study of sewage disposal in Southern Marin but not necessarily the improvement district recently formed by the Marin Municipal Water District, the Tiburon board has been told.

President Robert A. Sterling said the board learned Monday that it does not necessarily have to join the improvement district, set up by the water district to look into consolidating collection of all sewage from Southern Marin.

Sterling said the board had been under the impression that a Dec. 22 decision by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board held that Tiburon must join the Southern Marin district as a condition of the regional board's approval of any construction grant application.

But further study convinced the Tiburon board, Sterling said, that it is required only to join "a subregional plan" and not necessarily the improvement district.

Sterling said his board still is convinced that a tertiary treatment plant is the district's best hope and will continue to fight joining the improvement district.

In connection with this issue, the board approved hiring Corollo Engineers of Oakland to conduct a dispersion study of the effluent from the district's treatment plant on Paradise Drive.

Non-Teaching Pact In Reed District

Reed School District settled its contract with non-teaching employees last night and headed today into what board and teachers hoped would be the final session on teacher contracts for the current school year.

Nancy van Ravenswaay of the Reed District Teachers Association told the board that impasse threatened over one clause in a proposed written contract. She said teachers had no objection to written contracts — "we don't even mind there being a no-strike clause."

The objectionable sentence, said Mrs. van Ravenswaay, is this: "It is expressly understood and agreed that said laws, rules and regulations may be changed during the term of this agreement and that the parties hereto shall be bound by such changes."

"Teachers feel strongly there is really no contract if that clause is unchanged," she said. "A contract in our way of thinking is subject to change only by mutual agreement."

She said the teachers had a legal opinion from a California Teachers Association attorney that the language (prepared by Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel) would make the contract illegal.

Chairman Gordon C. Wright said the board would discuss this with its negotiating council, now consisting of Business Mgr. Victor Butler, acting Supt. Irwin Karp, and Godino, during a closed session. The council was to meet with teacher negotiators after school today.

There was no mention of dispute over salary. The board has offered a 6 per cent raise to those teachers signing the contract.

The Reed School District Board also:

TEACHER RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations of Mrs. Grace Basom and Mrs. Kathleen King, teachers on leave; Patricia O'Callahan, Del Mar School science teacher, and Sara Van Kirk, Reedland Woods School teacher, both of whom have already left, and Mrs. Susan Kline, Reed School teacher, as of the end of this school year.

OTHER RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations of Mrs. Joan Jestadt, Del Mar School teacher aide; William Bindrim, Larry Kaltvedt, Herman Salvisberg, and Levi Harris, custodians, and William Pettit, maintenance man, and hired Mrs. Jacqueline Cloidt as teacher aide; Joseph Collings, John Park, Jess Cabral, and Daniel Williams as custodians, and Peter Senter as maintenance man.

TRANSFERS — Granted permission for Michael Hall to complete the year at Granada School although his parents have moved to Larkspur; denied an interdistrict transfer for children of Dr. and Mrs. Hans A. Burg of Sausalito, approved by the Sausalito district, pending action by the county board of education, but granted the Burg children permission to attend temporarily Reed district schools. Trustee Souza voted against this arrangement, wanting to grant the transfer outright.

Pair To Eye Candidates' Backgrounds

The Reed School District board, its field of candidates for district superintendent winnowed to three, last night named a two-member committee to check closely into the backgrounds of the three finalists.

The decision followed an expression of concern on behalf of the Reed District Teachers Association by teacher Kathleen Jensen, who said, "Teachers are concerned about the need for consistent, educationally sound, responsible leadership."

It came as the district found itself without even an interim superintendent, Stanley Friese having returned to the county schools office Monday on orders of his boss, County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis.

Sitting in as "acting interim superintendent" was Irwin Karp, principal of Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon schools. The board appointed him to continue acting "on a day-to-day basis," with B. J. Dennis, Bel Aire School principal, to fill in as acting principal of the other three schools.

Chairman Gordon C. Wright said he planned to meet with Hollis "to see if we can resolve the interim superintendent problem." The board last month asked Hollis to continue to allow Friese to serve on loan indefinitely, but the county superintendent refused.

Trustees James B. Richwagen and Thomas S. Price were named as the committee to conduct the final investigation of the three superintendent candidates — and to do rescreening of other candidates in case none of the three turns out to be available or acceptable. Their task apparently will include out-of-state travel, as Wright said two of the three finalists are from outside California, with the third a Southern Californian.

Space Widow To Marry Again

EL LAGO, Tex. (UPI)—Pat White, the widow of astronaut Ed White, is engaged to an employe of the space agency.

Mayor Al Ligrani, a divorcee who works in the flight operation director's office at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said Tuesday he gave Mrs. White a diamond on Christmas eve.

Ligrani, 43, said he and Mrs. White, 36, are neighbors. He also said he knew White, who was killed Jan. 27, 1967, when the cabin of his Apollo spacecraft caught fire on a Cape Kennedy launching pad.

Different Shrimp And Sole Dishes

Highlighting with boldness, ripe olives do wonders for fish and seafood dishes. Whether it is shrimp or the delicate sole, the nut-like flavor of the ripe olive enhances these delicacies from the sea and adds special interest to sauces and casseroles.

Shrimp, one of the most favorite of all seafoods, takes on an exotic flair in this Indian style dish. Curried just enough to appeal and accented with the ebony hue of the ripe olive, the sauced shrimp is topped with flaky coconut and browned to golden appeal. Fluffy rice, chutney, and thin slices of cucumber and tomato make perfect accompaniments.

The filet of sole is quick to prepare and lends itself to many ways of serving. For a new twist, spread filets with canned ripe olives. Roll up filets and poach. Then put sole rolls in a shrimp custard sauce and bake. A fascinating casserole with a delicate air.

Then for the informal meal, a platter of tender spaghetti served with a ripe olive-tuna sauce is a family favorite.

The canned ripe olive is a convenient, versatile food and is ready in any season. With nine sizes from which to choose, ripe olives are available as whole unpitted, whole pitted, sliced, or chopped.

SHRIMP TAKES on a exotic flavor with slightly curried sauce and topping of shredded coconut. Rice, chutney and thinly sliced cucumber and tomato are the accompaniments.

RIPE OLIVE BUFFET SHRIMP

- 4 cup minced onion
- ½ cup chopped pared apple
- 1 tablespoon curry powder
- 1 cup chicken broth*
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 cup canned pitted ripe olives
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon half-and-half
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 pound raw shelled deveined shrimp
- ⅔ cup shredded coconut

Prehead oven to 375°F. Mix together bacon, onion, apple, curry powder, broth, lemon juice, and simmer for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Drain olives, and cut in halves if desired. Add to sauce. Blend cornstarch with half-and-half, and stir into sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture has thickened. Set aside. Melt butter in heat proof baking dish. Add shrimp, and bake in preheated oven for 5 to 10 minutes, until pink and cooked through. Spoon ripe olive curry sauce over shrimp and mix lightly. Sprinkle with coconut. Bake about 15 minutes longer, until coconut is lightly toasted. Serve at once from baking dish. Makes about 4 servings.

* Or 1 cup water, combined with 2 chicken bouillon cubes.

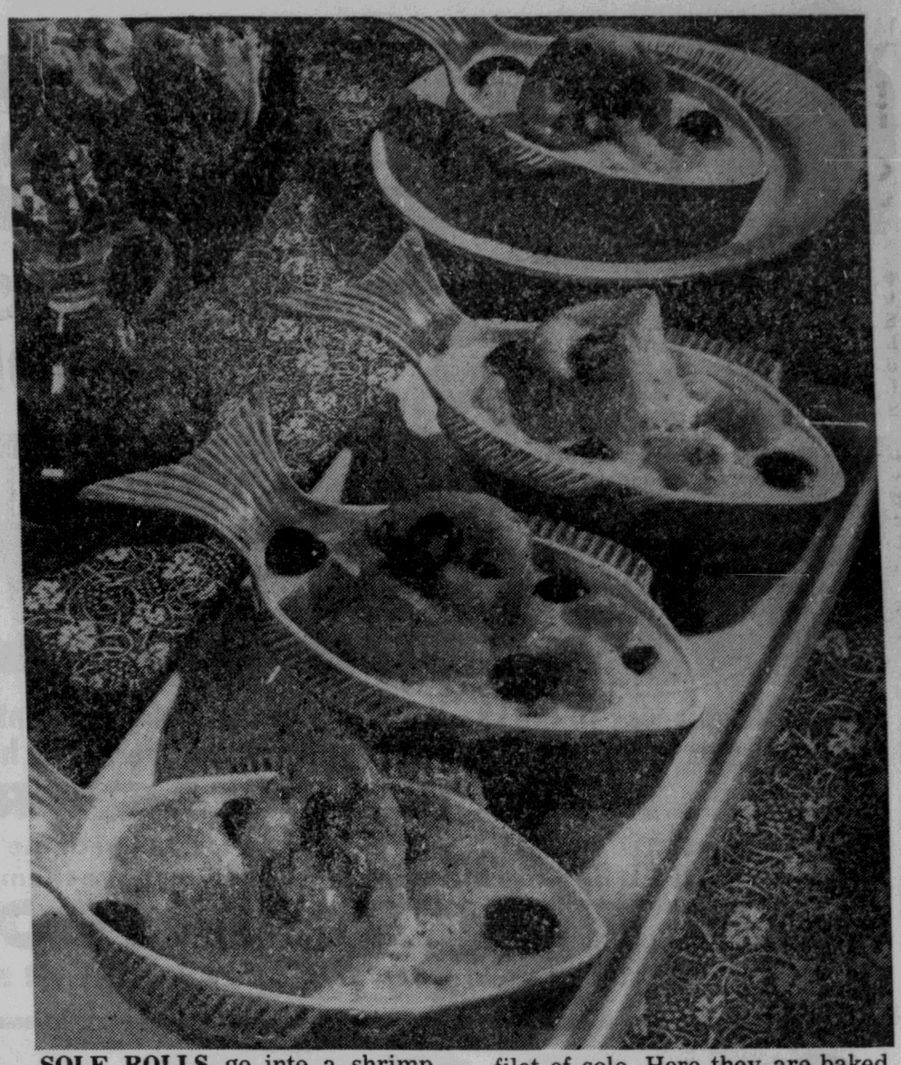
 If frozen shrimp is used, defrost completely and drain well before cooking. If in-shell shrimp is purchased, about 1 pound 5 ounces will give 1 pound after shelling and deveining.

RIPE OLIVE SOLE EN CASSEROLE

- 6 small filets of sole (about 1 pound)
- 1 cup canned pitted ripe olives
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon parsley
- 3 eggs
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon dill weed
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup grated Gruyers cheese
- ¾ cup cooked or canned shrimp

Preheat oven to 350° F. Cut ½ cup of pitted ripe olives into ¼-inch slices. Cut remaining ripe olives into halves. Sprinkle sole with the seasoned salt. Arrange ripe olive slices on solefilets. Sprinkle with parsley. Roll each filet and fasten with a toothpick. Bake in shallow pan for 20 minutes, or until fish is opaque and flakes easily with a fork. Drain well.

Place a rolled filet in center of each of six individual baking dishes. Beat eggs until bubbly. Add salt. Heat milk just to boiling. Stir into eggs with cheese, shrimp and ripe olive halves. Divide mixture among the individual baking dishes. Put dishes in pan containing 1-inch of hot water. Bake for 30 to 35 minutes or until custard is set. Makes 6 servings.



SOLE ROLLS go into a shrimp custard sauce before baking to create this different way to serve filet of sole. Here they are baked in individual serving positions.

Put A Custard Around Bits Of Meats With Vegetables

After days of seven-course dinners, hours of cocktail parties, jars of jam, loaves of homemade bread, dozens of cookies, cakes of all varieties and numerous bottles of wines and liquers, what does one want most? If a loud cry arises for "simple food," and "low calorie dishes," then this light main dish custard may be exactly what you are looking for.

Most people are familiar with dessert custards, but few think to use the same easy concept for a main dish. The easy concept? Add beaten eggs to a thin white sauce, stir in seasonings, pour into a casserole and bake. The variations are many.

Try bits of smoked thin-sliced ham with diced carrots in the smooth custard. No other seasonings are needed, because the sugar cured, smoked ham imparts a special savory flavor. Also try thin-sliced turkey with chopped broccoli or thin-sliced beef with spinach.

Ham Carrot Custard, Turkey Broccoli Custard or Beef Custard Florentine are all for the calorie counters in the crowd. None contains more than 175 calories for a satisfying one cup serving. With this versatile dish you can practically lose weight while you eat.

HAM CARROT CUSTARD
(175 calories per cup)

- 1 package (3 oz.) thin-sliced ham
- 1 can (1 lb.) diced carrots
- 1½ cups skim milk
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Dash pepper
- 4 eggs, beaten

Preheat oven to 350°. Tear ham into small pieces. Drain carrots. In a medium size saucepan, combine milk and flour. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in ham and carrots. Cool slightly. Stir in eggs. Pour into a deep 1-quart casserole. Place casserole in a larger pan, containing 1 inch water. Bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 1 hour. Makes 4 servings.

TURKEY BROCCOLI CUSTARD
(170 calories per cup)

Substitute 1 package (3 oz.) thin-sliced turkey breast meat and 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped broccoli. Pre-cook broccoli and drain well before adding to milk sauce.

BEEF CUSTARD FLORENTINE
(160 calories per cup)

Substitute 1 package (3 oz.) thin-sliced beef and 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach. Pre-cook spinach and drain well before adding to milk sauce.

Chicken Romaine Salad Is Tasty For Post-Holiday Weight Watcher

Salads are the weight-watcher's best friend. A crisp main-dish salad can be the basis for a nutritious, low-calorie meal.

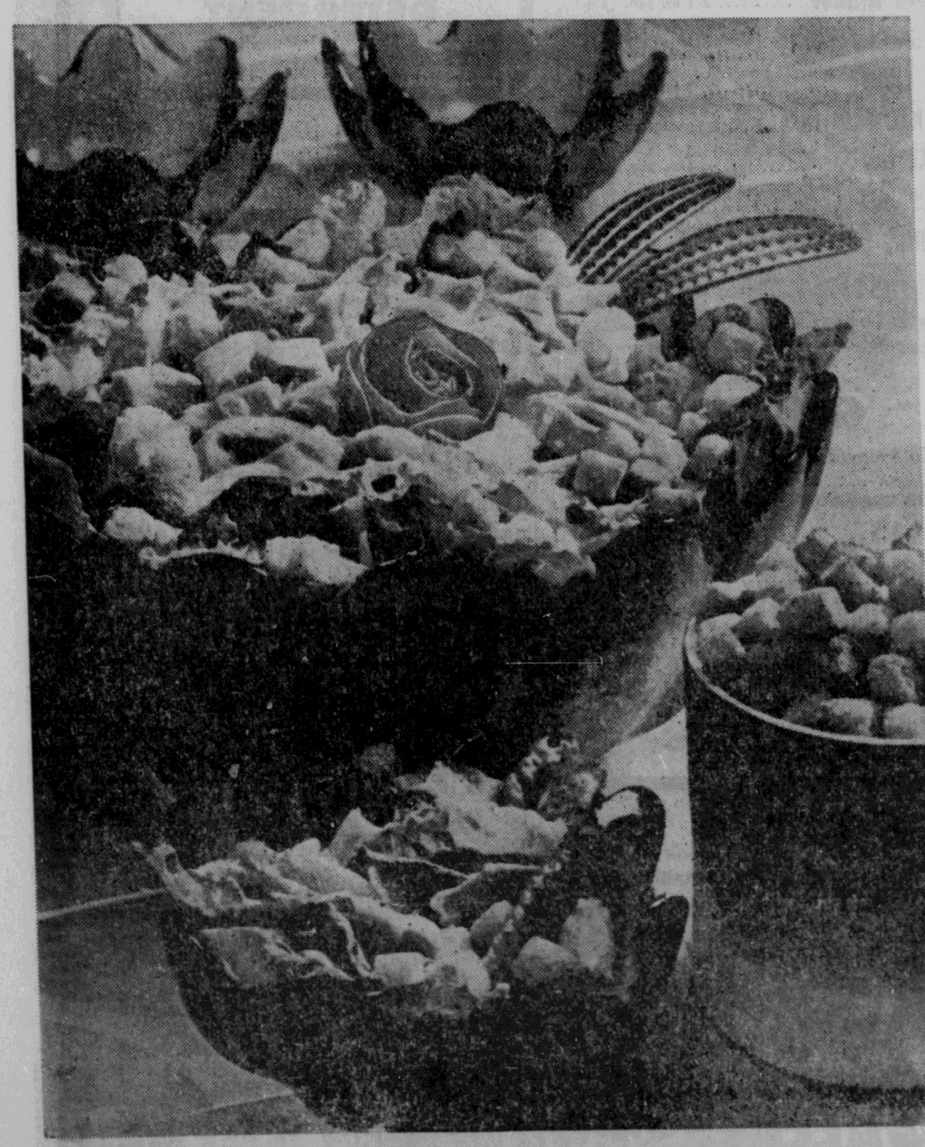
The sharp, butter-nut taste of romaine gives unique flavor to Chicken-Romaine Salad. Chicken, Parmesan cheese, and crisp croutons mingle with the romaine for a flavor treat even non-dieters will enjoy.

Center a tomato rose atop Chicken-Romaine Salad and serve to luncheon guests. Dieters can eat heartily because the salad contains only 121 calories per serving.

To make Chicken-Romaine Salad you'll need:

- 1 head romaine, torn in bite-size pieces (8 cups)
- 2 cups cubed cooked chicken
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- ⅔ cup low-calorie Italian salad dressing
- 4 teaspoons tarragon vinegar
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup croutons

Combine romaine, chicken, and Parmesan. Mix salad dressing and next three ingredients. Toss half of the mixture with croutons; don't soak. Add to salad with remaining dressing.



EVEN NON-dieters will like this Chicken Romaine Salad that includes Parmesan cheese and crisp croutons. The salad contains only 121 calories per serving.

Pork Roast For Change

This pork entree accented with cinnamon apple rings and sliveredalmonds will be a taste treat and a family favorite.

For a nutritionally balanced meal serve this pork loin entree with browned potatoes, buttered green peas, celery and carrot sticks, hot biscuits, sherbet and a favorite beverage.

GLAZED PORK ROAST WITH APPLE RINGS

- 4 to 5 pound boneless pork loin roast
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 jar (10 ounces) apple jelly
- ¼ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 2 sticks cinnamon (about 3 inches)
- 6 whole cloves
- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- 4 firm cooking apples
- ¼ cup sugar
- Red food coloring

4 firm cooking apples
¼ cup sugar
Red food coloring

Rub outside of roast with salt. If a meat thermometer is used insert it in center of lean portion of the loin away from fat. Place roast on rack in shallow uncovered baking pan. Roast in slow oven (325°F.) until fork tender, about 3 hours, or until loin reaches an internal temperature of 170°F.

Prepare glaze and apple rings. Combine jelly, corn syrup, water vinegar and spices. Heat and stir until jelly is melted. Simmer gently 8 to 10 minutes; remove cinnamon sticks and cloves. Combine ½ cup of glaze and the almonds; brush glaze over meat several times during last 30 minutes of roasting time. Pare, core and cut apples into slices ½ to ¾ inches thick.

Add sugar to remaining glaze; tint as desired color with red food coloring. Heat in skillet until syrup is hot and bubbly, stirring constantly. Cook apple slices in syrup just until tender so they still hold their shape. Serve apples and remaining glaze with roast. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Mountaineer Linda Has Also Modeled

By PAT BALMES

Linda Griffin looks more like a model than a mountaineer, but the Stanford University senior trekked in the foothills of the Himalayas, scaled Half Dome in Yosemite and climbed Mounte Blanc in Switzerland last year. "It's really not her life style," says her mother, a pediatrician. "Linda is a very fragile girl."

The willowy bonde has been a model, too, at Emilio Pucci's Italian villa where he creates colorful sportswear on his models. A house and fashion show model, Linda remembers, "We modeled bikinis in cold weather, shivering." She remained in Italy for three months to model, after studying six months during her junior year at Stanford's Italian Villa. There she studied international economics, Italian and art with both Stanford and Italian professors.

LINDA'S FATHER initiated Audubon Canyon Ranch Wildlife Sanctuary project at Stinson Beach 10 years ago and has been chairman for the past two years. A member of the scientific expedition that explored Kipahulu Valley on Maui, Hawaii, Dr. Griffin helped add the biological preserve to Haleakela National Park.

"Before he would marry my mother," grins Linda, "she had to go on a camping trip. She was reluctant." She kids her mother that she'd better start training for Sierra Club's Nepal outing in the spring that Martin Griffin will lead. A pediatrician, Mrs. Griffin works for Marin County Health Department's Child Health Conference, a clinic held regularly in different towns for parents under a certain income.

During high school, Linda "explored Mt. Tamalpais thoroughly" with Katharine Branson High School's hiking club and while at the American School in Lugano, Switzerland, she went on long hikes, staying in mountain huts overnight.

This year the Stanford senior has spent spring and summer in three of the world's mountain ranges. In April she trekked with her father's group by elephant, landrover, air and, mostly, on foot from Nepal's Indian border to Tibet's southern border. They traveled about 100 miles, from 400 feet elevation in the rhino country of swamps and jungle to fields of scrub rhododenron at 13,000 feet.

"DAD WAS leader and doctor for the natural history trek. A doctor was more necessary than a leader for the 10 women and eight men," Linda remarks. The trekkers took tablets to prevent malaria. Dr. Martin treated a village chief along the way. Returning along the same route "he almost had to set up a clinic because so many villagers wanted to consult the doctor. Next time he'll take many more medical supplies," says Linda.

"We had inspection daily to see that our toes were protected. The Sherpa guides go straight downhill. They never heard of switchbacks! That's awfully hard on your toes," says the hiker. To break in her boots Linda began to wear them as soon as she knew she was going to Nepal. "I wore my boots day in and day out. They looked funny with my bathrobe or a nice dress, but Dad said it was important to get my boots broken in and to know my equipment."

Nepal attracted the naturalist group because it has the world's greatest concentration of rhododenron species. The April trek was timed for blooms at different elevations against a backdrop of 24,000 foot peaks and ice fields, and the migration of the large, colorful mountain birds.

The party flew to the birthplace of Buddha, The Terai, a National Game Refuge on the Indian border where the last of Nepal's rhinoceros and tigers are found. In three days on elephant back and in a landrover, they saw 163 species of birds and flished out a dozen rhino.

"WE STAYED at an American-managed rustic lodge on stilts owned by the King of Nepal. Water was hand pumped up to the rooms. You could hear through the woven-mat walls. Our lights were kerosene lanterns; highly flamable! We left the hotel at 5 a.m. each morning, coolest time in the low jungle area, to see birds, rhinos, wild deer and buffalo," recounts Linda.

Game wardens in this National Wild Life Refuge have orders to shoot game poachers on sight, but they seem helpless against local cattle grazers, who drive their water buffalo into the preserve daily, and tree croppers, who cut down branches for animal fodder. They will strip this rich forest and meadows of 15-foot elephant grass to a sunbaked area of low grass and little wildlife, Linda believes.

Leave-taking of the game preserve took two days. The traditional heavy drinking of the Hindu New Year prevented pilots flying into the grass shack and windsock airport. For two days the trekkers commuted by elephant back and jeep between Tree Tops Lodge and the air strip to see if the plane had finally come, going back and forth twice a day.

"Outside the hotel it was like the Renaissance Faire," she recalls. The Kathmandu Valley, crossroads of migrating birds, is at four and five thousand feet elevation. It reminded Linda of Marin's green hills.

"WE TOOK jeeps up to Trisuli Bazaar from Kathmandu and started the 10-day trek. I walked ahead with the scout-interpreter to find the next campsite," says Linda, a fast walker and youngest among the trekkers. Linda carried a day pack: lunch, sweater, rain gear and some Nepalese books.

"We carried candy for kids, who preferred cigarettes and balloons. Thirty-six porters carried tents, supplies and bedrolls. The 10 Sherpa guides pitched camp and cooked meals. The Sherpas loved the Frisbees Dad brought. These mountain tribesmen from the Everest region were first employed as guides by Sir Edmund Hilary on his Everest assault.

"Once the Sherpas stopped at an inn to cook dinner for us. We gave the village children balloons and sang 'Ol' MacDonald

SWINGING A prayer wheel, Linda Griffin of Kentfield models a Tibetan hat and necklace from the "mysterious, medieval world of Kathmandu, capital of Nepal." Linda trekked with a naturalist group led by her father, Dr. L. Martin Griffin, in the foothills of the Himalayas last summer. Returning, she scaled Half Dome in Yosemite and then flew to Switzerland to climb Monte Blanc, Europe's highest mountain.

President Plans To Put Women In High Places Says An Aide

By HELEN THOMAS

Frederick V. Malek, special assistant to the President in personnel, says "we should have more" women in ranking jobs. He says that a woman will be picked for her job in the future "not because she's a woman, but because she is good."

"We want good people," he said. "We're going to find them."

IN A women's liberation sense, Malek says, "I share the philosophy that we're under utilizing a great reservoir of talent.

As for himself, Malek says his wife is "very happy to be a housewife."

Nixon has appointed about a dozen women to the big jobs.

EVEN WOMEN who supported him in the past presidential election are disappointed with the administration's record in some respects. Their impact on his administration seems small although the President himself professes not to see it that way.

There are handicaps on the other side. Persuading a woman to drop everything and accept a top post in government is not easy. Women of great talent often are committed to their homes, their towns, their own environment.

President Lyndon B. Johnson promised at the outset of his term that he would appoint 50 women to important posts. He made a good start. But no President has approached the record of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt —who appointed Frances Perkins as secretary of labor — and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who named Oveta Culp Hobby to his Cabinet as secretary of health, education and welfare.

One woman who does sit in on the White House decision-making process is Virginia Knauer, Nixon's consumer affairs adviser. Mrs. Knauer is at the White House every morning at 7 to attend the regular staff meeting.

Foam Ski Boot

The big stir in ski wear concerns the anatomically molded ski boot. No two pairs are alike. They're made by injecting plastic foam into a ski boot and then shaping it to the contours of the right and left foot. Within 15 minutes, skier removes cast. After 12 hours, he has a ski boot that's said to allow him perfect control on the slopes.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

Great Expectations For Ankle Length Told By Top Designer

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK,

NEW YORK (UPI) —Will the ankle-length dress, for wearing to the office and everywhere else, pull the nation's garment district out of the doldrums next fall and winter?

The question isn't even academic to designer Shannon Rodgers, who's counting on American women going for it in a big way.

Rodgers turns out creations for the firm of Jerry Silverman, a part of the Warnaco fashion conglomerate. Silverman's firm does $25 million a year at wholesale prices and racked up a 10 per cent increase in 1970.

CONSIDERING THE generally depressed state of the garment industry, that's a good track record. So when Rodgers speaks about ankle-length dresses being accpted, it's worth a listen. Rodgers made his prediction about ankle-length dresses while participating in apanel discussion at opening sessions of the New York Couture Business Council's 56th national "press week!"

He's putting his drawing board, scissors, needles, pins and thread where his mouth is. He said there are plenty of ankle-length dresses for day in the fall and winter collection he's working on right now.

If other designers follow suit, the next question is will yet another hemline hassle develop, a la mini-midi?

Rodgers doesn't think so. In an interview he expressed great expectations for the ankle-length dress for daytime, noting that already it is pushing the pantsuit off its popularity perch on the cocktail and dinner party circuit.

"Women will like it for day because it looks so darn well," he said.

Min Matheson, head of the label division, also was optimistic about the future of the American garment industry. Despite the closing of some firms, she said "the picture is not all black."

"Ww are out to sell great American fashion," she said.

However, the tone of a report from Vincent Monte-Sano, council president, was pessimistic.

He said the fashion industry is "in its darkest period since the depression (of the 30s)." He blamed oversell of the midi by segments of the fashion industry, including manufacturers, retailers and the fashion press.

Blackwell Announces '10 Worst'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Saying it was hard to name only 10 from "the millions of fashion mistakes made by women in 1970," fashion designer Mr. Blackwell today announced his 11th annual list of the world's 10 "Worst Dressed" women.

At the top was Sophia Loren, whom Blackwell described as "A 1950 B movie costumed by Polly Adler."

Others in order, with Blackwell's descriptions, were:

—Shelly Winters, "The skinny-dip look on a stuffed sausage."

—Marlo Thomas, "Halloween everyday."

—Faye Dunaway, "Mulligan stew. . .has Faye done-away with fashion forever?"

Cynthia Anne Hiatt To Be Bride Of H. E. McFarland

The engagement of Cynthia Anne Hiatt to S/Sgt. H. E. McFarland has been announced by her parents Col. and Mrs. Robert C. Hiatt of Novato.

She is a graduate of Novato High School and attended the College of Marin, Brandon's Professional Schools in San Francisco and Church College of Hawaii in Laise, Oahu, Hawaii. Cynthia is a member of the Order of Eastern Star and is an employee of the display advertising department of the Independent-Journal. Robert C. Hiatt II of Novato is her brother.

Sergeant McFarland, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hirom McFarland, is also a graduate of Novato High School. Recently returned from two and one half years in Viet Nam, he is stationed at Ft. Hood, Tex. with the Army. Jerry Taylor of Corte Madera is his brother.

"Brings a new flavor to a favorite recipe...

That's what I like about LAMB."

Why search for brand new ways to serve the same thing? Reach for one of your own favorite main dish recipes – and simply switch the meat to lamb! There's a great variety of protein-rich cuts you can choose. This low-cost bone-in lamb stew is a winter-time favorite at our house. Here's my recipe.

BONE-IN LAMB STEW (makes 4 servings)

2 tablespoons butter
4 lamb neck slices, about ¾-inch thick
2 medium-sized carrots, sliced
2 medium-sized onions, sliced
2 medium-sized green peppers, chopped
2 medium-sized tomatoes, chopped
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt butter. Add lamb and cook over low heat until browned on both sides. Add carrots, onions and peppers and cook 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes or until lamb is tender.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

They Saved For Years But May Never Get Started On Cruise

DEAR HELEN:

Looking back over 40 years, you can see the mistakes — when it's too late to change them.

I earned good wages. My wife is a good manager, so I let her take care of the money. As the years went on, we went out less and less. There was always an excuse — the children needed clothes, the trip "wasn't worth it," but mainly — "We're saving for retirement so we can enjoy ourselves."

So we sat in front of the television, watched other people's travel movies, and our bank account grew. At first I tried to persuade my wife that spending for amusement wasn't a mortal sin, but the few vacations we took were never "right." She'd get tense and worried — like I was robbing her of her old age.

After awhile, the virus took hold of me, too. We'd have that pot of gold when we got to the end of the rainbow, and then — we'd live.

Last year I retired. My wife fought against it. "The money," she wailed. "What will we do without your paycheck?" I have an adequate retirement fund — over $500 a month — plus a big savings account, enough to see us through until we're 110. Inasmuch as we won't live that long, I expected to go go on the trips we denied ourselves and the children all those years.

Or did I really? If my wife suddenly changed her tune and suggested a 'round-the-world cruise, I must be truthful and say I'd find excuses to stay home. The habit of years is too great. I no longer yearn for the travelling and enjoyment that I once thought would be great. It's too much trouble, making plans — and hearing her shudder at every check we write.

Advice won't help, Helen. I'm writing this only as a warning to young couples. Spend as you go. Don't save it for that someday or you'll get into such a rut that someday will never come. —MISER AGAINST MY WILL

DEAR MISER:

Advice might help — if your wife were advised by the children, her doctor, pastor, friends — and you asked the advice of a travel agency who would take the planning hassle off your hands.

Rise up and assert yourself, man. You might be surprised how fast a woman changes, when her husband takes the reins. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We moved here last spring and the neighbors helped a lot. I got a job and, when vacation came, the lady next door started looking out for our children, aged 14 and 15. She has a teen-age girl and boy. They also have a swimming pool with a high fence around it.

One day last summer I got sick and came home from work early. I stopped at my neighbor's to let the children know, and was I shocked. Our two girls were swimming with the other two teen-agers, all nude. Just as I got to the pool, the mother came out of the house, also nude.

Naturally, I found another place for our children to stay while I worked. Now we're thinking about selling our house, as we can't condone this depraved kind of goings-on.

What bothers me is our children thought so little of it that they didn't mention this so-called skinny-dipping. And the woman had the nerve to ask my husband and me to swim. I thought they were such great people — before. I've said nothing to them — but:

Are we right in leaving? — S.F.

DEAR S.:

Nudists aren't depraved — they simply have different attitudes about clothing. If you don't like skinny-dipping, stay out of their back yard, but don't feel threatened. Their moral values are probably as strong as yours. — H.

She Made Three Mountain Trips Within Four Months Last Year

Had A Farm,' because they would recognize the animal noises," recounts Linda. At that village they saw horsemen and tried to rent their horses. They were refused. Horses are so rare and valuabel in Nepal they are trained to buck off anyone but their owners.

THEY LEARNED there are no cats in Nepal because they are thought to be witches and all killed.

After returning to Marin, Linda climbed Half Dome in Yosemite in June. "My friend went up the hard way. But I went up the easy way, with several other people," says Linda.

And in July Linda found herself in the center of the Swiss Alps. She had been recruited by her father's friend, Leo LeBon of a travel agency in Oakland which arranges tours for mountain climbers and handles all overseas travel for Sierra Club, to hostess at a ski and climbing lodge there.

"I went ahead to Chamonix to open the chalet and hire a cook and maids," says Linda. They planned to climb Monte Blanc, Europe's highest mountain. "The French call the climb 'facile', but you'd better be in good shape," she warns.

TO PREPARE for the climb, Linda first climbed a small mountain. Another day she hiked a path that wraps around Monte Blanc at 7,000 feet, with some French boys and a girl.

"We had to give up because of a blizzard in July!"

On the two-day climb of Monte Blanc, Linda accompanied a group of 20 women and 180 men. "There was a lady who was 60 and a young French boy," she said. By lift, train and walking they arrived at the hut at Gouter at 13,000 feet. "The moonrise and sunrise were beautiful from that hut. We rose at 4 a.m., planning to be at the top of Monte Blanc by 8:30 a.m. and down again before afternoon, when avalanches sometimes occur. When we came to an avalanche corridor, we roped together and ran! Some Italians were yelling, causing rocks to fall."

These three mountain treks within four months triply confirmed Linda's interest in conservation. This Christmas the co-ed solved the problem of Santa Clara County people who bought live trees but had no place to replant them after the holidays. Linda arranged for trees to be collected on Stanford's campus and claimed by Santa Clara County Parks and Recreation Department for replanting in parks, along highways and other areas needing landscaping.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Counseling Services Free Debtors Of Overwhelming Problems

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — If you think you have financial problems — and who doesn't? — consider the situation that confronted one young factory worker who came into a credit counseling service.

Although his weekly paycheck was only $75, he was paying $40 of it in alimony to his former while trying to support himself and his new wife on the rest. In addition, he owed $3,800 to various creditors.

He was thinking of going into bankruptcy so he could wipe out his debts and start over again. As a last resort, he visited the credit counseling service, and now he is glad he did.

THE MAN who heard his case at the counseling service immediately got some of the largest monthly payments drastically reduced under a plan whereby they could be paid off over a longer period of time.

Other parts of the plan, to which the credit victim and his wife agreed, included having his new wife look for a job, having the former wife accept lower payments and having the man seek overtime work on his job.

What the counseling service did was to set up an arrangement which, if followed, would free this man of his overwhelming debt and thereby save him from worse problems that often arise because of financial difficulties.

Financial problems are the most frequent cause of marital problems, and overextended credit is the top cause of financial problems. At the root, of course, is a lack of consumer education.

A ONE-STOP credit counselor cannot re-educate a credit victim, but he can do a lot to help such people escape from the trap once they fall into it. In some cases, all that is needed is advice. In other cases, the problems are insurmountable.

Experience with credit counseling services in 121 cities where they now operate shows that about half of the people who come in are put on a pro-rating system for paying off debts.

The pro-rating system is based on a frank recognition of a debtor's bills and a sincere interest in getting out of debt. The counseling service can often make arrangements that an ordinary citizen could not do in getting payments reduced and stretched over a longer period.

For many consumers, the trip to the counseling service is the last stop before bankruptcy or worse. In some cases, less than 2 per cent, bankruptcy is advised as the only alternative left.

BUT THE main purpose of the service is to help people avoid bankruptcy. This works to the benefit of both the consumer himself and to the merchants, bankers and other businessmen who put up the money to pay for the service.

The nation-wide system is operated by the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, Inc., located at 1819 H Street nw., Washington, D.C., 20006. The foundation is a non-profit organization sponsored by manufacturers, distributors, retailers, lending institutions and insurance companies.

Until recently, the foundation has not sought to publicize its work very much for fear that it would arouse the hopes of more people than its various counseling services could handle efficiently.

But with the addition of 30 new services this year and a sweeping change in personnel, the foundation is preparing to eventually expand the present 121 programs into 800.

That is a monumental project, but so is the credit problem in the United States.

Outdoor Art Club Is Sponsoring Regional Planning Discussion

A public panel discussion "Balanced Housing, Open Space and Mill Valley in a Regional Plan" will be sponsored by the civics and conservation section of the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the clubhouse.

Moderator will be Harvey Bragdon, director of community development for Mill Valley before he became Marin County chief of current planning.

Panelists will be Robert Burton, chairman of the Mill Valley planning commission; Douglas Ferguson, who has served as attorney for the Nature Conservancy and as chairman of the Ecumenical Council and sponsor of low cost housing; and John Blayney of Livingston and Blayney, city and regional planners.

Purpose of this meeting will be to establish priorities for the most urgent problems facing Mill Valley and Marin County and to formulate action programs for local governmental and civic organizations to implement or support.

A SPEAKER and dog from Guide Dogs for the Blind will show how the trainer and dog work together on the program of the Novato Federated Women's Club meeting tomorrow.

A coffee and social hour will begin at 10 a.m., and a business meeting at 10:30 will be followed by the program. Luncheon will follow at noon at the Alvarado Inn. Mrs. Claude Lewin is program chairman.

THE TAMALPAIS Centre Woman's Club will meet Friday at 2 p.m. to hear "A Trip To South America" with Ward and Miriam Austin.

The club's executive board will meet at 11 a.m., and there will be a 1 p.m. business meeting. Tea chairman for the guest day gathering is Mrs. G. B. Kenny assisted by Mmes. O. C. Houghton, A. P. Kilpatrick, E. D. Lewis and H. S. Peters.

AN ANTIQUE show and sale to benefit the Tamalpais Chapter fo the American Field Service will be held Friday and Saturday from 1 to 10 p.m. and from 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael.

THE WOMEN'S Society of Christian Service of the United Methodist Church in Novato will view a film concerning ecology, narrated by Lorne Greene with background music by Skitch Henderson at its meeting tomorrow.

The business meeting and pledge service to be held in the church sanctuary will begin at 10 a.m. with luncheon to be served at noon.

A THANK you party for workers of St. Hilary's parish in Tiburon will be held at Lydon Hall of the school on Saturday at 10 a.m.

A brunch will follow. Mrs. Lloyd Bentley is chairman.

A DANCE for single adults will be held Saturday at 9 p.m. in the Petaluma Veteran's Memorial Building in Petaluma. Sponsors are the Socialites Singles Club, and information is available from M.E. Van Hoosen at Van's Credit Jewelers in Novato.

ARLENE SNYDER, new noble grand of Mill Valley's Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305, and her staff of officers will be installed Saturday in a joint ceremony with officers of Mt. Tamalpais Lodge 399, IOOF of Mill Valley at 8 p.m. in the Mill Valley Odd Fellows Hall.

Blythedale officers to be installed with Miss Snyder are Mmes. Ethel Skinner, past noble grand; Steven Bednarz, vice noble grand; Phyllis Nordgren, financial secretary; Jean Snyder, recording secretary; and Albert Hughes, treasurer.

Mt. Tamalpais officers to be installed are Barry Chaney, past noble grand; Roland Healy, noble grand; John Little, vice noble grand; Christ Loser, recording secretary; Herbert Maxey, financial secretary; and William Edmunson, treasurer.

McNEAR ELEMENTARY school Parent-Teacher Association is having its monthly afternoon children's movie matinee Saturday in the multi-purpose room of the school on Sunnyslope Avenue in Petaluma.

Two showings, each 89 minutes in length, will be held of "Hey There It's Yogi Bear" beginning at 12:30 p.m. and at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Carl Gerrits is movie chairman. Refreshements will be sold.

Lynn Ann Regalia Exchanges Vows With James Sloan In San Rafael

Carol Ann Regalia was her sister's maid of honor and Sandra Ann Scheiner of Novato was the bridesmaid. Charles Byrl Sloan of Petaluma was his brother's best man. Seating the guests were Charles Van Schalscha of Rancho Cordova and John Giromini of Santa Venetia.

The couple are living in Long Beach.

Both are graduates of Terra Linda High School and she has been employed by Salomon Brothers in San Francisco. James is serving with the Navy at Long Beach.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byrl Sloan of Santa Venetia and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario J. Regalia of Terra Linda. She is the sister of Sally, Judy and Patty Regalia.

Mrs. Lucien Libarle Leader For St. Anthony's Farm Auxiliary

Elected to be the first president of St. Anthony's Farm Auxiliary is Mrs. Lucien "Red" Libarle of Petaluma. The auxiliary was organized last April and created for the purpose of decorating the new mens' facilities at the farm, located on the Bodega Highway west of Petaluma.

In addition to this project the women hope to assist in the gradual rehabilitation of the men who seek guidance from St. Anthony's. Since its inception the auxiliary has collected blankets, pillows, furniture and clothing for the farm. Individual Christmas gifts and a complete wardrobe including shoes for each man are now being gathered by members from proceeds netted from last month's fund raising effort, a luncheon at the farm. Any woman from either Marin or Sonoma County is invited to join.

Mrs. Libarle is also active in the Petaluma Community Guild, Santa Rosa Symphony League, Hillcrest Hospital Auxiliary and the Catholic Social Service, Petaluma Unit.

A native of San Francisco, Emily Libarle attended Santa Rosa Junior College and St. Luke's School of Nursing in San Francisco. She and her husband own a laundry and are the parents of Mrs. Warren Hinckle III; Daniel, Marc and Jeff Libarle, 17. Her pastimes include reading, music, decorating and travel.

St. Vincent Club Leader

"To give financial support to both our grammar and high school is the purpose of the St. Vincent's Mothers Club," says Mrs. Charles L. Matteri, now serving as president.

A 13 year member Evelyn Matteri served as vice president last year. She invites any mother with children attending either of the two private parochial schools to join the organization.

The club's annual bazaar, held in November, attracts more than 400 shoppers. Members are also considering another fund raising event for spring.

Born in San Francisco Mrs. Matteri has lived in Sonoma County 44 years and is a graduate of both St. Vincent's Grammar and High Schools. She and her husband, a creamery worker at Petaluma Cooperative Creamery, are the parents of Kathy, 18, Susan, 17, Marie, 15, Linda, 14, Peggy, 11, and David, 8. All six children attend the same schools that their mother did.

Board Turns Down Draft Instruction

The San Rafael Board of Education last night agreed that although draft counseling may be a needed course at San Rafael High School, a young teacher who has been involved in the peace movement is not the man to teach it.

The board upheld earlier decisions by officials at the school turning down an appeal by Richard Delgado to teach a "mini-course" concerning the ins and outs of the Selective Service Act.

School Principal Alan W. Ellsberg pointed out that Delgado recently had written an article in the high school newspaper describing how to get a medical deferment. Ellsberg said the duty of the school was to "educate not to indoctrinate."

He described young Delgado, however, as a good and impartial mathematics teacher.

Board members also questioned whether it might not be more effective to offer draft information either in a civics class or through school counselors and instructed the administration to present further information.

In other action last night, board members described their meetings with faculties of all the district's schools where they heard such large and small gripes as stopped up sinks and a need for reading programs.

The board also approved an approximately $5,000 expenditure for improvements at West End School, including carpeting halls and the library and moving library books into the hall in order to allow the library to be used for other activities.

Board members Carl J. Brown and John C. Pfeiffer said last night they will not run for re-election, and Herman L. Childress said he doubted that he would run.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Reduced Charge

Guy P. Runnels, 21, of no known address, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing a device for smoking marijuana.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. set sentencing for Jan. 29.

Runnels was earlier charged with possessing a marijuana cigarette when he was arrested Oct. 20 outside the home of a Larkspur man who had complained to police about a prowler.

11 Health Agencies Plan Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco area chapters of 11 national health agencies announced Tuesday they will hold a combined fund-raising campaign.

Such a campaign would be in competition with the United Bay Area Crusade which has said it is stopping contributions to a number of its one-time members. The Crusade did not name the agencies it had dropped.

No date was set for the health campaign.

Agencies joined in the new drive are the American Cancer Society, the Arthritis Foundation, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the American Heart Association, the Kidney Foundation, the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., the National Association for Retarded Children, the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, the United Cerebral Palsy group, the Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Indian Elections

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Elections Commissioner S.P. Sen Verma announced today India will hold elections for a new parliament March 1 instead of Feb. 26 in an effort to allow more time for campaigning.

Roofing Firm Hit For Pollution Acts

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Bay Area Air Pollution Control Board is asking Superior Court to shut down a roofing company it contends has been in "continual violation" of the law for six years.

In an unprecedented move on Tuesday, the board called the Lloyd A. Fry Roofing Co. of San Leandro the most chronic air polluter in the district.

Judge Robert Croninger rejected a request for a temporary injunction and set Jan. 21 for a hearing into the merits of the case.

Mathew Walker, the district's legal officer, said the suit aims at shutting the company until it installs anti-pollution devices.

Fry spokesmen said it would take from six months to eight months to install $100,000 worth of equipment but Walker said even those devices would not bring Fry into compliance with new anti-pollution laws.

So far the district has fined Fry $85,000—alleging 170 violations, each with a maximum fine of $500. The company has appealed the fines.

The company makes paper felt impregnated with tar for the manufacture of shingles.

"They have an oily mist coming out of their stack which settles to the ground and gives people in the neighborhood headaches," Walker asserted.

Winter Program Signups Due

Signups are being taken for San Anselmo's winter parks and recreation program. Classes still open include judo, folk guitar, bowling, dog obedience, arts and crafts, dressmaking, drama, music appreciation and tennis, plus the tiny tots and dancercise programs.

Registration is at city hall.

Gore To Seek Baker Ouster

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Former Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., pledged Tuesday to work diligently in 1972 to defeat Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the man Gore feels organized his defeat at the polls in November.

"Senator Baker organized the campaign to take me out of the Senate in 70. I expect to organize a campaign to take him out in 72," Gore told newsmen.

In the meantime, Gore said, he would be on the faculty of Vanderbilt University on a part-time basis and had received offers from other Tennessee schools of a similar nature.

He said he would visit Harvard University next spring for two weeks as a visiting lecturer in the political science department.

Welfare Home Claimed Damaged

DAILY Independent-Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1971 19

By LARRY MOWELL

A San Francisco woman has claimed that a San Rafael home she rented to a welfare family a year ago in "good, clean condition" has been left in such a state of disrepair and disarray it would cost $10,000 to fix it up.

Sylvera M. C. Sobel, landlady of the house at 1312 Third Street, said she evicted the tenants after her house was abated as a health hazard. The house, she said, must be sold because of its unrentable condition.

A recent inspection by an Independent-Journal reporter found the cellar and rear balcony of the house crammed with trash. Filth caked walls, ceilings and floors. The icebox contained three trays of picked chicken bones and an empty soft drink carton.

The yard of the aging, brown-shingled building was an obstacle course of rusted bicycle parts and soggy lumber. Clothing and household furnishings were strewn about, left behind by the residents.

"They just live like animals," Mrs. Sobel said of her evicted tenants, Wilma Litteral, three of her children in their teens, and a grandchild.

The Litteral family, now staying in a San Rafael motel, has a history of scrapes with the law and health authorities. Mrs. Litteral was placed on a year's probation on October 10, 1969, for allowing a public nuisance to exist at her residence, then at a different location.

One condition was that she have weekly garbage collections.

Mrs. Sobel blamed the county Department of Public Social Services for the condition of her house, which, she claims, was damaged and cluttered with garbage because welfare workers have been "too nice" to the Litterals.

She said no garbage had been collected because garbage bills were not paid.

The Litterals, according to their social worker, Mary Cutler, could not afford about $4.50 a month for garbage removal after payment of $200-a-month rent. (The I-J sought to determine how much Mrs. Litteral receives in monthly welfare payments, but the Marin County Counsel's Office said the information is confidential under state law.)

A county official said there are hundreds of complaints about garbage accumulation in Marin every year.

Maurice B. Scott, supervising sanitarian of the county health department, said cases such as the Litteral's are not uncommon. Last March, for instance, a home in Santa Venetia was abated for a wall of trash around the structure and homes in Bolinas have caused complaints to the county board of supervisors.

Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, said that complaints about garbage accumulated by welfare residents are received by her office less than once a month.

Added to the garbage and filth problem that forced the health department to abate the Litteral residence is the threat that another low cost residence will be lost.

Officials throughout the county have lamented the loss of low-cost residences replaced by businesses, but that may be the fate of the Sobel property.

"I couldn't afford to fix it up. We will just have to sell it to somebody who wants the lot," Mrs. Sobel said.

Mrs. Cutler doubted there was $10,000 damage done by the Litterals. She said there was structural damage when the family moved in and, during the family's stay, the front stair caved in and the roof leaked, causing water damage. "This is a very old house," she said.

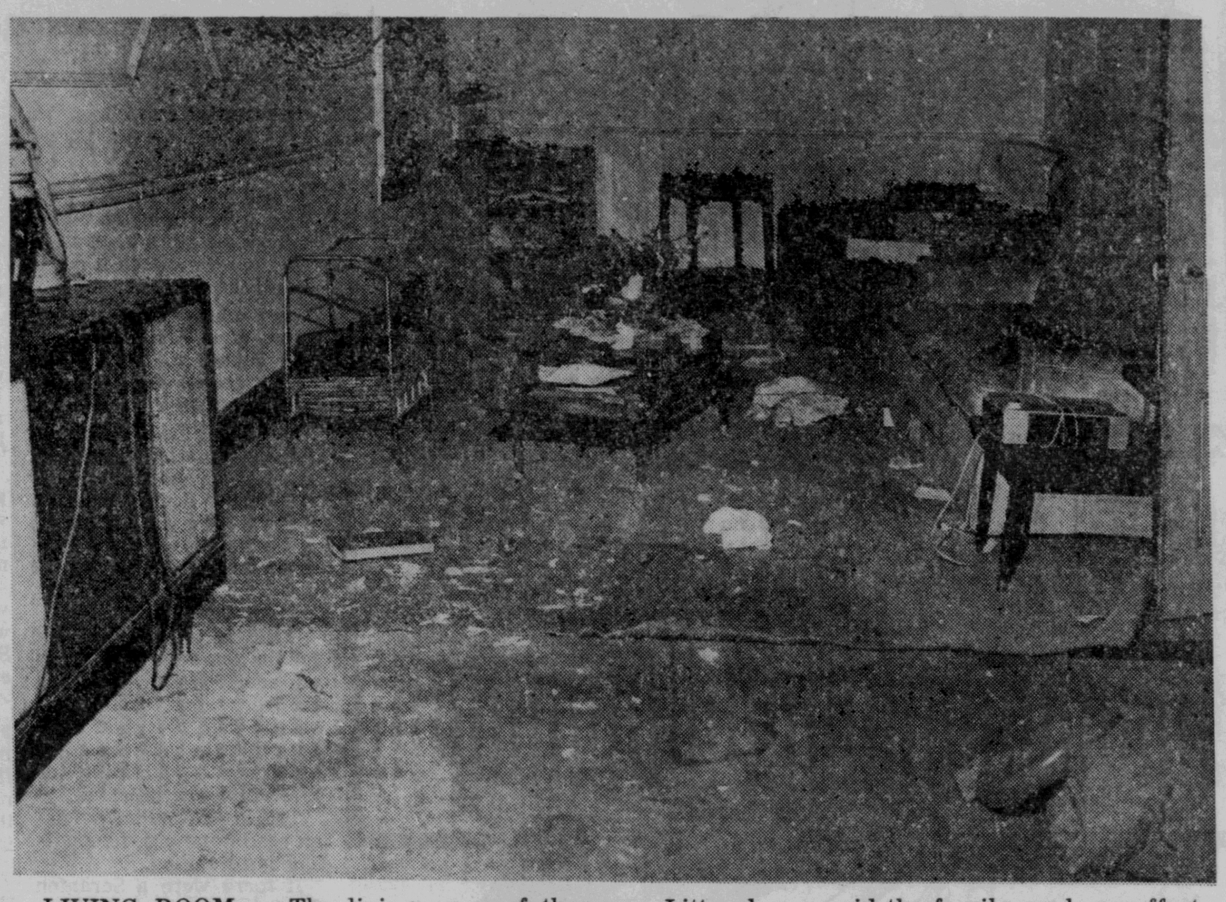
Although minimizing Mrs. Sobel's view of the damage, Mrs. Cutler said, "I felt they were not living up to standard."

Mrs. Cutler complained to the health department, which ordered a cleanup, when she saw mice in the house.

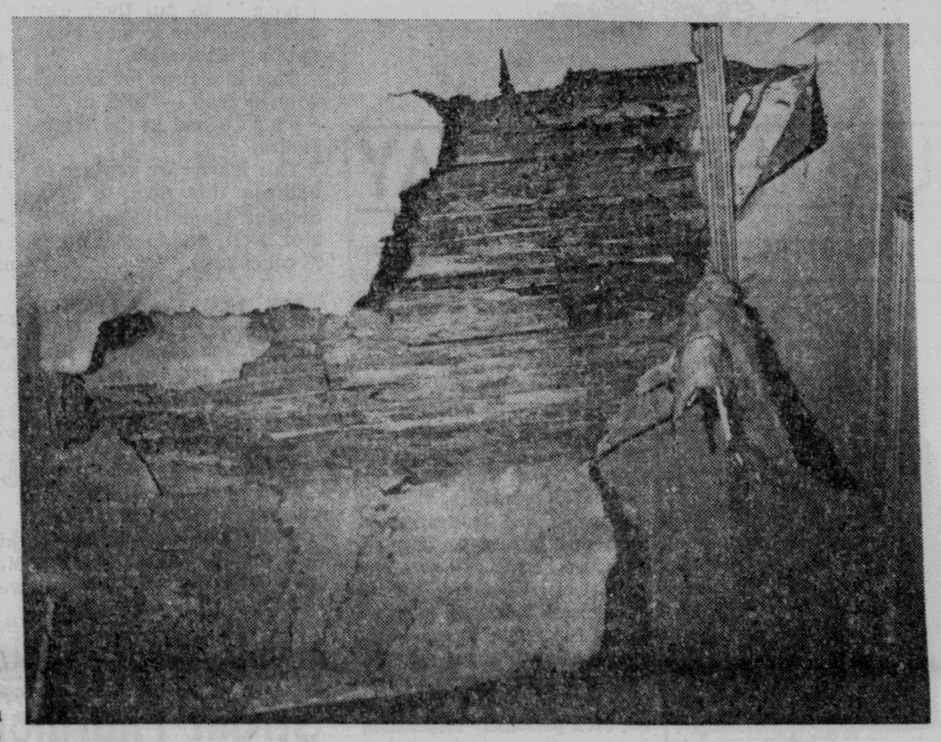
When the health department intervened, however, it also alerted Mrs. Sobel that she was responsible for removing the garbage. "When I went to see the condition of the place, they had human excrement all over the place and the sanitary people wouldn't handle it," she said.

Mrs. Cutler disagreed. She said she and Mrs. Sobel had gone through the house twice during December and "it was swept and clean" despite the accumulation of garbage.

"They had responded to quite a few things that Mrs. Sobel had requested," Mrs. Cutler said.



LIVING ROOM — The living room of the former Litteral residence — remains in the condition it was in when the tenants were evicted. A social worker who handles the Litteral case said the family made an effort to clean up the house after health department complaints.



NONTENANT DAMAGE — A leaking roof caused a rotting ceiling and peeling plaster in the living room at the house at 1312 Third Street. Social worker Mary Cutler claimed that much other damage the landlady, Sylvera M. C. Sobel, attributes to her last tenants was due to decay of the old house.

GARBAGE BIN — Some of the garbage that caused the Marin County Health Department to abate the residence at 1312 Third Street still clogs the basement of the home. The abatement notice caused the landlord to evict the welfare tenant.

Panel To Discuss Health Planning

"Marin County's Role in Regional Health Planning" will be discussed by a panel of speakers at the annual meeting of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael.

Speakers will be James Brusstar, associate director of the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council; Dr. Elliot Rapaport, coordinator of regional medical programs, and J. Fred Silva, associate planner for the Association of Bay Area Governments. Mayor James F. Reed of San Anselmo will moderate the discussion.

Rep. Mailliard Plans Report

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, will give a report on the 91st Congress and answer listeners' questions on the "Marin Sounding Board" program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, who also represents a portion of Marin County, will also appear on the program if he returns home from Washington, D.C., in time, according to moderator Kitty Oppenheimer.

The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Arraignment On Car Theft Count

Steven Raymond Sokol, 20, of 885 Bridgeway, Sausalito, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of car theft.

He is to enter a plea Wednesday.

Cash Reported Taken From Store

About $165 in cash was stolen Dec. 29 or 30 from a safe at the Dollars and Sense variety store in Larkspur, police said yesterday.

Officers said the burglar broke into the store at 1100 Magnolia Avenue by crawling underneath the structure and cutting a large hole in the floor.

Bagley Received $25,793 During 1970 Legislature

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was second among his 120 colleagues in the Legislature in receiving the most money from the state during 1970.

Bagley, in addition to his basic salary of $16,000 a year, received $9,793 in living expenses, interim per diems and travel reimbursement. He was second only to former Assembly Speaker Bob Monagan, R-Tracy, who got $26,382, according to totals compiled this week by the controller's office.

Most legislators got about $22,000.

During both the 1969 and 1970 sessions, Bagley was chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, thus traveling extensively on tax matters. His expenses last year included $1,100 for flights to Washington, D.C., to seek the Nixon Administration's support for nationwide tax reform.

The above figures do not include the costs of two other privileges enjoyed by legislators — a free car and unlimited gasoline credit card privileges.

The total cost of running the 1970 Legislature, including staff salaries and all operating costs, was $21,457,000. This total included more than $500,000 a year for retired legislators.

Costs are certain to be higher this year, if only because 1969 legislators voted themselves a hike in base pay from $16,000 to $19,200, effective last Friday.

Legislators also get $25 a day per diem living expenses during legislative sessions, including Saturdays and Sundays. This allowance, totally exempt from taxes, added up to $5,450 for those who had no unexcused absences from the 1970 session.

Bagley's total of $25,793 included $5,375 in these per diem payments. McCarthy got $5,400 in per diem.

Legislators also get $25 a day and transportation costs for authorized interim trips within the state, and on out-of-state trips they are allowed transportation and either $20 a day or actual hotel costs and $12.50 a day. Bagley collected $4,418 in these payments, including the $1,110 for his Washington trips.

Bagley Seeks State, Local 18-Year-Old Voting Rights

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Amendment of the California Constitution to allow 18-year-olds to vote and run in state and local elections was proposed in a measure introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Dec. 1 that a new law by Congress to give the vote to 18-year-olds applied only in elections for federal office, not to state or local elections.

Five other legislators also proposed plans to reduce the voting age for state and local elections yesterday, and two assemblymen presented measures that would extend to 18-year-olds all the legal rights of adults — including that of drinking.

Bagley commented that "the old slogan of 'if you're old enough to fight, you're old enough to vote' has been replaced by 'if you're old enough to vote for president, you're old enough to vote for county assessor.' "

A similar measure was introduced in the upper house by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco. Among its co-authors was Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Bagley declared that young people must be allowed "to participate within the system at all levels. The existing senseless duality of separate and unequal ballots must be eliminated," he said.

(Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer, estimated Monday that maintaining separate voter lists and ballots for 18-year-olds would add about 20 per cent to the county's election costs that now total about $60,000 a year.)

Bagley's constitutional amendment, ACA 1, would have to be approved by a two-thirds margin in the next statewide election in June 1972 if it passes the Legislature. Thus, if the amendment eventually passed at that time, the state's 18-year-olds would not qualify for full voting powers until the general election in November 1972.

Loma Verde Nomination

Klaus K. Mund of 1030 Via Escondida has been nominated as 1971 president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association.

James A. Pettipas was nominated for vice president, Beverly Swenson for treasurer, Marian Burrell for recording secretary and June Owens for corresponding secretary.

Biennial Repeal Session To Improve Legislature?

Now that the California Legislature is back in session (it paused barely long enough for the election), it seems as good a time as any to take a look at what we have allowed this creature of government to do with itself.

Not so many years ago, the legislature met in the odd-numbered years to act on a biennial budget. Only money bills could be considered at this session unless the governor held it in special session for other matters. In the even-numbered years, the legislature in regular session managed to enact a wide variety of laws. Yet the sessions — budget or regular — generally were rather short.

Biennial appropriations caused some difficulties. So in 1947, during Earl Warren's incumbency in the governor's chair, the system was "reformed" to permit annual budgets. The idea was that the legislature was to adopt a budget within 30 days after convening. With that out of the way, it would go into regular session to act on other matters.

IT DIDN'T ALWAYS work that way. Governors added various nonbudgetary matters to the special budget session, and it became the exception rather than the rule to get the budget disposed of within 30 days. Budget delays got so bad that in 1965, Gov. Edmund G. Brown did not get the budget until June 30, the last day of the fiscal year. Naturally, the sessions got longer and longer.

In 1966, the legislature "reformed" itself again, by means of a constitutional amendment approved by the voters in the same election that put Ronald Reagan in the governor's chair.

The "reform" abolished the constitutional provision that legislators be paid $6,000 per year, enabling them to raise their own salaries. And it did away with the special budget session.

WE HAVE SEEN the results: The legislators, their pay much higher, are in no hurry to wind up their deliberations. They have been in so little hurry, in fact, that both of the last two years the budget did not reach the governor until after the June 30 close of the fiscal year. And, as we mentioned, the sessions have grown so long that they barely adjourn for election.

All this, of course, has added tremendously to the cost of the legislature. It has added also to the costs of other state government functions, because the legislators when in session require all sorts of services, reports, etc., from the other branches.

If it has done anything to improve legislation, or make the state government function more efficiently, we fail to see it.

WE HAVE a suggestion:

Suppose the legislature every second year be limited to adopting a budget and repealing laws? No new laws. Just get rid of some of the old ones.

As things stand, getting a law off the books — no matter how archaic it may be nor how unworkable it may have proved — is extremely difficult. The legislators are too busy enacting new laws.

Making every second session a "repeal session" should balance things up a bit. Also, it should mean that at least one year out of two, the lawmakers would go home in time so something could be accomplished by the rest of the state government.

THE DRUMMONDS

Open Letter To Senate Leaders: Congress Requires Dedication

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — To Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader:

To Hugh Scott, Senate Republican leader:

You are, of course painfully aware that the Senate cannot afford to keep up the sorry performance it put on in recent months.

Something adequate will have to be done to enable the Senate to transact the public business efficiently and effectively.

It hasn't been doing so. Every senator knows it, most American voters know it, and it is evident that they are losing confidence in the ability of the Senate to do its part to govern the country.

THIS IS a perilous mood for the Senate to have created, and it is crucial that at the very start of the new session Jan. 20 it show evidence that the grievous stalemate, inertia and failings of 1970 will not be repeated.

This is no time for partisan recriminations, for political name-calling.

If there were a Scranton Commission investigating the functioning of Congress it would certainly conclude that the senior members of the Senate should exercise their "reconciling influence" to put their own house in order so that it can get on with the job.

This is a time for leadership to lead — both in the Senate and in the White House.

This is why we venture to address this plea to you, Senator Mansfield and Senator Scott, and to your other 98 colleagues.

WE ARE INCREASINGLY convinced that tidying up the machiners of the Senate is not the primary answer. It is desirable. It will help. But something more important and more valuable is necessary.

What is more important and more valuable is for every senator, beginning with the leaders, to examine what he is contributing to the spirit of the Senate and to measure that spirit against the yearning moods of the nation whose acute problems have outdistanced the solutions.

We believe that the qualities of mind which the Senate can and must bring to bear upon its work are these:

1 — WILL — The will to transact the public business expeditiously and responsibly and the will tosearch for and each constructive legislative compromises.

2 — GOODWILL — The goodwill and mutual respect essential to make democratic government work better now, this month, this year — a new reservoir of goodwill and mutual regard to which President Nixon, the Senate and the House must contribute.

3 — AWARENESS — The awareness that our government of divided power must find a way to use its powers more unitedly or falter at the most critical moments in our history.

We can't afford to falter, and what is most needed to insure that we succeed is a new spirit of will, of goodwill and of awareness that will put the welfare of this precious nation ahead of every lesser motive.

Strong arguments can be made for ending the seniority methods of choosing committee chairmen and reducing the veto power of the filibuster. Other changes in rules and procedures are needed to give the Senate the tools to do its job. Now is the time to make these changes.

But more important is to reform the spirit of the Senate and o enable the senators themselves, individually and collectively, to lay hold on the will, the goodwill and the awareness of how much the nation needs their best.

We have no doubt that this is what you, Senators Mansfield and Scott, most want to help bring about.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Will Communist Party Aid Angela?

As the Angela Davis trial progresses it will be interesting to observe the actions of the Communist party U.S.A. By her own admission she is a Communist and should therefore be entitled to full party backing in the coming trial.

The Aug. 7 affair, however, appears to have been conducted outside the framework of party policy. Although Communist tactics never shrink from violence it has been party policy for members to remain in the background while dupes perform the deeds. In fact the party in recent years has been attempting to cloak itself in an air of respectability. Violent acts by the militant New Left reveal a lack of discipline that the Communist party cannot tolerate.

So far there is no indication that the party is ready to pull out all stops to defend Miss Davis. . .

Different View Of Angela Davis

May I offer a rebuttal to the letter from Bob Cardozo which appeared in the Dec. 30 edition of the I-J.

Mr. Cardozo is very obviously anti-Angela Davis. He complains that she ran, fought extradition and raised her fist in a Black Power salute of protest. If you were black and accused of murder, conspiracy and kidnapping because you were the registered owner of the weapons used, wouldn't your natural instinct be to run and then avoid being returned once captured as long as possible if at all? A Black Power fist raised in protest for what, Mr. Cardozo asks; perhaps in protest of second class citizenship among other things.

Mr. Cardozo also claims Miss Davis returned in "arrogant militancy and smug defiance". I suggest the word "pride" be substituted for "arrogant" and "dignity" for "smug." The picture taken of her at the time of her arrest depicts that considerably better than any words could. . .

No decent citizen opposed to violence can help but be appalled by the tragedy which took place at the Civic Center. Yet another tragedy may be in store if Angela Davis is forced to spend her youth in prison as the result of an uptight, prejudice white establishment who fears the new found pride of the black race. . .

If she is innocent, and if by some miracle 12 fair minded citizens can be found to render a just and honest verdict, let us hope that she will not become so imbittered as to be blinded to the needs of a total society.

Emphasize Good, Reader Urges

This is the last day of the year, and I feel that I must say something about the Independent-Journal.

With each passing day, newspapers become the conveyors of news which is predominantly dismal, depressing, tragic and violent. The biggest headline in your paper on Dec. 30 was "1970: Tragic Episodes Mark Violent Year," followed by an article which recapped some of the worst incidents we've had in Marin in 1970 — deaths, murders, bombings, etc. — a wonderful note on which to end a year in which no one has had an especially easy time. This is typical of your emphasis on news — the worst items always seem to get the biggest lines and more and predominant space; the helpful, informative and cheery articles are buried.

As a newspaper, and especially as the only newspaper in Marin County, you have a particular responsibility to your readers. You have the power to create an entire mental and emotional attitude just by what, through arbitrary emphasis, you put on the front page. You are an organ, and entity, of the community in which you exist, and without which you would not exist. Because of the nature of a community, each member's action has an effect. The reason that we have lawlessness, violence, discontent and frustration today is not because our lawmakers and legislators and educators have failed, but because each individual member of the community has given up the responsibility for his own actions — has ignored the effects of his behavior. If we are not each personally responsible for our actions, whether direct, or indirect as through voting, for instance, we cannot expect others to be so. Your newspaper is no exception.

I do not expect the I-J to stop printing unhappy news — that would be evading reality. But to continually emphasize only that kind of news which is depressing, frustrating and even angering, without offering your readers any constructive means of directing the negative energy which you have aroused, is irresponsible. In many instances, the source of the news is so remote that there is no opportunity for constructive reaction. So who needs it?

Emphasize the many good things that people do for each other in Marin:there are community-oriented centers and organizations, and even private individuals, news of whose activities need not be limited to the society pages. The word "ecology" is in everyone's mouth these days, but has anyone considered the ecology of the community mind? Has anyone considered that if the good as good leaders and good news, are not "recycled," that the community as an entity dies, just as a forest dies when all the trees are removed and none replanted? . . .

CRLA Fund Veto Brings Usual Howls From Spender Fraternity

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — As usual, every time the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan attempts to save the taxpayers some money, howls to high heaven go up from those who oppose him.

This happened in the case of the veto to a $1.8 million federal grant for California Rural Legal Assistance, Inc., another unnecessary bureaucracy squandering the taxpayers' money.

Although Reagan is accused by his detractors of depriving the poor of legal assistance, the real reason he vetoed the appropriation was because the CRLA just wasn't doing the job it was supposed to do.

THE HOWLS started when Cruz Reynoso, director of CRLA in California, and some of his assistants flew to Washington to urge over-riding the Reagan veto. It will be interesting later to check the expense accounts to determine whether the officials used CRLA funds, which come from the taxpayer, to finance the trip.

California for more than a century got along without the services of a rural legal assistance program, which appears not to be dedicated to offering assistance to the poor, but to feathering the nests of the attorneys who are employed by the organization at government expense.

That the protests against the Reagan veto are political can be seen from the fact that virtually all the protestants were of the Democratic party except Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. However, Bagley is a good politician, and forward looking as well. Now that he is a member of the minority Republican party in the Assembly, he may be looking for some favors from his Democratic colleagues.

THE BILL of particulars charging the office has not done its job within the meaning of the federal law is amazing to say the least. CRLA's major mission was to represent the poor in civil cases. But diversions from this major mission include:

"Representation of people charged with crime, use of legal processes to harass public and private organizations, solicitation of clients, counseling and organizing students to challenge school authority discipline systems, and the undue fixation of energies on cases with extraordinary publicity value."

The bill of particulars came up with a dozen specific cases in which the CRLA is claimed to have exceeded its authority. And the governor's office promises to reveal many more cases.

The bill of particulars charged that the conduct of employees of CRLA was "outrageous and irresponsible."

There may be some hope for the taxpayers after all if the administration can start the new year by cutting off a comparatively useless agency for two million dollars.

Strom Thurmond's Gospel: Epistle To Carolinians

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Everybody in the administration, the Congress and the press has had his swing at explaining why the nation's legislative process dragged on amid the sound of popping corks at the New Year. Everybody blamed everybody else.

But nobody else told it quite the way it was told by the venerable J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. In a message to the folks down home, the erstwhile states' righter, Democrat and independent, for six years now a member of the Republican Party, told them what he assumed they wanted to hear —that is, that Congress is in such a mess because "it has taken upon itself to perform many tasks which are not suited to the federal government."

Classic states' rights philosophy, right out of Thurmond's own presidential campaign back in 1948, and for that matter right out of the speeches of his fellow South Carolinian, John C. Calhoun, as long as 150 years ago. Calhoun used it to defend slavery. Thurmond used it to defend segregation and hominy grits. But in the waning days of 1970, the senator accompanied the classic complaint with further observations on the nature of Congress today.

IT IS AN eloquent outcry, essentially against the simple fact that the world keeps on growing. It doubtlessly will be heard in the proper spirit by the people of South Carolina who have revered Thurmond for so long.

But how seriously can anybody else take it when they remember it was J. Strom Thurmond who set a senatorial record of 24 hours and 18 minutes of lonely filibuster — back when he was a Democrat — speaking against the innocuous civil rights bill of 1957?

"CONGRESS HAS itself to blame," says Thurmond, "for undertaking to draft and debate legislation on every conceivable facet of daily life. The constant encroachment into areas of historic state responsibility has created a legislative logjam which the members of Congress seem unwilling or unable to handle."

The result is not merely volume of legislation, he continues. "Senators are now required to be expert in scores of technical requirements. . .Proposals ranging from school integration to welfare reform to environmental control and complex tax measures will have a hidden and unsuspected result when put into effect."

Even the sponsors of legislation often do not fully understand the eventual results of their bills, according to Thurmond, and while the committee system allows members and staffs to develop specialties, even this does not suffice in assessing the impact of new laws on various regions. "A senator or a congressman sometimes must be both sociologist and prophet to tell whether a given bill will adversely affect his people."

Well, who doesn't have the same problems?

THURMOND IS MERELY paraphrasing the grievances of the students who draw his scorn with their demonstrations against the bigness and confusion of school life. He is throwing up his hands in much the same way those bureaucrats he despises do in OEO, and HEW and HUD, when they are up against a program that needs doing but just won't work. It is the same cry you can hear in a columnist's office when he realizes he is going to have to sieve through a mountain of committee reports before he is qualified to comment on a particular legislative issue.

Misunderstanding On Apartments? Larkspur Council Will Decide

Larkspur land developer Niels J. Schultz Jr., rebuffed a month ago by the planning commission when he proposed another development adjacent to Corte Madera Creek, claims the commissioners acted in ignorance.

In a "fact sheet" drafted by a San Francisco public relations firm, Schultz maintains the commission misunderstood the location of his three-story apartment building which would stretch across two lots.

The building would not be on the creek but rather 66 feet back from the mean high water line, says Schultz, "a setback greater than that provided by most of the buildings now constructed in that area adjacent to the creek."

THERE MIGHT be a misunderstanding, but it is doubtful that it is by the commission, which has spent months studying the question of setbacks from the creek.

Rather, it would appear, the commission's unanimous rejection of Schultz's plan was based on the position that it doesn't want a massive structure situated near the creek.

In rebuttal to that argument, Schultz says the commission erred if its rejection was so based. The apartments under consideration, he claims, are similar to others near the creek and "provide more of the ecological amenities which the Schultz Building Co., the planning commission and the city council as well consider important."

He lists those "ecological amenities" as the building's utilization of only half the space it is entitled to under the building code, its height as being 10 per cent under the maximum allowed, and its 66-foot rear setback.

This last will "permit a wide lane of open space for the use of the residents," Schultz adds.

THE PLANNING commission's rejection was primarily based on the building's failure to be consistent with "the general design of the neighborhood."

It noted three sections of the code dealing with architectural supervision as the basis for denial. Briefly, the code states that for architectural supervision to be granted the building must lend itself to the harmonious appearance of the city, be compatible with the area in which it is located, and not be detrimental to the general welfare of the neighborhood. Those points were used by the commission. Others include optimum use of the land and adequate traffic circulation.

Tonight, the city council will hear an appeal from Schultz of the commission's action. Its decision, whether to uphold the commission or overrule it in favor of revenue producing development, may well set the tone for Larkspur's future control of such developments.

Paris Talks Will Enter Third Year Bogged Down

HONG KONG (Toronto Telegram News Service) — "This is a unique momentin history," said the U. S. Ambassador. "Today, in this new meeting in Paris, the search for peace in Vietnam enters a new state. Today, we begin together the search for an honorable and enduring settlement to the conflict which divides us."

The speaker was Henry Cabot Lodge, Washington's former Ambassador to Saigon. He was addressing the first enlarged session of the Paris talks on Jan. 25, 1969.

Almost two years after the hopeful statement Mr. Cabot Lodge made in Paris, the negotiations are still bogged down, and the end of the war is not in sight.

In fact, 1971 is likely to be another indecisive year in Indochina (Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia).

The United States has gained absolutely nothing in Paris.

If the inflexibility of both sides has not altered there, certainly in Indochina the scene has changed radically since that first enlarged meeting two years back.

The two most dramatic events in Vietnam in 1969 were the beginnings of the U. S. withdrawal from Vietnam on July 8 and the death of president Ho Chi Minh on Sept. 3. These two events hold the key to Communist intransigence in Paris. Ho Chi Minh died with the call for victory over the United States still on his lips.

But, of course, the events in Cambodia during the past nine months have rendered the situation much more complex. On March 18, Prince Norodom Sihanouk was ousted in a coup, and on May 1, the United States and South Vietnam began their lightning operations against the Communists in Cambodia.

Fighting spread and intensified in Laos. Within a matter of months, the Vietnam war in 1970 became the second Indochina war.

Another factor that seemed to explain Communist stubbornness in Paris was public disinterest in the conflict in the United States. The American people were so tired of the Vietnam war, they pushed it right off the front pages.

Now that the boys were being brought home, it was no longer a hot issue. Pollution, strikes, drugs, and student unrest made the headlines.

Even the Pentagon's recent efforts to free prisoners held in North Vietnam did not manage to revive public interest in the crisis. Nor did the threats to Hanoi by President Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers about a possible intensification of the war.

But after two years of negotiations at the round table in Paris, the peace the United States seeks seems as distant as ever.

As if the accumulated frustration was too much to bear, the Pentagon recently unleashed the heaviest series of raids of the war against the Ho Chi Minh trail.

In the White House, officials said that infiltration of troops and supplies in Indochina was about 30 per cent higher than one year ago.

These signs of a possible new Communist offensive could trigger another round of U. S. bombings against North Vietnam, a development that would slow down the Paris talks even further.

The war in Indochina has moved into a transitional rather than a decisive phase. Nixon has kept his promise that U. S. casualties would be held to a minimum, and yet he has not abandoned Washington's allies in Saigon.

As the United States moves into the second decade of direct involvement in Indochina, weekly American casualties are down to between 20 and 30 killed.

This compares with 300 to 500 U. S. troops killed each week during the height of the Communist Tet Offensive in 1968.

The United States has no intention of repeating the horrors of 1968 —the peak year of the war when almost 15,000 Americans died in combat. The total number of U. S. troops killed in the conflict stands at more than 44,000, but ever since the bombing against North Vietnam was halted, the weekly casualty figures have been dwindling.

It is against such a background that the deadlocked Paris talks continue week after week. Neither side wants to break off the negotiations, yet nobody comes up with a new initiative.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

More Trustees Quitting; Reason Not Hard To Find

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Greater than usual turnover of membership on California's district school boards may be expected when nearly all of the more than 1,000 of them hold elections in April.

This will not be, in most cases, because of any voter attitude of "throw the rascals out." It will be because many incumbent board members have decided against seeking another term.

A reason for this is not hard to find. A spot check among trustees shows many feel the job has become little more than a year-around wrangle with teacher representatives over salaries and working conditions.

THIS HAS COME about for two reasons: the growing militance of the teacher organizations, heightened by the rivalry for control between the California Teachers Association and California Federation of Teachers, and the action of the legislature two years ago in writing into the education code a provision that teacher salaries may be increased at any time during the year.

This raise-at-any-time provision — which last year's legislature extended to non-teaching "classified" employees as well — has resulted in prolonging negotiations between school boards and teacher representatives into virtually a year-around operation in many districts.

IT WORKS like this:

When a school district starts budgeting for its next fiscal year (a process already under way in most of them), it perforce must base its figuring on how much it received the previous year, adjusted to include any tax increase the voters have approved — or possibly a special "override" which does not require such approval. The board — or its negotiator — must deal with the teachers' demands on the basis of the known district income. To meet legal requirements, the board must make its contract offers before either state subventions or increase in assessed values are known.

Until the law was changed to permit raises at any time, the board had a chance to settle salaries, and then, if more money proved available, to use some of it for other purposes or perhaps be so fortunate as to build up a reserve fund.

THAT IS NO longer true. Now, whenever the tax take turns out to be a little larger than forecast, or more money is forthcoming from the state, teacher representatives are quick to demand that itbe added to the salary budget. Although the teachers are under contract at certain salaries, the law allows them to reopen negotiations for pay boosts at any time.

So much of school trustees' time is devoted to the resultant wrangling that many school board members feel their jobs have become those of labor negotiators — which is not what they sought when they ran for office.

THIS YEAR'S negotiations are going to be tougher than ever before. The CTA is beating the drums for "master agreements," which is another name for a labor union contract spelling out in detail what the employer must do — to be signed by the negotiators for CTA and board, just as union contracts are. This goes well beyond the matter of salaries. And it is legal under the Winton Act.

Either way, the salaries specified in the contracts are not binding. The legislature took care of that with the law permitting raises any time during the year.

'Summertime' Scheduled At Mill Valley

"Summertree," the off-Broadway play that won the 1968 Tony Award, will open at 8:30 p.m. Friday as the next production of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts.

The play also will be staged in the center at 267 Buena Vista Avenue at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday and on Jan. 15, 16, 22, 23, 29, 30 and Feb. 6.

Reservations may be made by calling the Greyhound bus depot in Mill Valley.

Diagnosis Order For Petaluman

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Lewis E. Meyers of Petaluma, charged with felony drunken driving, was committed yesterday to three months at the Vacaville Medical Facility for diagnosis.

Meyers had pleaded no contest to the charge that his car struck Dennis Stankalis, 17, of Petaluma, severing both the youth's legs on Nov. 17.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. granted the request of Public Defender Marteen Miller for the commitment and said he would sentence Meyer when he was returned.

Deputy Probation Officer Everett Mederios had recommended a nine-month jail sentence and a period of probation. Mederios said Meyers, 59, has shown remorse and was not contesting liquidation of his assets to help defray the medical expenses of Stankalis.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

11:29 a.m., San Anselmo — False alarm at Sunny Hills School.

2:08 p.m., Larkspur — Short circuit ignited spilled gasoline in a car at Redwood High School parking lot, car belonged to Scott Colburn of 100 Wellington, Ross. $200 damage.

2:12 p.m., San Rafael — Contents of garbage can afire at Terra Linda High School; minor damage.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

McGees Plead Guilty To Count

Harold Neal McGee, 25, and Richard Louis McGee, 24, both of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest. Sentencing was set for Feb. 5.

The two were arrested Dec. 28 after Harold McGee allegedly aimed a gun at a neighbor.

Man Bound Over On Burglary

Kenneth Paul Botai, 21, of 103 Lansdale Avenue, San Anselmo, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of burglary.

Arraignment was set for Jan. 18.

DANCE REVIEW

Nureyev Shines In 'Don Quixote'

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — The Australian Ballet presented its second San Francisco performance of "Don Quixote" last night at the Opera House. This lively ballet, produced by Rudolf Nureyev after Marius Petipa to the music of Ludwig Minkus, can be appreciated from several perspectives, regardless of the fact that neither Nureyev's revival nor the original was totally consistent with Cervantes' literary masterpiece.

First of all, the Australian company, with its strong English roots, is here shown in a new light. Having seen the Russian version of the ballet, the source of this production becomes quite apparent. Lucette Aldous, for example, as Kitri assumes much of that vivacity and vigor characteristic of Plisetskaya in this incredibly demanding role. As Basilio, Nureyev was, of course, as always, phenomenal.

As a study of period style, Nureyev's staging of Don Quixote's dream displays his affinity for the Petipa style of choreography — a style which constitutes a rigorous test for even the best of dancers. The test was admirably met by corps and soloists alike, even if one could have wished for a softer, more ethereal image of Dulcinea than that presented by Miss Aldous, who in Act I distinguished herself by her devilishly animated dancing and acting.

This scene is one of ballet's loveliest moments — a quasi-eastern, yet totally classical — interlude within the Spanish setting. The tutus, noticeably, somewhat resembled those seen in the late 19th Century photographs, and the tasteful stage designs were nowhere more delightful than in the dream scene.

Missing, however, in Act III, was the original pas de deux. As performed last night, it somehow appeared not to measure up to some of its traditional high points. For instance, the continuity was interrupted by the appearance of another soloist between the pas de deux proper and the variations; and Kitri's variation minus the familiar pas de cheval would be difficult to imagine.

This is, however, the best ballet San Francisco has seen since either the Bolshoi or the Kirov companies and brings with it another memorable experience: Sir Robert Helpmann as the lovable, demented Don Quixote who designated himself the valiant successor of the medieval knights-errant. An extra performance of "Don Quixote" has been scheduled for Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the Opera House.

Artists To Display Works At Cannery

Acrylics by Patricia Zippin of Tiburon and the "Galactic Hatchery" of Suzanna Broughton of Mill Valley will be displayed daily from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. except Sunday, when the gallery will be open from noon until 9 p.m.

EOC Board To Discuss New Budget

A proposed $350,000 budget for fiscal 1971-72 will be discussed by the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council board at 8 p.m. today at the EOC office at 1004 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The budget is $50,000 higher than the current fiscal year's according to W. Robert Lomax Jr., executive director.

The federal government pays 80 per cent of the budget with the remainder coming from local taxes and donations, he said.

The board also will receive a report on the December membership drive, Lomax said.

A nominating committee to pick a slate of officers for next year also will be elected. The slate will be presented either at the February or March meeting, according to Lomax.

An orientation meeting for 15 new board members will be held at 7 p.m. before the regular meeting.

Other items to come before the board include a request for $2,500 for a bus for Head Start program, receipt of $7,500 of $15,000 for an emergency food program, setting a date for the annual meeting, and setting salaries for three new jobs of transportation coordinator, neighborhood center coordinator and nutritionist.

Motion Filed In Conspiracy Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A U.S. attorney filed a supplemental motion Monday in the government's request that bail be denied Seattle Seven conspiracy defendants.

Attorney Stan Pitkin presented the motion shortly before the deadline set by the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, which took the papers under study.

In question is the refusal of Judge George H. Boldt of Tacoma, Wash., to grant bail to the seven persons whom he cited for contempt after declaring a mistrial. They had appeared before him charged with conspiring to destroy government property during an anti-war demonstration.

The appellate court first ordered Judge Boldt to grant bail but then stayed that order and told the government to "make a more adequate showing."

Big Four Output Drops 2.1 Million

DETROIT (UPI) — The Big Four automakers built 8,795,140 cars and commercial vehicles in North America in 1970 — 2.1 million vehicles less than they produced during 1969.

General Motors Corp., which was struck for 67 days by the United Auto Workers in the fall, accounted for all but 233,861 of the decline.

Driver Treated

Richard Gentry, 28, of Santa Rosa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital today for head cuts suffered at 1:30 a.m. when his pick up ran off Highway 101 at East Washington Street, Petaluma, and struck a tree, the California Highway Patrol said.

County GOP Reorganizes; Broomhead Named Again

The Marin County Republican Central Committee, with one unexpected hitch, reorganized itself Monday and reelected chairman Rodgers C. Broomhead of Ross.

But voting on several other officers was postponed when contest developed over electing a vice chairman.

Past vice chairman Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael had been expected to be reelected, but several other committee members indicated they were going to back another candidate for the position, Broomhead reported.

Broomhead said he postponed a vote on the issue to a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday at party headquarters, 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael. Also set for Monday was balloting on the women's vice chairman and treasurer.

In other action, Mary Lee of San Rafael was reelected committee secretary.

Eviction Board On Housing Agenda

A proposed tenant eviction panel, to review and make final decisions on all evictions from Marin's public housing, will be considered by commissioners of the Marin County Housing Authority today at 7:30 p.m. in the Golden Hinde Housing Project, 5 Golden Hinde Avenue, San Rafael.

The commission will also elect a chairman and vice chairman for 1971 and hear a report on the status of recruitment of a deputy director for the housing authority and redevelopment agency. Executive director Wallace K. Shepherd said more than 100 persons have applied for the post.

RARE ACTION

Reagan Seeks Peace With Demo Leaders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Like the mountain going to Mohammed, Gov. Ronald Reagan has trekked to the offices of Democratic legislative leaders to seek peace and an open mind on his welfare and tax reform proposals.

Both Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti told Reagan they believe the 1971 Legislature will enact a statewide tax increase over his objections.

In a surprise and rare move, Reagan marched upstairs from his first floor Capitol suite to the office of Moretti Tuesday for a 30-minute private meeting. Then, trailed by a parade of newsmen and aides, he ascended another flight to Mills' office.

All sides later agreed the significant thing about the visits was not what happened during them but that they happened at all.

"I don't very often get out of that corner office and I get claustrophobia down there," said the governor.

It was seen as a step toward conciliation with legislators in general and Democrats in particular.

During his first term, Reagan frequently was criticized by legislative leaders — including Republicans—for not touching base with them on major issues.

Democrats regained control of the legislature Monday for the first time in two years and, although only holding slim majorities in each house, will dominate the key committees that will consider Reagan's programs.

"We both came out smiling. Neither one of us bit the other," quipped the governor after emerging from a 20-minute chat with Mills, a San Diego liberal who helped kill his $1 billion tax revision program last year.

Reagan asked both Democrats not to adopt hard positions against his tax and welfare reform proposals until they are outlined in his annual state-of-the-state message to the legislature next Tuesday.

Moretti and Mills made it clear they believe any "tax reform" should include a tax increase.

Reagan invited the two legislative leaders to communicate with him directly in the future and bypass middlemen.

"At least we'll not be fighting this year for lack of knowing each other," said Moretti.

OATH PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Persons who belong to and believe in the aims of "subversive" groups would be barred from public employment under legislation filed Tuesday by Republican Assemblyman Robert H. Burke.

The Huntington Beach lawmaker said his proposed constitutional amendment and companion bill would provide a "clearly stated loyalty oath" which meets court objections that the old oath was "unduly vague, uncertain and broad." The state and U.S. Supreme Courts have struck down California's loyalty oath as unconstitutional.

FAIR BOARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Little Hoover Commission Tuesday received a subcommittee report on its inquiry into a staff proposal on the possible consolidation of district fair boards.

The report said public hearings would be held Jan. 21 at Los Angeles, Jan. 28 at Fresno and Feb. 11 at Santa Rosa on the proposal.

Similar attempts at cutting down the number of boards failed to win passage by previous legislature.

The current proposal would cut the number of existing fairs from 76 to 38. About $8 million a year is spent by the state on some of the fairs.

COAST PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A conservation measure creating a commission to control development along California's coastline was introduced Tuesday by Assemblyman Pete Wilson R-San Diego.

The bill, similar to one sponsored by Wilson last year which was defeated in the Senate, sets up a California Coastal Zone Conservation and Development Authority. It also establishes five regional coastal zone boards.

BRIDGE PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill authorizing construction of a bridge over the Sacramento River near Antioch to replace a bridge damaged to last year was introduced Tuesday by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

The existing drawbridge became inoperative when a freighter struck it. The new span would be financed by a bond issued that would be paid off by tolls.

Nejedly also submitted a bill permitting the state to operate ferryboats when bridges are knocked out of use over major waterways and roads.

Sausalito Ferry Issue Up Today

The site for a ferry terminal for Sausalito will be the subject of a public hearing before the city planning commission today at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Controversy over the terminal's location erupted in November when the Golden Gate Bridge District, which operates the ferry, altered earlier plans for a terminal in northern Sausalito and a downtown whistlestop. The district said it planned to put the terminal in central Sausalito, and the city planning staff objected.

Skull Fracture In Accident

Mark Syrus Mohtashem, 6, of 1771 Grant Avenue, Apt. 14, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when he ran into a car on Grant Avenue, east of Eighth Street, Novato police reported.

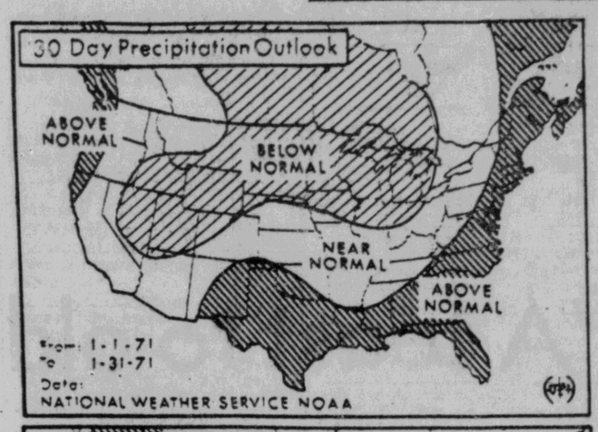
Police said the boy was headed across the street to play at Marion School playground shortly before 4 p.m. when he ran into the side of a car driven by William Ellingsen, 36, of 2038 Shady Lane, Novato, police said.

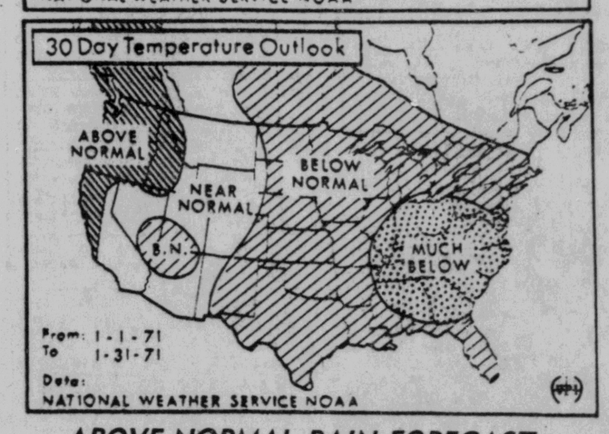
The boy was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital.

Ambulance Service Charges Reduced

Although the cost of medical care is generally rising, Bay Cities Ambulance Co. of San Rafael has announced a reduction in charges for ambulance service which will average about $5 a trip.

"Marin County still has the lowest ambulance rates in the Bay Area," Daniel D. White, general manager of the company, said. He added that private ambulance companies in the East Bay and on the Peninsula range from $10 to $15 per trip higher than Marin rates.





ABOVE NORMAL RAIN FORECAST

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Seconds Count When Choking; Get Help From Friends Fast

If you begin choking on a piece of meat, try to tell your dinner companions by pointing or in any way possible. Do so immediately, because seconds count. At least they will know that you are choking and not hvaving a heart attack or stroke. In many instances, it is a simple matter to remove an object from the throat and spare your life.

A PERSON CAN die within 10 minutes from asphyxiation. If the problem is not recognized (even by a physician at the scene) the individual may die while being rushed to the hospital. Choking is sudden, the victim collapses quickly and the apparent lifelessness is easily mistaken for a heart attack.

When attempting to remove the food, open the mouth, insert a finger into the side of the throat, try to get under the particle and flip it out from the passageway.

ANOTHER METHOD is to press quickly and hard on the diaghgram. This tends to force out the air in the lungs and, hopefully, the obstructive material along with it. The time honored pat on the back may make the victim gasp and inhale the piece of food further into the windpipe. It can however, be used as a last resort. A physician may use a penknife to make an opening in the windpipe of the unconscious person.

If you choke when eating alone, stand up and bend over the back of a chair with the arms extended. Gravity and a slight relaxation of the throat usually provide enough space to breathe around the obstruction. This is a temporary measure but lifesaving until the bolus is swallowed or help arrives.

CHOKING SEIZURES are more common in older persons with partial or complete dentures. They cannot feel the food or determine whether they have chewed it long enough. Those with dental trouble are likely to swallow food without chewing it properly. Be on the alert when these factors are added to a few drinks before dinner and failure to cut meats small enough.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

CYSTOCELE

Mrs. R.C.E. writes: What is a cystocele and can it be treated? I developed this condition after I had my baby.

REPLY

A cystocele is a herniation of the bladder into the birth canal. The defect occurs when the muscles surrounding the vagina are overstretched and no longer hold in the in the bladder, especially on straining or coughing.

STARVATION AND DISEASE

F.L. writes: A friend insists starvation will cure any disease known to man. What do you think of this idea?

REPLY

Starve long enough and you'll be cured of everything — including living. Your friend comes from the "starve a cold" era.

FUNERAL FUMES

L.C. writes: I live over an undertaking parlor and the formaldehyde really gets to me. Are these fumes harmful to my health?

REPLY

No. Consider moving if the odor is unpleasant or embarrassing.

DIZZY AFTER DRINK

R.S. writes: Why does a mixed drink make me dizzy for 2 or 3 hours?

REPLY

Gifted Group's Speaker Named

J. Richard Suchman, director of the Ortega Park Teachers Labratory in Woodside, San Mateo County, will be speaker at the January meeting of the Marin Association for Gifted Children.

The meeting will be next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the library of Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael. Suchman's subject will be "Learning, Plus and Minus Teaching."

Suchman is an educational consultant with special emphasis on professional development of educators and the learning environment.

The meeting will be of special interest to teachers and student teachers, according to Mrs. Ray K. Bolinger of the association, but will be open to the public.

Streptococcus Cases Leading

Although gonorrhea cases continued to plague Marin County, streptococcus infections easily led the list of communicable diseases reported last week by Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Seventy-nine strep infection cases were reported throughout the county, 37 of them in San Rafael. There were 25 reported cases of gonorrhea, one of tuberculosis and two of infectious hepatitis, as well as one of amebiasis, commonly called amoebic dysentery.

New Sign Ordinance Is Wanted

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night re commended that the city council pass a new sign ordinance.

The proposed new ordinance, hashed out in three public hearings, would limit signs to a maximum of one square foot per foot of building frontage or one-half square foot per foot of lot frontage up to a maximum of 200 square feet, according to Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

The proposal also would allow signs that clearly meet the ordinance's requirements to be constructed without a permit, Hotchner said. Other signs would require a permit from the planning staff while a few would require approval of the planning commission, Hotchner said.

The existing ordinance requires planning commission approval of every sign to be put up in the city, Hotchner said.

He said the audience last night was composed mainly of service station operators and gas company representatives concerned about requirements on gas station signs.

The commission decided gas stations would be restricted to 100 square feet of signs, each not more than 36 square feet, Hotchner said. Free standing signs would be limited to 21 feet and temporary promotional signs and gimmicks would be barred altogether, Hotchner said.

Last night the commission added clauses governing movie theaters and projected signs, Hotchner said. Theaters will be permitted to use poster cases upon receiving permission from the planning staff, but must abide by the rules governing other businesses on other signs, Hotchner said.

Projected images will also require permits, Hotchner said.

Present signs that do not conform to the ordinance would have to be removed between 90 days and three years after passage of the ordinance depending on value and use, Hotchner said.

Flashing signs and revolving signs, barred in the proposed ordinance, would be removed within six months, Hotchner said.

The commission recommended the proposed ordinance unanimously, the planning director said.

Fairfax Plan On Drugs To Be Heard

The start of an educational program on drug abuse for Fairfax School District students will be planned later this month, district trustees were told last night.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond said today his staff will meet Jan. 29 with a study committee headed by June Thurnau, district nurse, to determine mechanics of starting the program.

The new program, Hammond said, will be interwoven with classes in health and safety, social studies and science.

Not only will it deal with the dangers of drugs, he said, but it also will emphasize the value of drugs to science and medicine.

The board last night also was told district enrollment stood at 1,060 students — a loss of six students since the Dec. 15 meeting and of 40 students since last June.

In other action last night, the board set Feb. 3 for a special meeting with parents to discuss district goals and objectives, approved a maternity leave for teacher Judith Garber and a leave of absence for secretary Mary Lally.

Aliens Reminded

Federal immigration officials today reminded aliens they must register at either an office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service or at a local post office.

Officials said the law requires all noncitizens, except diplomats and other foreign representatives, to report their addresses to the government each January.

Marin Youth Not Rushing To Register For Voting

Although Marin County 18-to-21-year-olds are now able to vote in federal elections, they are not standing in line to register, according to county elections officer Peter C. Meyer.

"The voter registration for Marin County has been extremely slow," Meyer said, "despite the Dec. 21 Supreme Court decision that granted the vote to 18-year-olds."

Meyer said that only 10 new voters register per week in any of the 50-voter registration centers in Marin County, and that the number of new 18-year-old voters was negligible.

Even registration centers in College of Marin area, likely spots for new, young voters, have reported no increase, Meyer said.

Meyer attributes the apparent disinterest to the length of time before youths can vote. No elections other than the June 6, 1972, federal elections are pending where they can vote, he said.

"Then, just like their elders, they'll wait until the last two weeks before the registration closing date to register," Meyer said. April 13, 1972 is the closing date for voter registration, 54 days before the 1972 election.

Meyer said he will meet with members of such organizations as the League of Women Voters on Jan. 19 to discuss how youth can be educated to their voting privileges and how and when they should register.

Hardin Predicts Ecology Advance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will move toward a cleaner environment because the nation is aroused over the problem and willing to pay for a solution, Agriculture Secretary Hardin said.

And the nation can have both a cleaner environment and ample food for the rest of this century, at least, if it makes the right decision about land use, Hardin told an environmental seminar for newsmen.

Asked why he was predicting more progress than had been made in environmental improvement in earlier years, Hardin replied, in effect, that there is now a "national consensus" for environmental action which did not exist in the past.

Ailing Bourguiba Flys To U.S.

The route from his residence to the airport was heavily guarded and only his two nieces were allowed to see him off. They said he appeared tired.

Bourguiba, 68, has not fully recovered from a hepatitis attack which forced him into six months treatment at a Paris Clinic last year. He suffered a coronary thrombosis attack in 1967.

Stork Does Double Duty

ADSTOCK, England (UPI)—Two expectant mothers named P. Seaton turned up at Adstock's 12-bed hospital at the same time Tuesday. They both gave birth to boys at 2:55 a.m. and the babies weighed almost exactly the same.

"Amazing," said chief nurse Delia Frost. "Neither mother had ever met the other before.

Mrs. Patricia Seaton said she and Mrs. Penelope Seaton thought they might be related "but we're not."

Former Heavyweight Champion Liston Found Dead In His Home

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Sonny Liston, a bull-shouldered brooding fighter who developed his boxing skills in a prison ring and later won the world heavyweight championship, was found dead in his home late Tuesday. He was 38.

Deputy coroner Dick Mayne said Liston had been dead about a week. His body was found in his plush home in the Paradise Palms area near the 16th hole of the Sahara-Nevada golf course on the Las Vegas strip by his wife Geraldine.

Deputies said Mrs. Liston had been out of town for about 10 days. Mayne said an autopsy would be performed later today to determine the cause of death.

After being released from prison at the age of 21, he beat 33 of 34 opponents before winning the championship from Floyd Patterson Sept. 25, 1962, on a first-round knockout.

Liston, who was arrested for robbing a gas station in St. Louis at the age of 18 and sentenced to concurrent five-year prison terms, also kayoed Patterson in their title rematch in July 1963 in the first round. He had been released from prison after serving 29 months and had immediately turned pro.

He lost the championship to Cassius Clay Feb. 25, 1964. He also lost a rematch to Clay May 25, 1965.

Shortly after his defeat he moved here and won 14 straight fights before being knocked out by Leotis Martin December of 1969. He continued his career sporadically after that.

Not even Liston was probably sure of his age, but it was listed as 38 in the boxing record book.

His life and career were continually filled with controversy.

SONNY LISTON
Cause unknown

He began boxing in 1953, his escape after constant run-ins with the law, but the cure didn't work. In 1957, he was back in jail again for assault.

During those first four years, he developed his reputation as a menacing puncher, losing only once in 15 bouts and knocking out seven opponents. He also got a reputation for durability in his only loss when his jaw was broken in the first round but he went the distance to be defeated by Marty Marshall on an eight-round decision.

In two meetings with Patterson, the image was at its zenith as he destroyed the champion to win the title in 1962 and repeated his one-round kayo a year later in his first defense.

The image was shattered by the brash, young Clay, and Liston was even unable to get a license in the state of New York. He had always been linked with underground figures, and he was accused of not giving his best when he gave up against Clay in the seventh round.

He claimed that his shoulder had been dislocated during the bout, and became the first heavyweight champion to lose the title by giving up on his stool.

The rematch against Clay was supposed to come early in 1965, and Liston said he was ready. However, his associates confided that something had left Liston during that loss to Clay, and they were right.

His effort to regain the title ended in the quickest knockout in heavyweight title history, exactly one minute. Many ringsiders claimed they did not even see the punch, and Liston's image was tarnished forever.

He tried to come back, however. He scored 18 consecutive victories, including 17 kayoes, and then fought Martin in what could have paved the way to another title bout.

Here's A Hot Rumor: Plunkett To Cowboys

Hottest rumor coming out of the east has Stanford's sensational quarterback Jim Plunkett going to the Dallas Cowboys next season in a big trade with the Boston Patriots.

Here's the deal, offered by Dave Scofield of Larkspur after a conversation with a New York Times scribe: The Patriots, worst team in the National Football League thus first in the college player draft, will pick Plunkett as their first choice and then trade him to Dallas for running back Calvin Hill, speedy wide receiver Bob Hayes and offensive guard John Niland."

Boston already has a very expensive quarterback in Joe Kapp and can't afford another one like Plunkett. Also, the Pats need bodies like the aforementioned Cowboy trio. And, it is no secret that Hayes and Hill are not in good favor with Coach Tom Landry.

SPEAKING OF kicking around, the portly, gray haired gentleman seen kicking and passing a football around San Rafael these days is businessman Al Tognoli. He won an autographed 49er pigskin at the Marin Goal Rushers Club meeting Monday.

ALSO,GOAL RUSHER member Pat McTigue told me that just before game time Sunday at Kezar he was offered two $12 tickets for $1. That's a scalper getting scalped.

AND SPEAKING OF THE Goal Rushers, why, oh, why, doesn't the Marin Chapter ever get Coach Dick Nolan or quarterback John Brodie to one of its Monday meetings?

I asked Brodie why he never came to Marin and he said it was too far and besides he committed himself to only three personal appearances a year.

Well, the players who appear at these luncheons get only $50, so that means the wealthy Brodie just isn't interested in chicken feed.

SPEAKING OF Brodie, there is one consolation to his defeat with the 49ers against Dallas Sunday, knocking him and them out of the Super Bowl on Jan. 17. That just means that he will be able to defend with Bob Rosburg their Crosby Pro-Am Golf title at Pebble Beach that same day. Aren't you happy for Brodie?

YES, VIRGINIA, the famous Goodyear blimp of television overhead fame was at Kezar Sunday.

ALSO, I WAS happy to see the Kezar pressbox loaded Sunday with working press. As you know, in the past the box was loaded with politicians, their wives, children and friends.

WHEN BALTIMORE and Dallas meet in the Super Dooper Jan. 17, it will be their second January bowl meeting. In 1965 the Baltimore Colts routed the Dallas Cowboys 35-3 in that defunct Runner-Up Bowl. The game was played in Miami, by the way, site of the upcoming Super Thing.

Pro Bowl For Nolan, Madden

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Forty Niners Dick Nolan and the Oakland Raiders' John Madden, defeated semi-finalists in the NFL playoffs, will coach the NFC and AFC respectively in the 21st Pro Bowl game at the Los Angeles Coliseum Jan. 24.

The Forty Niner and Raider assistants will help their bosses prepare the two squads, it was announced Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Nolan said that free safety Rosey Taylor had notified him that he will definitely be back in 1971. In the discouragement of the 17-10 loss to Dallas Sunday, the 31-year-old Taylor said he might quit the game.

But he later telephoned Nolan to end the rumors.

And in New York, it was announced that Oakland would pick 19 in the forthcoming pro draft and San Francisco 23.

Celebrities Help Start Golf Tour

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The pro-amateur curtain-raiser for the $110,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open drew a flock of celebrities today such as Bob Hope and Dean Martin from the world of entertainment and baseball's Tony Coigliaro.

Two courses, Rancho Park and Brentwood Country Club, were needed to accommodate the 432 amateurs signed for the 18-hole prelude by singer Glen Campbell, cosponsor for the first time this year with the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Hope, who sponsors his own tournament at Palm Springs later in the winter, was paired with none-other-than Arnold Palmer, three-time winner of the 72-hole Open which starts at Rancho Thursday.

A Very Sour Day In Prep Basketball

Marin County Athletic League basketball teams lost four games without winning yesterday, thus ending the preseason on a sour note. Only one high school — Terra Linda — was to have played again before the start of the league campaign Friday night.

Three of the MCAL's top teams lost yesterday. Redwood bowed to Westmoor in Daly City, 70-61, Marin Catholic was edged by Justin in Napa, 55-54, and San Marin lost a high-scoring affair to Sonoma, 89-81.

For Redwood, the loss will probably mean banishment from the bay area's top 20 poll, which the Larkspur team made this week at 17th. The Giants got 29 points out of center Steve McGee, and 20 from forward Scott Trobbe, but almost nothing from anyone else. They were ahead at the half by one, but fell behind for good early in the second half.

Dave Riley led Westmoor with 23 points.

Marin Catholic suffered a dismal lapse in the third quarter against Justin, getting outscored, 22-10, and proceeded to lose despite coming back with 19 points to the Braves' 10 in the final period. Bill Donellan and Tim Stone scored 14 apiece to lead the Kentfield school.

The loss, Marin's fourth against 10 victories, didn't mean much, since coach Dave Hennessy played everyone on his bench. Nine of the Wildcats got into the scoring column.

San Marin proved once again it can score at a torrid pace, but so did Sonoma. Dick Romberg and Dan Waldron hit 26 points each for the North Bay I League club, as they kept the pressure on the Mustangs throughout the game.

Center Dana LaFerriere poured in 24 points, and recently hot shooting Jim Thompson added 23, but the Novato school slumped in the second and third quarters, following which they trailed by 24 points.

Drake's loss was a heartbreaker. The San Anselmo team scrambled back from a 17-11, first quarter deficit to lead at the half, 23-22, but couldn't hold on. Three players scored in double figures for the Pirates — Jit Singh had 16, Jim Forni 12 and Mark Daubenfeld 10.

In the final game of the preseason, Terra Linda was to meet Castlemont today at 3:30 p.m. in Oakland.

Gals Begin Chase For Tennis Loot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The cream of woman tennis players begin swapping serves today for a first prize of $4,300, their richest payoff in the history of the sport.

As usual, three gals from Australia will have a strong say in determining the eventual winner of the $15,000 British Motors Women's Pro Tennis championships at the Civic Auditorium. They are Judy Tagert Dalton, Kerry Melville and six-foot-plus Karen Krantzcke.

Seeded No. 1 is Billie Jean King of Long Beach who opens with Esme Emanuel of South Africa. Rosie Casals of San Francisco, the second seed, goes against Miss Krantzcke tonight in the elimination tournament.

Other first-round draws pit Miss Melville against Darlene Hard of Van Nuys, Denise Carter of Los Altos versus Peaches Bartkowicz of Michigan, Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., against Valerie Ziegenfuss, and Mary Ann Curtis of St. Louis versus Stephanie Johnson of Denver.

In other night matches, Mrs. Dalton tackles Francoise Durr of France while lefty Ann Haydon Jones of England opposes Kristy Pigeon of Danville.

Surprise Loss For San Rafael

In a "surprise" high school basketball game, Pinole Valley defeated San Rafael, 50-34 at San Rafael. The surprise was that the Pinole team was supposed to bring their freshman and junior varsity teams to town, and they also brought the varsity.

It was San Rafael's second loss of the year to the Spartans, and it was no contest. Mark Farrar led the Bulldogs with nine points, followed by Bill Lechner with eight.

Sonoma '5' Is Still Winless

With 4:30 remaining the Cossacks were able to come within two points of the Vikings, 55-53, but were handled by Fresno's Ron Brannan who bucketed two crucial baskets to secure the game. Brannan finished with the game high of 21 points.

Warriors Hoping To End Their Skid

BUFFALO (UPI) — It's usually windy, below freezing and snowy along Lake Erie this time of the year but the San Francisco Warriors won't mind.

If they were assured of breaking a three-game losing string, the Warriors would probably play at the North Pole. Instead they have a chance to do it tonight against the expansionist Buffalo Braves.

The Philadelphia 76ers hung a 97-92 loss on the Warriors Tuesday night at Philadelphia. That kept San Francisco in third place in the NBA West behind Los Angeles and San Diego.

Despite operating below par with a pulled groin muscle, guard Jeff Mullins contributed 18 points to the Warriors attack against the 76ers. Only other Warriors in double figures were Nate Thurmond with 28 and Jerry Lucas with 12.

Nate missed eight shots from the free-throw line and the Warriors as a team connected on only 32 of 44 from the charity stripe against the 76ers. With a little better luck from inside the gift circle, the Warriors might have pulled it out.

Philadelphia turned ice cold in the fourth quarter and made only 4 of its 20 shots from the field. San Francisco came within one point of the winners at 85-84 with 4:47 remaining and outscored the 76ers 22-17 in the fourth quarter but were never able to take the lead.

Archie Clark with 22 points and Jim Washington with 21 paced a well-balanced Philadelphia attack that saw nine players in the scoring column, four of them in double figures.

MC LAIN GOLF BUDDIE LOSES SOME TEETH

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The blade of Denny McLain's golf putter came off its shaft Tuesday and struck a playing partner in the mouth, knocking out several teeth.

An official at Cyprus Creek Golf Club said the foursome of McLain, Don O'Malley, Jack Harrell and John Mack, all of Lakeland, Fla., was on the eighth green when the accident happened.

The club spokesman said McLain apparently had missed a putt and after tossing the ball lightly into the air swung at it with the putter much like a baseball player hitting a fungo.

High-Flying Marin Tars To Open Conference Play

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The College of Marin Tars, who have marched all but undaunted through their preseason basketball schedule, take the court tonight in San Bruno against Skyline College in their 1971 Camino Norte Conference opener.

Led by superstars Roosevelt Green and Joe Smith, the Tars have racked up 15 wins, 10 in a row, against a single loss, and have attained a reputation as one of the finest junior college outfits in California. They will undoubtedly rank in the top 10 when the first polls are announced.

But rankings and reputations mean little — "Game to game it's a new challeng," says Tar coach John Panagakis - and each game on the CNC schedule is a toughy. The league, with five of its seven teams boasting winning records in the preseason, is probably the best balanced of any league in Northern California.

Still, the Tars have to be considered favorites to win the title. In beating every preseason opponent except Los Angeles City College, the Kentfield boys displayed a scorched earth policy — their average margin of victory has been 15 points!

Panagakis sums up the vastly successful preseason succinctly — "Better shooting. We've been getting good scoring from Green and Smith (averaging 18 points apiece), and then there's always a third player; Mike Peden will be hot one day, or Kenny Gommerinnger."

Yet for all their shooting ability, the Tars have hit the century mark only once, (103 points against Napa), and are scoring at the rate of only 77 points per game.

Ah, but they have held their opponents to just 63 points per game! "The defense has a lot to do with our success," says Panagakis. "Everyone's been playing good defense lately."

Panagakis hesitates to single out individuals for praise; "Everybody's contributed, and this is what makes the difference." But anyone who has seen them play will not easily forget how Green, a 6-foot-6 center with amazing body control, and Smith, an Oscar Robertson-type shooting guard, can dominate a game.

Joining them in the starting lineup tonight will be the same players who started the first preseason game. The forwards are Peden and Ed Herrnberger, and Ron Small handles the other guard spot. Small, the team's defensive standout, sat out the last two games with a pulled hamstring muscle, but he's been pronounced ready to go.

Although Marin depends largely on the starting five, Panagakis has some players on the bench who can do damage when given the chance. Reserve guard Charlie Flynn, a dangerous defensive man who has the knack for making the big play, filled in for Small so well hardly anyone knew the difference.

And when Green suffered a dislocated shoulder during the Marin Invitational tournament, Bob Duryee and Bob Ward were outstanding in minimizing the importance of his loss.

The Tars blew their final two preseason opponents off the floor in the first half; they led Ohlone, 40-17, and Cabrillo, 44-25. That, obviously is what they'll be trying to do against Skyline. "If we can get the upper hand early, then they've got to play our game," says Panagakis. "We want to control the game, make them play our slow down kind of basketball."

The Tars will need to be at their best, since Skyline is as tough a club as they will face in league play. The Titans bring an 8-3 preseason record into tonight's game, including a second place finish in the Questa tournament last month in San Luis Obispo.

The San Bruno club has height in 6-foot-8 center Earl Wilson and 6-foot-7 forward Paul Reynolds, and scoring punch provided by guard Matt Kriletich, who carries a 17 points-per game average.

Both Panagakis and Skyline coach Walt Rilliet feel this game is a perfect league opener, matching two powerful teams. If the Tars play their best, however, they might be unbeatable, both tonight and for the rest of the year.

10th Straight Term For Nash As Golf Head

Keeler Nash of Mill Valley has been elected president of the Mill Valley Golf Club for the 10th consecutive year, it was announced yesterday.

Nash, sales manager for American Van Lines in San Francisco, was first elected to the post in 1962, when the Mill Valley Club consisted of 43 members, and held four tournaments. Today there are 193 members, and 26 tournaments are scheduled for 1971.

Other officers elected for 1971 are Paul Taylor, chairman of the board of directors; Jules Prizant, vice president; Ed Victor, secretary treasurer; and Peter Pantages, publicity chairman.

Redskins To Hire Allen?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Allen, fired last week as coach of the Los Angeles Rams, has been given a "solid offer" to become coach and general manager of the Washington Redskins, the Washington Post said today.

Marty Zad, the Post's executive sports editor, wrote that one Los Angeles source reported that Allen and the Redskins "are on the verge" of agreement, but quoted Allen himself as saying "as of this moment, I don't know what I'm going to do."

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland Browns quarterback Bill Nelsen will undergo a third operation on his fragile knees and club owner Art Modell said he considers it a good omen.

Dr. Donald H. O'Donoghue, an Oklahoma orthopedic surgeon, recommended the corrective surgery after examining Nelsen.

"If Dr. O'Donoghue had said nothing could be done then it would be a gloomy report," Modell said. "But he gave no indication that Bill's career is finished by any means."

Basketball

NEW YORK (UPI) —Rumors of a proposed merger next week between the National and American Basketball Associations were termed "completely untrue" Tuesday by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

The recent jumping of Spencer Haywood from Denver of the ABA to Seattle of the NBA supposedly was the move needed to effect a merger between the two leagues, according to an exclusive story in a local newspaper.

Bowling

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Dave Davis fired a 1744 series in the second round of the $75,000 U.S. Open Bowling Tournament here to maintain his lead after 16 games.

Davis has a 3546 total for the two rounds, for an average of 221 per game. Trailing Davis is second year pro Bob Shank, Loraine, Ohio.

Jimmy McHugh, Newark, N.J., is in third place with 3454.

AFC'S OUTSTANDING ROOKIE

Dennis Shaw Wins Honor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quarterback Dennis Shaw, whose strong passing arm and field leadership made the Buffalo Bills a potent offensive threat for the first time in several seasons, has been named Rookie of the Year in the American Football Conference by the United Press International.

Shaw, who amassed 2,507 yards through the air this past season, was named the AFC's top rookie in a balloting of 30 sportswriters, at least two from each AFC city. The Bills' quarterback won in a close race with tight end Ray Chester of the Oakland Raiders. Shaw received 12 votes to nine for Chester, a second team all-pro selection.

Wide receiver Ronnie Shanklin of Pittsburgh, running-back Bob Anderson of Denver and linebacker Bob Babich of San Diego each received two votes, and running-back Norm Bulaich of Baltimore, defensive back Jake Scott of Miami, cornerback Earlie Thomas of New York, defensive end Tony Cline of Oakland and cornerback Lemar Parrish of Cincinnati got one vote apiece.

Shaw, a graduate of San Diego State, was the last of the 1970 draftees to sign a pro contract and he missed most of the Bills' pre-season training camp. He did not become the team's No. 1 quarterback until the third game of the regular season, and the 6-foot-3, 198-pound signal-caller was rather surprised to learn that he had been selected as the AFC's top rookie.

"I missed so much of training camp that I was more set on winning a job with Buffalo than anything else," he said. "It's really amazing that I've come this far."

While most quarterbacks take several years to develop, Shaw was able to step in and do the job in his first year, and he credits his training at San Diego State for his ability to make the transition.

"We played a pro type offense in college," said Shaw. "I learned to read defenses and how to send backs out on pass patterns, and I believe that helped me a lot."

Shaw's amazing self-confidence was his strong suit, however. From the moment he stepped into the huddle in his starting debut against the New York Jets, the Bills knew they had a leader.

"He seemed so humble when he first came to us," said Shaw's favorite target, wide receiver Marlin Briscoe. "Then when he got in that huddle, he was telling guys to shut up and taking over completely."

"He showed us one thing immediately," added O.J. Simpson. "He's a helluva leader."

Shaw engineered the Bills to a 34-31 upset of the Jets in his debut as he passed for 317 yards. The following week he passed for 203 yards against Pittsburgh and came back with a 349-yard game against Miami. At the end of the season only Oakland's Daryle Lamonica had more total yardage (2,516).

Shaw ranked second behind Lamonica in overall passing until the end of the season when he slumped to fifth. Interceptions were his biggest problem. He was intercepted 20 times, which was the second highest figure in the National Football League. Ironically, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw, the No. 1 draft choice and the man expected to win top rookie honors, led in most passes intercepted with 24.

"I want to cut down on my interceptions next season," said Shaw. "I threw the ball a lot of times this year when I shouldn't have."

Chester, a graduate of Morgan State, was a virtual unknown when he walked into the Raiders' training camp, but he quickly proved himself to be one of the league's best tight ends. The 6-3, 220-pounder caught 42 passes for 556 yards and seven touchdowns and was a punishing blocker. He was named to the UPI's all-AFC second team.

Montgomery Surprises Petalumans

The Petaluma High School Trojans were upset by Santa Rosa's Montgomery Vikings in a North Bay I League opener last night, 50-48; and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park, playing without its two main stars, won anyway over Piner in an opening game of the North Bay II League, 47-44.

Rancho Cotate held on despite being outscored, 13-7 in the fourth quarter to whip Piner of Santa Rosa. The Cougars played without star center Ron Seiler, sidelined with the flu, and ace backcourt man Mike Wlodarczyk, out with a sprained ankle, and relied heavily on Wayne Broyles and Steve Wlodarczyk. They scored 13 and 12 points respectively.

NHL President Hands Out $6,000 In Player Fines

MONTREAL (UPI) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League President, has levied more than $6,000 in fines against players from four teams who became involved in on-ice brawls during two games last month.

Campbell also ordered center Walt McKechnie of the Minnesota North Stars to pay $250 for an incident in which he accosted a referee after being penalized.

It was the second time in less than three weeks the NHL President has assessed fines totalling thousands of dollars. Just before Christmas, he handed down a total of $15,580 in fines for similar incidents.

The first incident dealt with Tuesday occurred Dec. 26 in Toronto when the Leafs hosted the Philadelphia Flyers. The second involved the Rangers and St. Louis Blues in a game at New York the following night.

Fourteen Philadelphia players and 13 each from St. Louis and New York paid the automatic $100 fine for leaving their bench to join in the two separate fights.

Twelve Toronto players were ordered to pay $200 each because it was the second such incident involving the Leafs in less than three weeks.

In addition, Flyers goaltender Bernie Parent was asseesed $100 for leaving his crease to join in the Toronto-Philadelphia mix-up.

The Tononto outbreak occurred with less than two minutes left on the clock as Brian Spencer of the Leafs and flyer Bob Kelly skated toward their own benches for a routine player change before a face-off.

The pair collided and began slugging it out, Both benches cleared and all players began fighting.

After Spencer and Kelly were separated and officials were escorting them to their benches, Spencer punched another Philadelphia player and a second fight erupted.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Poor Visibility Can Be Dangerous

I try to keep track of the trend in boating accidents by clipping selected newspapers from across the nation. It's somewhat comforting to know that although the number of boats in use during 1970 was up by about SEVEN per cent, the accident rate appears to be holding its own or even running a little behind last year. We are getting more safety conscious.

But I've noticed that as winter came on, there were more accidents involving fog and operations after dark . . . both conditions of poor visibility.

It's obviously an area of great uncertainty when visibility is involved. I've been asked many questions along this line that are difficult to answer. Here are just a few:

Q. A man drove his boat into my dock in a fog at night and he's threatening to sue unless I repair his boat. Can he do this?

A. The $64 question is . . . Was your dock obstructing a navigable waterway? and what permission, or right, did you have to build it. I'd get a lawyer fast. In the meantime, don't touch his boat. It could be an admission of liability.

Q. I was fishing after dark when a fast motorboat almost hit me. I got his name and number. Could he be charged with an offense?

A. If you did not show a white light in time for the operator of the oncoming boat to avoid you, you are at fault. If you did show the light, then he was at fault. It's possible he could be charged with reckless or negligent operation of a boat under your state law.

Q. Will white paint make the corners of my dock stand out at night?

A. A better thing is fluorescent reflective paint or tape. The cheapest is the luminous reflector tape frequently sold in hardware stores for kids' bicycles. Put strips on your dock corners and edges, or on stakes out in the water. They will glow in the beam of a flashlight and put everything in place.

Q. What's the difference between a flashing light and an occulting light?

They both flash.

A. Flashing lights blink on at intervals; occulting lights blink off at intervals. If a light is off more than it's on, it's flashing; if it's on more than it's off, it's occulting. It's a lot harder to explain the difference than to recognize it. Such lights are used mostly on ocean approaches or the Great Lakes.

Q. Why can't you water ski at night?

A. Well, apart from its being idiotically dangerous, it's against the law. I suppose one is a consequence of the other. It's banned from one hour after sunset to sunrise in almost every state.

Q. Are directional signals required on a boat trailer?

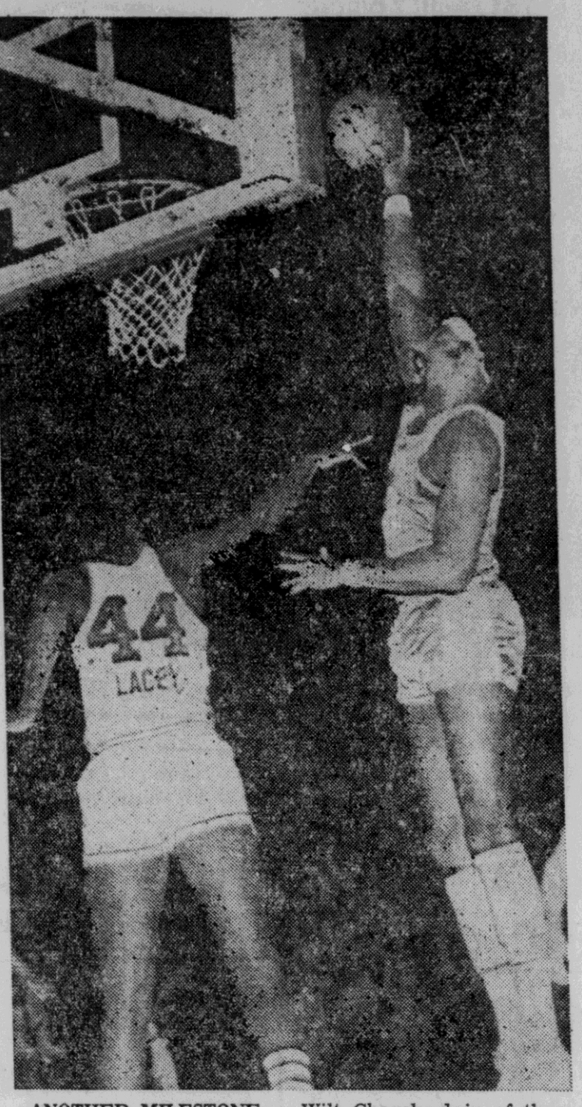
A. They are required in most states on trailers of recent manufacture.

Q. Only after I was in a collision did I know that a sailboat was required to sound fog signals. Why don't you warn others?

A. I shall. Here's what the law says: A sailboat under way shall sound at intervals of not more than one minute: (a) When on the starboard tack, one blast; (b) When on the port tack, two blasts; (c) When the wind is abaft the beam (coming from behind) three blasts.

Q. Aren't the fog signals different in the various sets of Rules of the Road . . . such as International Rules, and Inland Rules?

A. Yes they are, and the differences are too complex to explain here. Get copies of the various rules. They come in three booklets . . . International-Inland Rules (in one book); Great Lakes, and Western Rivers. The three publications are available free from any Coast Guard District Office, or Coast Guard Marine Inspection Office.



ANOTHER MILESTONE — Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers last night became only the second man in NBA history to reach 20,000 career rebounds. Sam Lacey of the Cincinnati Royals looked on helplessly as Wilt got two of his 41 points. He also got 23 rebounds, but L.A. lost, 146-112.

NBA ROUNDUP

Wilt Reaches New ReboundingPlateau

By United Press International

It was a night for milestones in the National Basketball Association.

Wilt Chamberlain became the second man in league history to get a careertotal of 20,000 rebounds as he grabbed 23 and added 40 points for Los Angeles Tuesday night, but despite his efforts the Lakers lost to the Cincinnati Royals 146-112. Chamberlain, who went past the 20,000 mark with 1:32 left in the first half, is second in career rebounds only to retired Bill Russell, who had more than 21,700.

Detroit's Dave Bing also passed a milestone as he got his 2,000th career assist, setting up Otto Moore and giving the Pistons a lead they never lost as they beat the Atlanta Hawks 98-90. Moore hit 12 of his 22 points in the third quarter as Detroit overcame a 12-point deficit for the victory.

Baltimore got 24 points from Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson for a 109-101 victory over Seattle. Spencer Haywood, who jumped to Seattle from Denver of the ABA recently, got 14 points in 33 minutes.

Once again, Seattle's opponent played under protest on the contention that Haywood is not eligible to play under NBA rules. The case on whether he belongs to Seattle or Denver comes up in court on Friday.

"I don't want to talk about legal difficulties," Haywood said. "I just want to play basketball and make a living. I'm not in any kind of shape yet. I do admit all this legal stuff has got me down, but once it gets straightened out my concentration should come back."

Johnson, who guarded Haywood, said, "He is going to be a great player, an asset to Seattle and to the NBA. I feel I can speak for the other guys on this team. They welcome him to the league. There will be no way to stop him once he blends in with their system and learns the plays. He was awful tight. I could see right away when I came on the floor."

In a doubleheader at Philadelphia, Archie Clark scored 22 points and Jim Washington 21 as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the San Francisco Warriors 97-92, and Geoff Petrie got 27 points to spark Portland over Boston 124-120. Chicago beat San Diego 116-103 in the only other game.

Seals To Open 2nd Half

OAKLAND (UPI) —The second half of the National Hockey League race opens tonight with the California Golden Seals at home to tough St. Louis.

The remaining Seals' schedule calls for 24 home games and 17 out in the snowy heartland. It gets better next week after the Seals come home from a four game trip.

The Seals have mustered only 11 wins this season, but nine have been achieved at home. Since the Seals don't plan any personnel changes, the home ice advantage may be the Seals' only hopes in catching anybody.

Coach Fred Glover tried to make a deal Tuesday, but after hours on the phone, he gave it up.

St. Louis came from way back to tie here 2-2 earlier in the season and then took a 3-2 verdict at St. Louis.

"We should have won both games," said Glover. "We gave 'em two goals here and in St. Louis we hit the post five times."

South Carolina 'Ordered' To Play In Maryland Gym

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)— Second-ranked South Carolina has been warned by the Atlantic Coast Conference that it faces severe punishment if the Gamecocks don't play Maryland at College Park, Md., Saturday night.

The Dec. 16 contest between the two teams at Columbia ended in a brawl and South Carolina officials had asked the ACC to cancel the remaining game for "the safety of our team and fans."

Gamecock officials said the situation had a precedent. Duke cancelled its season basketball games with South Carolina without penalty from the ACC several years ago following a controversy over the eligibility of a Gamecock player.

But acting ACC Commissioner Norvall Neve refused to grant South Carolina a similar "cooling off" period in the Maryland controversy.

Neve warned that if the Gamecocks fail to show Saturday, other ACC teams might cancel their games with South Carolina.

"I don't know whether or not they will do this, but I know as acting commissioner of the ACC I will take action in my office that will make the University of South Carolina ineligible to participate in post-season activities," said Neve to USC Athletic Director Paul Dietzel

USC basketball Coach Frank McGuire quoted Terp Coach Lefty Driesell as saying after the melee that "if a fight doesn't start when we play again, then I'll start a riot."

USC board of trustees chairman T. Eston Marchant said Driesell's "inflammatory remarks" as well as other information from "private but reliable sources" indicate that the game should be cancelled.

Neve told Dietzel that Maryland officials have promised to take every precaution for the game and that the Gamecocks must accept their "contractural responsibility" to play the game.

The Gamecocks, upset by North Carolina Monday night at Chapel Hill, N. C., return to action tonight

Free Boating Classes To Start This Month

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and Marin Power Squadron have announced plans for free boating classes.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary will conduct a free course in basic seamanship one night per week at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley.

The 8 to 10-week course, which will include instruction in navigation, maneuvering, charts and compasses, legal responsibilities and safe motorboat operation, will be held on Wednesday nights at 7:30 beginning Jan. 13.

An introductory course in small boat handling will be taught during the spring months at three Marin County locations by the U.S. Power Squadron.

The 13-week course, entitled "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling," will be held on Tuesday nights at San Rafael High School, on Wednesday nights at Redwood High School in Larkspur and on Thursday nights at Novato High School, beginning the week of Jan. 25. Starting time each night will be 7:30.

The Power Squadron, according to piloting chairman Bob Hamilton, is a volunteer organization dedicated to teaching boating safety, piloting, seamanship and handling. The course will embrace all those aspects of small boat operations, plus other subjects such as terminology, charts, government regulations.

Various members of the Power Squadron will teach the classes, which will be held free of charge to the public. Those who pass the course will be invited to join the Power Squadron, and will be eligible for more advanced courses.

Baltimore Begins Super Workouts

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts Wednesday went through their first workouts in preparation for the Super Bowl meeting with the Dallas Cowboys 11 days from now. Their wives will be banned from Miami until the day before the game.

"Two years ago it was like a Barnum and Bailey circus," said head coach Don McCafferty, who was an assistant to Don Shula when the Colts went South in 1969 and were beaten by the New York Jets.

"This year, wives and families will not be allowed until right before game time, either late Saturday night or Sunday," McCafferty, a father of four, said.

"This is a business trip for us, not a vacation," he added.

Tarkenton Honored

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New York Giant quarterback Fran Tarkenton was named National Football League Player of the Year Tuesday by the Washington Touchdown Club.

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 6, the sixth day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1759 George Washington married Martha Custis.

In 1898 Simon Lake made the first telephone call from a submarine to land.

A thought for today: American novelist James Cabell said, "The optimist proclaims that we live in the best of all possible worlds and the pessimist fears this is true."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Contract Is Unusually Good, Tourney Player Shuns Overtrick

I the earlier columns of a week devoted to tournament bridge I have made much of the fact that the successful duplicate player must try for overtricks even at the risk of the contract. Only when the contract itself is unusually good can the tournament player afford to safeguard the contract rather than try for anything extra.

EXPERT'S CALCULATION

West leads the jack of diamonds, and South wins with the king. Declarer sees that he can easily win all 13 tricks if the four missing clubs are evenly divided.

An expert tournament player might play for all of the tricks if this hand came at the end of a session when he needed an absolute top score to win the event or to qualify for the next session. But at any other time the expert would be content to make six notrump since that would probably earn him a far better than average score for the hand. The expert would assume that some players would fail to reach a slam with the North-South cards, and others would play the hand at six clubs (which brings in only 1370 rather than the 1430 points for six notrump).

SAFETY PLAY

The only danger to the contract is a 4-0 split in clubs, and South can guard himself against this by a simple safety play. Declarer leads the four of clubs from his hand to see what West does.

When West follows with the deuce or trey (playing the queen or jack would make life very easy for South), declarer should take a deep finesse with dummy's five of clubs. When this remarkable finesse wins, the rest is easy.

If East had been able to win the first club trick, only two clubs would remain out, and declarer would later capture them with the ace and king. If West discarded on the first club, declarer would put up dummy's ace and return a club through East to kill one of the missing honors.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner open with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- A 7 5 3
♥- K 10 7 4 3
♦- Q 7
♣- A 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards.

If he bids spades or hearts, you will raise to game in his suit. If he bids two diamonds (denying a major suit), you will jump to three hearts.

Recovery Seen For Research-Cottrell

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought shares of Research-Cottrell at 51. These dropped to one-third of my cost but have since recovered to over 30. Do you think I should hold for further recovery? — T. A.

A. Yes. The recent acquisition of Metcalf & Eddy and Connell Associates, whose combined revenues in fiscal 1970 were clost to $16 million, has broadened Research-Cottrell's stake in pollution control.

Metcalf & Eddy is an acknowledged international leader in sewage disposal; and Connell has wide experience in architectural engineering and waste treatment. A balanced firm offering total environmental management services, including "software" and "hardware", is R-C's goal.

Earnings for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1970, were up 33 per cent to 76 cents a share on a 38 per cent gain in sales, excluding Degremont-Cottrell sold November 1. A $32 million order for cooling towers received last April should begin to show up in earnings this year.

Shares, trading at about 32 times estimated fiscal 1971 results, may consolidate in the 30-40 level for the next few months. However, longer-term prospects for growth are excellent and many analysts rate the industry as one of 1971's top growth areas.

Q. I hold 200 shares of El Paso Natural Gas which I purchased at about 25-1/4. I will retire next year and my goal is both income and appreciation. — J.C.

A. El Paso is a leading natural gas transmission company, its principal market being California - a rapidly growing area. For the nine months ended September, share earnings declined to $1.11 from 1969's $1.19.

The decline primarily reflects losses recorded in Beaunit Corp's textile and synthetic fiber operations and a sharp rise in the income tax rate. In addition, El Paso experienced reduced demand for automobile tire cord due to the GM strike.

Because these adverse conditions were carried into the fourth period, full-year earnings may fall below 1969's restated $1.63. However, higher gas rates and continued strong demand should aid 1971 results. Shares look good for income and capital appreciation potential.

Stockholders Paid Double

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A double dividend was paid inadvertently to shareholders of Signet Corp., a consumer finance company with gross income of about $12 million a year, but the company may skip the next quarterly payout to square the books.

Directors last Nov. 18 declared a dividend of 7 ½ cents per share to shareholders of record Dec. 2. But the checks went out Jan. 2 on the basis of 15 cents per share.

The company said directors will meet Jan. 13 to approve the overpayment but the overpayment will be taken into consideration when the next regular quarterly dividend action is considered.

Printing Corp. Buys Facilities

NEW YORK — (BW) — Printing Corp. of America said that its affiliate, the Bookwalter Co., had completed purchase of the Cleveland printing and binding facilities of the Wofld Publishing Co. Terms of the sale were not disclosed.

The announcement was made by Douglas M. Johnson, president of PCA. PCA is a division of American Can Co., Greenwich, Conn.

Bank Of America To Open Branch In Tiburon Friday

Bank of America will open its newest Marin County branch at 10 Main Street, Tiburon on Friday.

The location is a temporary one but will provide all banking facilities except safe deposit boxes which will be available when the bank occupies permanent quarters later in the year in a new building to be constructed opposite the junction of Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road.

The new office will be headed by Mrs. Virginia Hoffman, who has lived in Corte Madera for the past 20 years. Recently she has been on the regional administration staff in Santa Rosa. Previously she worked in the Hamilton Air Force Base and main San Rafael offices.

A ribbon cutting ceremony will be held at 9:45 a.m. on Friday, following an all day open house. Refreshments will be served, along with souvenir gifts and a guessing contest on the age of a giant redwood tree will be held. Prizes will be awarded.

Japanese Firm Seeks GM Link

TOKYO (UPI) — The country's top producer of trucks and buses will ask the government next month for approval of its financial tieup with General Motors Corp.

Kyodo News Agency said Isuzu Motors Ltd. will propose that GM have a 35 per cent ownership of Isuzu, well above the level insisted upon previously by the Ministry of International Trade and Industry.

Trade and Industry Minister Kiichi Miyazawa said he would have no objection to the 35 per cent interest in the firm by GM provided the remainder of the shares are controlled by domestic shareholders.

Market On Plus Side Once Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market advanced today for the second day in a row in continued reaction to optimistic remarks by President Nixon on the outlook for the economy in the next two years. Trading was brisk.

Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co., said the market also was helped by seasonal factors, such as usual beginning-of-the year reinvestment demand.

Other factors stimulating demand for stocks were speculation that the Federal Reserve Board, which regulates the nation's credit policies, may soon announce a cut in the discount rate to member banks, and belief that a one-quarter point cut in the prime interest rate by a Pennsylvania bank would soon become widespread.

Among the most active big board stocks were Federal National Mortgage down more than a point on more than 80,000 shares, Leasco Data, fractionally higher on 70,000 shares, and Bankers Trust up more than a point on 65,000 shares.

Prices also pushed ahead in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Leasco data warrants, the most active Amex issue, was up a fraction on 40,000 shares.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead about 1.92 at 837.69 after almost two hours, while the Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.42 at 92.21.

Other stocks up a point or better included DuPont, Kerr-McGee, Standard Oil of Ohio, Chesapeake Ohio Railway, KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, Honeywell, Control Data, Motorola, Chase Manhattan, Walter Kidde, and Bausch & Lomb.

EPA Grant To Salvage Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said it may be possible to turn millions of junked automobiles into treasure troves of now wasted zinc, aluminum, brass, copper, and stainless steel.

Physicists at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., are trying to work out a profitable system for recovering non-ferrous metal from junk cars which now yield only steel on a paying basis.

Their project is supported hy $210,000 from EPA and $105,000 contributed by the university. Said EPA administrator William D. Ruckelshaus: "A staggering amount of our natural resources is presently lost to use forever because salvage is not always profitable. The technique being developed at Vanderbilt, if commercially feasible, could provide the incentive to remove some of the 17 million junked cars that are now strewn throughout our countryside."

Satellite Move

NEW YORK (UPI) — RCA Corp. said its Alaskan subsidiary has asked the Federal Communications Commission for permission to establish a satellite communications ground station at Lena Point near Juneau. This move would create the first intrastate satellite communications system in the United States.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Marvelous Marin?

At least one visitor from Germany who was staying with relatives in the county doesn't think so, or that it's not only the weather that occasionally gets cold — but also the hearts of our businessmen.

After being escorted around to see the sights he ventured out on his own, calling at several shops and probably also stopping off for a beer or two. During this itinerary he acquired so many $1 bills in change that his pocketbook bulged uncomfortably. To lighten the load he went to a local bank to convert them back into larger denominations.

His English was limited to a few words — too few to make the teller understand that he had passed out most of his previous stock of 10s and 20s because he did not wish to become embarassed by his unfamiliarity with our currency in making exact change. Getting nowhere and feeling the need to identify himself he produced his passport and other German papers. That apparently was a big mistake, for it served only to arouse the teller's suspicions and she refused to touch his ones — though they showed no signs of being counterfeit.

Dismayed, but not giving up, he tried his luck at two more banks — with the same lack of success. Nettled by this reception, he returned to his relatives, stayed with them a day or two longer, then told them he decided not to settle in Marin and invest in buying a restaurant here after all.

At last report he and his wife were on their way to Florida where the climate is warmer and friendlier. So too, apparently, are the people.

IT IS BELIEVED that Walgreen Drugs has not given up its idea of opening a discount drug store in the Novato Fair Shopping Center, Novato — but plans evidently have not moved out of the preliminary stage and it may be a long time before any construction takes place. An 18,200-square foot store costing about $350,000 is being planned.

JOSEPH N. YARNELL of Mill Valley has opened a consulting civil engineering practice at 960 Harrison Street, San Francisco. He has spent the last 18 years in construction and engineering in Spain, North Africa and the Bay Area.

JUSTIN N. TIERNEY of Kentfield, vice president and administrative assistant to the president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, will speak on what the insurance industry is doing to handle new problems before the Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club tomorrow morning. He appears on behalf of Western Insurance Information Service.

WITH COMMISSION RATES about to be changed by the Securities Exchange Commission and the New York Stock Exchange, a firm known as Fast Facts, P.O. Box 117, Menlo Park, has put out a pocket size plastic cover slide rule containing both existing and new commission rates. It measures performance, compares securities and includes all trading charges so that exact break-even points and brokerage fees can be known in advance. Price is $2.50 postpaid.

THE NOVATO DIVISION of Western California Telephone Co. reported 14,600 telephones at the end of 1970 — an increase of 716 over the end of 1969. But new telephone connections for customers who moved into and within the division during last year was 4,080. The Novato division includes Kenwood and McCloud in addition to the City of Novato.

New Orders Up To $54.6 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI — New orders for manufactured goods totaled $54.6 billion in November, an increase of 0.7 per cent over October, the Commerce Department reported.

Manufacturers shipments declined 1.2 per cent to $54.3 billion November while the backlog of unfilled orders increased 0.3 per cent to $82.1 billion at the end of the month.

Manufacturers added $600 million to their inventories in November increasing their stock on hand to $100 billion.

Increased Pensions

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. will increase pension benefits on Jan. 1, for all employees retired prior to 1970. Increases range from 33 1-3 per cent for the smallest pensions to a flat $10 a month. The company has 16,000 pensioners, twice as many as 10 years ago.

Baptiste Hits Safety Commission

Is the Marin County Safety Commission really necessary or can it be replaced by the county personnel office working with a safety engineer?

These questions were posed by newly seated Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste yesterday at his first session with the board of supervisors.

The eight-member safety commission meets monthly to review accidents involving county employees, determine whether an accident was avoidable, and issue reprimands where the employee is obviously at fault.

Administrative Snafu

Late last year, the commission ran into an administrative snafu when chairman Robert Bertrand of the sheriff's office missed most of the meetings. Since Bertrand carried the backlog of accident reports with him, the commission could not proceed with their accident review.

In October, the commissioners named Richard I. Uchida, senior personnel analyst, as temporary chairman and began a reorganization by setting terms of office for each member and designating alternates with power to vote in the absence of the regular members.

On a suggestion by Supervisor John F. McInnis, the board asked the county administrator's office to see if a safety engineer can be provided by the county's liability insurance carrier and to review the operation of the Safety Commission.

"They should be concerned with safety measures to reduce accidents and that's all," said McInnis. "A committee such as this may be desirable, but it has been left to wander."

Safety Commission

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom (alternate Jerry Van Soest), Sgt. George Reuss of the sheriff's office (alternate Capt. Harvey Teague), Lester Reeser of the department of public works (alternate Alfred Ravina), Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard (alternate Philip Economon), Paul Brusseau of the weights and measures office (alternate Paul Fraire), Bette L. Riebeling of the medical department (alternate Jane Drost), and Uchida of the county personnel office (alternate Jack Atkin).

The eighth member will be a county supervisor. Last year, the supervisor's representative was William A. Gnoss, but the new board has not yet named its representative.

Entry Of Plea Set In House Burglary

Robert Karry Campbell, 18, of Petaluma, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing an Inverness residence Dec. 9.

He will plead to the charge Monday.

Suicide Prevention Center Finds Home

Marin Suicide Prevention Center has found a home base for its telephone crisis center — in the county health clinic building at Fourth Street and Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

The board of supervisors yesterday agreed to rent a portion of that building to the center and asked the county administrator's office to negotiate a rental fee and bring back a lease agreement.

Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows said the amount of rent would be set after negotiation with the center officials.

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

SEPTIC TANK — Upheld a 60-foot setback requirement for septic tank leaching lines to be installed on three acres of steep land owned by Donald S. Manion on Margarita Drive in the Country Club Tract, east San Rafael. Manion wanted a setback of 35 feet from Margarita Drive, but county health officials warned that sewage may seep down the embankment.

HOUSEBOATS — Heard from county marine inspector Richard L. Larson that code enforcement against houseboats in Richardson Bay has reached the point where the county is able to contain the houseboat colony. During December, four houseboats moved out, two were demolished, and no new houseboats have been added, Larson reported.

AGRICULTURAL — Set 3 p.m. Feb. 2 for a public hearing on the county's agricultural preserve area.

BIKE PATH — Approved payment of up to $4,000 to Hoffman and Albritton of San Rafael to prepare plans and specifications for a bicycle path and fence from Sausalito city limits to Richardson Bay Bridge. The state has approved a $30,000 grant for construction of the bicycle path.

LIBRARY — Awarded a $23,578 contract to M. G. West Co. of San Francisco, lowest of four bidders, for furnishings and accessories for the new Novato Branch of the Marin County Library.

SECURITY — Asked the Marin County Employees Association to poll its members on how they felt about the security at the Civic Center and to make a report Jan. 19.

MANZANITA — Approved an agreement giving title to the Manzanita Children's Center to the Sausalito School District as per a lease of July 1, 1967.

LIGHTING — Authorized spending $3,400 for addition street lighting on Civic Center Drive. It authorized the staff to work with the City of San Rafael and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. on sharing the cost of the lights.

HELIPORT — Authorized increasing the per passenger charge from 25 to 33 cents for San Francisco-Oakland Helicopters for use of the heliport at Sausalito in a new lease running until June 30. The company has been using the heliport without a lease for the past three years.

CLAIMS — Denied a $35,000 claim by Naomi Dominic of 27 Somerset Lane, Mill Valley, for injuries allegedly received when she stepped into a hole beside Lomita Drive on Oct. 31.

SUITS — Said County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney could file a $5,500 suit against United Pacific Insurance Co. for lack of street maintenance at Meadowland Unit One subdivision; a suit against Eichler Corp. for failure to install improvements on Weatherly Drive, and a $3,400 suit against Kent Woodlands Properties Inc. to recover the cost of clean-up by the county after development work by the company.

CAFETERIA — Despite appeals by employees groups, declined to reverse its decision of last week to grant permission to two San Rafael chefs to operate the Civic Center cafeteria. The employees said a contract should have gone to a nationwide cafeteria firm because prices would be cheaper.

Sarte Drama To Open Jan. 15

A play by existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre, "No Exit," to be performed by Pandora Productions, will open Jan. 15 at 8:30 p.m. in Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

Leads in the play will be played by Norman Sturgis, Michelle Truffaut, Jan Duke and Gene Schankel. Pandora Productions was formerly located in Los Angeles but has moved to Mill Valley.

Subsequent productions of the play will be on Fridays and Saturdays through Feb. 6. Tickets may be obtained at the Great San Rafael Coffee and Tea Store, 936 B Street, San Rafael, or by calling Pandora Productions in Mill Valley.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Chester Nicholas Krawczuk, 21, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana. Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Krawczuk was arrested Monday after two Sausalito policemen, dressed in civilian clothes, picked him up while he was hitchhiking on Bridgeway. Police said Krawczuk told the officers he had some marijuana "to share." A search revealed marijuana as well as hashish in a plastic bag in his pocket, police said.

Marin Move On Mudslide Insurance

Marin County will seek permission to join an emergency program which provides federally subsidized insurance to cover flood and mudslide damage to private property.

The board of supervisors yesterday asked County Administrator Alan Bruce to submit an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, which administers the subsidized insurance program.

The county's application will be only for the emergency program, which would give property owners the right to federally subsidized insurance through Dec. 31 of this year.

For coverage next year, the county must enter a regular, nonemergency program, which will have several strings attached, said Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows. He said the county would have to set up flood plain areas and impose restrictions on land planning and use in those areas. Barrows did not know exactly what those restrictions would be.

The supervisors decided they would not commit themselves to the regular program for 1972 until they know what the restrictions would be.

Larkspur and CorteMadera have already joined the emergency program. County supervisors asked Bruce to write to other cities, inviting them to join.

$1.2 Million To Hurt Girl

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —A young woman who was seriously injured in a 1966 auto accident was awarded $1.2 million in damages Monday in what was believed to be the highest amount assessed in U.S. District Court here against the federal government.

The award was made in the case of Marilyn Heym, 24, of Gradyville, Pa., who was injured in an accident involving an auto driven by her mother, Mrs. Mary Heym, and a government-owned sedan operated by a soldier who was on Army business.

Miss Heym, who was an accomplished horseback rider and instructor and an art student, is confined to a wheelchair, requiring custodial care for the remainder of her life.

COURT SCENE — Attorney Allan Brotsky of San Francisco rose at the counsel table in Marin Superior Court during yesterday's hearing to ask that Angela Y. Angela Seeking Transfer, Unconfirmed Report Says

Shoot-Out Defendant Asserts She's Innocent

By MARY LEYDECKER

Where will Angela Y. Davis, who yesterday protested her innocence in a Marin court hearing, be tried?

The attorney who will handle her trial, Howard Moore Jr., of Atlanta, Ga., was en route to Georgia today from Marin County and was not available to confirm or deny a report that he will ask that the trial be held in another county.

The 26-year-old Communist claimed yesterday that she is a victim of a political frameup and that she is innocent of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges.

Miss Davis is accused of supplying the guns and helping plan the Aug. 7 shoot-out at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Harold J. Haley was killed.

Moore, a former Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee attorney, indicated in court yesterday that motions for a change of venue from Marin and one seeking to sever Miss Davis's case from that of her codefendant, Ruchell Magee, were being considered.

Yesterday, five attorneys representing Miss Davis asked that she be allowed to act along with them as her own laywer. The move, apparently intended to allow the black militant to speak in court without forcing her to take the witness stand, was taken under consideration by Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

The judge said, however, that he will ask an outside judge to make a ruling on this and other motions, in-

STATEMENT TO COURT

In court yesterday, Angela Y. Davis was allowed by Judge Joseph G. Wilson to read the following statement:

As a preface to these brief remarks, I now declare publicly, before this court and before the people of this country, that I am innocent of all charges which have been levied against me by the State of California.

I am innocent; therefore I maintain that my presence in this courtroom today is unrelated to any criminal act. I stand before the court as the target of a political frameup, which far from pointing to my culpability, implicates the State of California as an agent of political repression.

Indeed, the state reveals its own role by introducing as evidence against me, my participation in the struggles of my people, black people, against the obvious injustices of this society, specifically, my involvement in the Soledad Brothers Defense Committee. The American people had been led to believe that such involvement is constitutionally protected.

In order to insure that these political questions are not obscured, I feel compelled to play an active role in my own defense. As the defendant, as a black woman and a Communist, it is my duty to assist all those directly involved in the proceedings as well as the people of this state the American people in general to thoroughly comprehend the substantive issues at stake in my case.

These have to do with my political beliefs, affiliations and my day-to-day efforts to fight all the conditions which have economically and politically paralyzed black America. No one can better represent my political beliefs and activities than I.

UAR Threat Mars Talks Resumption On Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)— Egypt mounted a diplomatic offensive today to win concessions from Israel in the Middle East peace talks and warned that there might not be an extension of the cease-fire which expires Feb. 5 unless the concessions were forthcoming.

The talks resumed Tuesday after a lapse of nearly five months with U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring meeting separately with Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah, Egyptian Ambassador Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat and Jordanian envoy Muhammad H. el-Farra. Further talks were set for today.

El-Zayyat voiced Egyptian suspicion of Israel's sincerity Tuesday after a meeting with Jarring in the mediator's 38th floor office in the U.N. Secretariat Building: "I am not as hopeful as when I went in. I did not get anything to show there is a serious intention to talk."

Tekoah met with Jarring for half an hour today. Tekoah declined comment on el-Zayyat's charges that Israel was not seriously negotiating and would say only, "we have resumed the talks," He said he would remain in "constant touch" with Jarring.

Today, Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad told newsmen in London that a clear cut Israeli commitment to withdraw from occupied Arab lands is the key to an extension of the cease-fire deadline of Feb. 5. He made the statement after talks with high British officials.

"We want to hear clearly that Israel is ready to withdraw and U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring should present a program of implementation of the November, 1967 Security Council resolution," Riad said. The Arabs hold that that resolution calls for Israeli withdrawal from "all" captured lands. Israel does not accept the word "all."

U.S. Ambassador H. Walworth Barbour conferred in Jerusalem today with Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and diplomatic sources said they discussed the Egyptian threats not to continue the cease-fire unless Israel provides a timetable for withdrawal. The sources said Israeli Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin also was discussing the matter in Washington with U.S. assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco.

Authoritative Israeli sources said the talks must give first priority to the shape of the peace each side wants and could break down unless the continual threats of new hostilities cease. The sources said Israel would press for a new cease-fire agreement early in the Jarring talks.

Riad was vague on the possibility of new fullscale hostilities in the Middle East. He said Egypt expects Israel to try to force it to surrender and, "it is our duty to liberate our territory, and we shall not ask permission from anybody as to how and when we shall do so."

He said Cairo looks for "peace with justice" and is prepared to accept "a package-deal" settlement based on the 1967 U.N. resolution. But he said Egypt is not prepared to face an indefinite status quo if by Feb. 5 Israel has failed to offer a clearcut commitment to withdraw.

Anti-U.S. Protests In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—A half dozen Soviet workers walked into the U.S. Embassy today and delivered letters protesting against what they called "Zionist hooliganism" and "anti-Soviet hysteria" in the United States involving Russian citizens and performers.

The Soviet government Tuesday announced it had officially protested to the United States against such alleged acts and warned that it could not be responsible for the safety of the 400 or more Americans in Russia. The State Department rejected the note and said it would hold Russia responsible.

The anti-Russian acts in the United States including attacks against Soviet offices in New York stemmed from protests against the alleged mistreatment of Jews in Russia and the Leningrad trials of Jews on attempted airplane hijack charges.

The latest Soviet protest came at the United Nations in New York when the Soviet mission to the U.N. protested a "hooligan" attack that allegedly injured a Russian diplomat and frightened his sleeping son inside the Soviet Mission. The protest demanded prosecution

Solano Jury Closeted In Valentine's Day Case Study

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — A Solano County Superior Court jury today began deliberating the 34 charges against seven men arrested during the violent Feb. 14 labor demonstration outside the Independent-Journal.

Judge William E. Jensen spent this morning reading to the jury 29 pages of instructions as to the laws the seven were accused of breaking.

The 10 women and two men on the panel then retired to begin deliberations on a mountainous pile of evidence submitted during the trial that began 11 weeks ago. The evidence, besides the testimony of 40 witnesses, included portions of two television films of the Valentine's Day violence, more than 175 photographs, a slingshot, two blackjacks, a picket sign and various missiles.

The trial was switched here after the defense told a Marin County judge it felt the seven couldn't get a fair trial in San Rafael.

During two days of summation arguments, Marin County Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas declared that the demonstration against the I-J was "an application of good old strong-arm techniques to show the employer they could shut him down."

San Francisco International Typographical Union 21 had struck the I-J Jan. 7, and the Feb. 14 demonstration drew a crowd variously estimated at 400 to 800 persons in support of the printers. During the day, windows throughout the I-J plant were smashed, a delivery truck was set afire, 2 persons were injured and 14 were arrested on various felony and misdemeanor charges.

"These defendants and the others there that day went there not to exercise their right of free speech," Thomas declared as he finished prosecution arguments at 9:40 p.m. yesterday. "And they were not there to persuade I-J employees not to work, nor to gain public support" for the striking union.

Five of the seven on trial are printers, including John J. DeMartini, 47, of Mill Valley, vice president of Local 21. He is the only I-J employee among the seven men on trial.

"If DeMartini and the union were interested in getting public support" against the I-J, "they were going at it in a very peculiar way," Thomas said.

Defense attorney Carl B. Shapiro repeatedly labelled four of the counts against the defendants as "the I-J charges" during his final arguments yesterday. The counts involve participation in a riot, unlawful assembly and refusal to disperse.

"If the I-J can establish this was a riot or an unlawful assembly, it helps them gain public sympathy," Shapiro said.

Dole Is Probable GOP Chief

The message went out by telephone to Republican National Committee members who will meet in Washington Jan. 15 to elect a successor to Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, who is resigning to become secretary of the interior.

Morton, now at a holiday retreat in the Bahamas, was reported to have telephoned Washington Monday to pass the word to Dole and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

Dole met Tuesday with Scott and the assistant Senate GOP leader, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. Neither Scott nor Griffin was enthusiastic about the choice.

Morton announced through the national party headquarters that a nominating coomittee was being created to consult him and the President before submitting a name to the national committee.

A committee of 12 is being formed—and advised that Nixon's choice is Dole. It expects to meet with the President Jan. 14 if he has returned by then from California.

Scott, who served as GOP chairman in 1948-49 while a member of the House, has argued consistently that the chairmanship should be a full time job and not held by a member of Congress.

It also was clear that Scott was cold toward Dole because he felt the Kansan would appear to be an administration spokesman who sometimes might seem to be in conflict with the official Republican leadership in the Senate.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee has been checking the sentiment of Senate Republicans to decide whether to run against Scott for the floor leader post when Congress reconvenes Jan. 21.

Dole has maintained neutrality toward any such contest.

Laird Forecasts End To U.S. Viet Missions During Year

PARIS (UPI) —U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today American forces in South Vietnam will wind up their combat missions this year.

Speaking ata news conference Laird said South Vietnamese armed forces henceforth will assume the burden of fighting the Communists and remaining American troops will have a security mission only.

Laird told newsmen the Nixon administration has accomplished "substantial progress" in disengaging the United States from the Vietnamese conflict.

He said Phase One of the program of Vietnamization, or handing over the ground fighting to the South Vietnamese, was ahead of schedule and would be completed before the end of 1971. Phase One, he said, consisted in entrusting American forces chiefly with logistic, artillery and aircraft operations.

Laird said the Vietnamization program was a complementary action and that the Nixon administration still considered the two-year-old Paris peace talks as the main hope for producing a settlement.

Laird said that completion of Phase Two of the Vietnamization program will see American forces hand over to the South Vietnamese the artillery, logistic and aircraft support. He said Saigon troops will be able to meet not only a Viet Cong but a North Vietnamese threat as well.

Laird said that since the Nixon administration took over early in 1969 American military personnel in Southeast Asia dropped from 549,000 to 345,000 presently, or 9,000 below the ceiling fixed under the phase-out.

He said that by May 1, 1971, there will be only 285,000 men in the area or less.

Thus, he said, by the end of

Four U.S. Officers Cleared Of Charges In My Lai Affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Charges were dropped by the Army today against four officers accused of covering up the alleged My Lai massacre.

The action left only three officers still charged out of 13 originally accused of suppressing information about what happened at the village in South Vietnam on March 16, 1968. None of the 13 was accused of crimes of violence in the death of civilians at My Lai.

Guinn and Gavin were both advisers to South Vietnamese officials in Quang Ngai Province, where My Lai is located.

Watke was commander of a helicopter company flying choppers in and around My Lai the day of the incident. Calhoun was executive officer and operations officer of Task Force Barker, the unit made up of Capt. Ernest Medina's company and two other companies.

Of the 13 officers charged last March with nonviolent crimes, three still face charges including the highest ranking officer involved in the case.

He is Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, who commanded the Americal Division, of which the

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Polish Aftermath

WARSAW (UPI)—The Polish Communist Party has ordered a fullscale review of the food riots last month and the economic factors that caused them, it was disclosed today.

The disclosure came in today's edition of the official party newspaper Trybuna Ludu which quoted Antoni Walaszek, the party secretary in Szczecin (Stettin)—one of the cities where violence erupted.

Walaszek told a meeting in Szczecin on Tuesday that the party Politburo "has begun preparations to convene a plenary session of the Central Committee to make a detailed evaluation of the December events and the results of the last five-year economic plan."

LaPorte Charges

MONTREAL (UPI) — Four members of the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ) were charged formally Tuesday with the kidnap-murder of Provincial Labor Minister Pierre Laporte last fall.

Paul Rose, 27; Jacques Rose, 23, his brother, Francis Simard, 23, and Bernard Lortie, 19, were ordered, to appear in court Thursday when a trial date will be set.

Police read an unsigned statement at a coroner's inquest Monday, which they said was made by Simard, which said the Rose brothers strangled Laporte with the chain of his religious medal Oct. 17.

Podgorny To UAR

CAIRO (UPI)—Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny will visit Egypt next week in his first trip to the Middle East since he visited the area immediately following the 1967 war, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said today.

The newspaper said Podgorny, accompanied by a high-ranking Soviet delegation, will attend ceremonies marking the completion of the Soviet delegation, will attend ceremonies marking the completion of the Soviet-financed Aswan high dam and hold talks with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Opium Ban Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Crime Committee suggested today the United States ban all legal imports of opium and morphine as a way to cut down heroin addiction.

The committee said in a report that such a ban could be accomplished because there are synthetic substitutes which could be used as pain killers. Such a prohibition, the committee added, would facilitate international controls on illegal narcotics. Heroin is made from opium-producing poppy seeds, which also are used for making morphine.

"Outlawing the importation of illicit morphine into this country also strengthens the position of our negotiators charged with the task of convincing opium-producing countries to end that production," the committee said.

Pittsburgh Strike

PITTSBURGH, (UPI)—County health officials threatened to go to court to end a three-day-old strike of municipal workers which has stopped garbarge collection. A "health hazard" appeared imminent.

The city's 110 public schools have been closed since Monday to their 73,000 students by 2,000 striking members of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers. The city's two newspapers shut down Sunday night when 230 pressmen struck the Pittsburgh Press Co.

A wildcat strike of several hundred city employed Teamsters Union members spread to 2,500 municipal employes Monday, including sanitationmen, road crews, plumbers, mechanics and laborers.

Chile Take-Over

VALPARAISO, Chile (UPI)—Marxist President Salvador Allende announced Tuesday his government was taking over two American firms and said foreign businessmen who refuse to comply with Chilean laws will be asked "to return to their homeland."

"We don't want some Americans to stay too long in Chile," Allende said in reference to an apparent government decision to buy out an affiliate of the Ralston Purina Co., a cereal firm.

The company is Alimentos Purina S.A. and has been taken over by the government for alleged undercapitalization which threatened jobos of Chilean workers.

Allende listed the other firm as NIBSA, partly owned by the National Brass Co. of Elkhart, Ind. NIBSA is a valve and fittings firm.

Tuition Hike

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—Tuition at Harvard University has been hiked $200 to $2,800 for the 1971-72 school year, according to officials at the nation's oldest university who announced the third straight tuition hike in three years Tuesday.

THE ARTISTIC TOUCH

New Mexico's first major storm of the winter has brought joy to these two Albuquerque youngsters as they pose their dog Caesar for snow sculpture. The cold front, which has also been felt in the Bay Area, has abated in Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, describing the weekend snow blast as the worst since "'89." Only Florida has managed to escape winter's first real frigid touch. Temperatures were in the mid-70s in Miami and Key West, Fla.

Army Dope Crackdown In Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command said today as many as 45 per cent of all American soldiers in Vietnam are believed to have used marijuana or hard drugs. It announced a massive campaign to destroy marijuana fields and rehabilitate drug users.

The command said drug violations had been rising steadily and rapidly ever since U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War began 10 years ago.

In an official directive to military police and other elements of the command, the U.SK. Headquarters here said there are expected to be at least 11,000 arrests among GIs by the time figures for all of 1970 are totaled. And it estimated there are at least five habitual drug users for every man caught.

A quarter million Japanese tourists visited the U.S. in 1970.

U.S. Bombers Blast Ho Chi Minh Trail

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B52 bombers struck targets in South Vietnam today for the second time in three days. Military sources reported one of every four American planes lost in Indochina in 1970 went down in Laos.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 632 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in a month-long campaign in the Mekong Delta.

B52s pounded the Ho Chi Minh Trail and its branch roadways in Laos and parts of South Vietnam. The areas bombed Tuesday night and today were not far from the site of Stratofortress strikes Monday, just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

The strikes reported today were only the 10th mission by B52s inside Vietnam since they began a concentrated bombing campaign at the Ho Chi Minh Trail on Oct. 9.

Military sources said the air war in Laos had been responsible for 25 per cent of all American aircraft losses in the Indochina war last year.

The U.S. Command has reported aircraft losses in Laos only since March 18.

FBI Boss Skims Over The Radicals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today racial disorders, attacks on polce and subversive activities continued to be a threat to the country in 1970, but he noted a decline in racial incidents in schools.

Hoover's observations were included in his 1970 annual report, which noticeably lacked any of the rhetoric and tone of impending trouble of Hoover's testimony two months ago when he asked Congress for money for an additional 1,000 agents.

The report noted but did not dwell on the Black Panther Party and the radical new left, as have recent past reports. It did not mention the alleged plot to kidnap a White House official, outlined by Hoover in congressional testimony.

Toover said racial disorders in 1970 did not reach the level of the riots of the 1960s. He also said the number of racial disorders in secondary schools declined from 299 in the first four months of the 1969-70 school year to 160 during the same period this school year.

But "the number of incidents of racial disorder that did occur in our cities and in secondary schools, along with the many unwarranted attacks on police, strongly indicate we are far from the realization of racial harmony in the nation," he said.

Hoover said persons identifying themselves as Black Panthers were responsible for the deaths of six police officers and the wounding of 22 others, a "marked increase" from the previous two years when five were killed and 42 wounded.

Hoover's report led off with a five-page recitation of FBI accomplishments against organized crime. He said FBI investigations in 1970 resulted in 468 convictions of persons involved in organized crime, with 1,200 other cases pending. He said nine of the top bosses of the two dozen criminal syndicates were arrested.

High Mercury Level In '27 Fish Catches

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Fish caught decades ago in New york have been found to contain levels of mercury higher than those now considered contaminating by the federal government, state officials said Tuesday.

Henry 1. Diamond, commissioner of Environmental Conservation, said tests made on museum specimens have produced "high levels in about a dozen preserved fish." The evidence was "statistically ... not enough" to determine if such high levels of mercury were common years ago, or to draw any conclusions about the effects from eating such fish, he said.

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) rules specify mercury in excess of 0.5 parts per million is hazardous.

Samllmouth bass and pike caught in Lakes Ontario and Champlain as far back as 1927 had concentrations of 1.0 parts per million, Diamond said. The peak mercury level the state testers found was 1.03 parts per million in fish taken from Lake Ontario near Rochester in 1939.

Some of the specimens' mercury contamination could be associated with manufacturing processes in operation in nearby waters at the time the fish were caught, Diamond said. But he also had results on fish caught during 1930 in undespoiled Adirondack ponds. Those preserved fish had mercury levels of 0.5 parts per million—the same concentration of mercury that caused federal officials to call off the market supplies of swordfish and tuna in recent months.

Transbay Tube To Marin Suggested By Sonomans

SONOMA (UPI)—The president of the Sonoma Chamber of Commerce Tuesday said an underwater tube for rapid transit should link San Francisco and Marin County, enabling a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge to handle automobiles.

Chamber President Mel Washington made the recommendation at a hearing of the Golden Gate Bridge directors attended by about 50 persons.

The bridge district is holding a series of public hearings throughout the counties making up the district: Sonoma, Marin, Napa, Mendocino, San Francisco and Del Norte.

The hearings concern five alternate plans proposed for the district's long range needs.

Three of the plans call for a transit deck on the bridge for buses or rail traffic only. Two envision an underwater tube for rail transit between San Francisco and Sausalito.

Another has the Bay Area Rapid Transit traffic entering Marin on a bridge running parallel to the Richmond-San Rafael bridge.

Sonoma County Supervisor Ignacio Vella said mass transit plans must be worked out to include "Petaluma, Santa Rosa and Healdsburg from San Francisco."

"We will pay the price 200 fold ten to 20 years from now if we do nothing," he said.

Report Says Angela Seeks Venue Change

cluding one asking bail for Miss Davis. She is to return to court in early March.

Meanwhile, both Marin officials and the National United Committee to Free Angela Davis viewed with some alarm a State Department invitation to 14 Russian scientists to come to Miss Davis's trial.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, in charge of courtroom proceedings for the trial if it is held in Marin, sent a letter to Martin J. Hillenbrand, assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Maloney wrote to Hillenbrand, the author of the invitation, that "if there is any likelihood of an acceptance," he should be "aware of several facts."

Maloney told Hillenbrand that the 104-seat courtroom would scarcely be able to "accomodate 14 observers plus interpreters plus State Department representatives plus United States and Russian security personnel . . ."

Fear that an entourage of Russians and their guards might take over the courtroom also was expressed by the Angela Davis committee, which is headed by her sister, Fania Davis Jordan, and Franklin Alexander.

In a written statement, the committee called it a "paradox" that "Soviet citizens will be given VIP treatment while thousands of worried and concerned Americans, expecially black Americans," will be prevented from coming to the trial.

It is unknown whether the Soviet government will even allow the scientists, who had expressed concern for a fair trial, to come to this country.

In addition to protesting innocence yesterday in her first public statement since she was captured in New York City, Miss Davis also was quoted in the publication "Muhammad Speaks" as giving her reasons for her flight to avoid prosecution.

"I fled because I was convinced there was little likelihood I would get justice in California," she was quoted as saying.

She accused Gov. Ronald Reagan and his "Fascist cohorts" of firing her from her job at University of California at Los Angeles because of political views, adding "How could I fail to realize that they were now determined to murder me."

Meanwhile, at the Marin Civic Center, intensive body searches of persons entering the complex have eased since the installation of metal detectors at each entrance.

Sheriff's Capt. Harvey Teague said today that frisking is now being done "at random" with the choice of whom to search up to deputies at the doors.

Marinite Is Arraigned For Inciting

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A former candidate for Marin Municipal Court judge has been arraigned on charges stemming from a post-game fight among spectators at Kezar Stadium Sunday.

A second Marin man accused in the brawl was to be arraigned today. Meanwhile, city officials have called for action to halt hooliganism and drunkenness at San Francisco football games.

Arraigned Monday was attorney Thomas H. Thorner, 38, of Kentfield, who was charged in municipal court with inciting to riot, disturbing the peace and interfering with a police officer. He is to plead Monday.

Wayne M. Clark, 27, a hair stylist from San Rafael, was to be arraigned today. He was arrested on suspicion of resisting arrest and disturbing the peace in the melee at the stadium.

Both men claimed they took no part in the fights or in the barrage of beer cans and bottles that punctuated the Forty Niners' loss to the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football Conference title game.

Mayor Joseph Alioto said, "It is perfectly clear that something must be done to cut down rowdyism during and after games." However, the mayor, who attended the game, declined comment on a prohibition ordinance drafted by the recreation and parks commission.

Supervisor Peter Tamaras declared the drunken brawling a "terrible disgrace" to San Francisco.

The chairman of the recreation and parks commission, Loris DiGrazia, said San Francisco "can't afford to have people's lives endangered as they were Sunday at Kezar."

virtually condemns to silence the one person who stands to lose most would seem to be self-defeating. It is particularly crucial to black people to combat this contradiction inherent in the judicial system, for we have accumulated a wealth of historical experience which confirms our belief that the scales of American justice are out of balance. In order to enhance the possibility of being granted a fair trial, of which I am at present extremely doubtful, it is imperative that I be allowed to represent myself. I might add that my request is not without legal precedent.

If this court denies our motion to include me as co-counsel in this case, it will be aligning itself with the forces of racism and reaction which threaten to push this country into the throes of fascism. The many people who have become increasingly disillusioned with the court system in this country will have a further reason to solidify their contention that it is no longer possible to get a fair trial in America.

the U.S. fiscal year a total of 325,000 American soldiers will have left Southeast Asia while the fighting potential of the Allies in the area has been sharply strengthened.

"The Nixon administration attaches great importance to the negotiations here and the work being done were by Ambassador (David K. E.) Bruce," Laird told a news conference.

"The goal of this administration is still very much a negotiated settlement in Vietnam and Southeast Asia," he said.

Laird said the Vietnamization program was ahead of schedule and that by May 1, the number of American military personnel in Vietnam will have been reduced to 284,000.

Laird pronounced the Vietnamization program "a full success." "Vietnamization aims at allowing the South Vietnamese to have a combat capability of meeting not only any threat from the Viet Cong but also to handle any attack by North Vietnam," he said.

"I think the North Vietnamese and the VC (Viet Cong) can do very well to notice of this," Laird said. He said the administration was "confident that Vietnamization will work."

of the militant Jewish Defense League (JDL) for the attack.

The Russians said during anti-Soviet demonstrations in front of the Soviet mission on Dec. 27-28 members of the JDL installed themselves on the balcony of a synagogue across the street and threw a bottle into the mission. They said it crashed into a room, seriously injuring the father and frightening the child.

MIDEAST

newspaper Al Ahram which often voices the Egyptian government viewpoint accused Israel of using delaying tactics in the talks, and referred to Tekoah's statement that the basic settlement issue may not be discussed for three months and that the cease-fire should be maintained in the meantime.

Then it voiced the same position as Riad: "Egypt will not agree to renew the cease-fire if agreement is not reached on a timetable for Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories." It said the Israeli attitude threatened to escalate Mideast tension and this could "lead to dangerous consequences for which Israel would be fully responsible."

Israel had no immediate comment on the talks, but Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today in Jerusalem that Egypt has more than reestablished its missile power in the Suez Canal truce area despite Israeli air attacks last summer which destroyed more than 100 Soviet-made batteries.

His statement was considered significant because it was Israeli charges of a missile buildup that led Israel to pull out of the talks last autumn. Since then Israel has received U.S. assurances the balance of power will be maintained.

Israel got another unofficial pledge today from Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who told a news conference at Tel Aviv's Lydda Airport today: "The United States is committed to Israel's survival. It has always been and I expect always will be."

In the actual talks Tekoah was reported to have insisted on discussing procedural matters such as site and level of the talks rather than substantive issues such as Israel withdrawal.

"inept," operating without any well-defined tactics, and were brutal to demonstrators, depriving them of their rights of assembly under the First Amendment.

Thomas held that "the police used remarkable restraint" and were harrassed, pelted with missiles and assaulted by demonstrators.

The defendants, besides DeMartini, include Terry W. Lansing, 20, of Oakland; James J. Brooke, 36, of Guerneville; Joe E. Reese, 32, of Hayward; Charles P. Vance, 56, of South San Francisco, and Nimmes H. Shelton, 41, and Alvis D. Bailey, 43, both of San Francisco.

All except Shelton are accused of felony assault on police officers; Shelton and Bailey are accused of felony possession of blackjacks, and all are charged with participating in an unlawful assembly or in a riot, misdemeanor charges.

The jury was sequestered beginning with dinner last night. It will remain in a motel except during its daily deliberations. The panel put in a long day yesterday, from 9 a.m. to 9:40 p.m., with a total of two and one-half hours off for meals.

CHARGES

My Lai units were part, at the time of My Lai.

He was superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point when he was charged with "failure to obey lawful regulations and dereliction in the performance of his duties." Koster resigned from West Point the same day the charges were placed.

The other officers still facing similar charges are Col. Oran K. Henderson, then commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade, and Capt. Dennis H. Johnson, then serving with a military intelligence detachment.

The charges against Koster and the others grew out of an investigation by a special Pentagon panel which conducted secret hearings in Washington and also visited Vietnam.

Those accused of suppression of information about My Lai were transferred to Fort Meade after the charges were made. Gen. Seaman was then assigned the responsibility of conducting an investigation—the military equicalent of a grand jury proceeding.

Tools Taken

Tools of undetermined value were stolen between 11 p.m. Sunday and 7 a.m. Monday from Brogioli's Richfield Service Station, 100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, police said yesterday.

OBITUARIES

Rica Mayer Dies At 104

Funeral for Rica Mayer, 104-year-old San Anselmo resident who died in a local hospital Sunday after a long illness, is scheduled in Vancouver, Wash.

A native of Vancouver, Miss Mayer spent her childhood in Washington, D.C. She never married and never had an occupation but lived with her sister who was married to an Army man.

She spent a few years in the Philippines with them and then moved to California more than 50 years ago, living in San Francisco until eight years ago when she came to San Anselmo to live with Ann Kendrick, a friend. Two years ago she entered a convalescent hospital.

On the occastion of Miss Mayer's 100th birthday in 1966, her great-great niece, Mrs. William E. Carewe of Ross, said, "She's very keen and in good health. She loves to read and enjoys TV. She quit smoking 10 years ago."

Burial will be in Vancouver Memorial Cemetery.

MRS. LADAS

Funeral for Georgia G. Ladas, 76, of 14 Pacheco Street, San Rafael, was held Thursday in Marysville. She died Dec. 29 at a local hospital apparently of a heart attack.

A native of Sparta, Greece, she had lived in Marysville for 50 years prior to moving to San Rafael two years ago.

She is survived by two daughters, Janice Marefos of San Rafael and Patricia K. Ladas of Sacramento; four sons, Philip G. Ladas of Sacramento, Nick G. Kerhoulas of Yuba City, James G. Kerhoulas of Fremont, and Peter G. Kerhoulas of Sacramento; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Sierra View Memorial Park.

ALMA FISHER

Funeral for Alma Fisher, a longtime resident of Marin County, will be tomorrow at 11 a.m. at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Mrs. Fisher died Saturday at a Mill Valley convalescent hospital after a long illness. She was 82.

She was born in Minnesota and had worked in the alteration department at the White House department store in San Francisco until her retirement in 1949.

There are no known survivors.

RICHARD BOYER

Mass of Requiem for retired Army Lt. Col. Richard J. Boyer of Fairfax will be offered at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax.

Boyer, of 110 Forrest Avenue, died Sunday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. He was 50.

He had retired from the Army in 1966.

Born in Wadena, Minn., Boyer attended Crosby-Irontown College in Minnesota for one year before entering the Army in 1942. After being commissioned a second lieutenant in 1943 and attending armored school, he served in Europe under Gen. George C. Patton.

He was involved in the Normandy invasion, the campaign around Rhiems, France, and the invasion of Germany.

He spent two years in Korea during that war and was also in Thailand and Vietnam just before his retirement.

He had also served eight years at Fort Eustis, Va., and four years in Germany, before being assigned to Fort Mason in San Francisco in 1960. He was later transferred to the Oakland Army Terminal.

He received the Bronze Star, the Verdun Medal and the Korean Service Medal with one silver and two bronze stars.

He was a member of St. Rita's Men's Club, Carpenters Local 1149 and American Legion Post 37 of San Rafael.

Surviving are his wife, Marian; one son, Richard Jr. of Fairfax; five daughters, Marian Allen of Petaluma and Michelle Courtz, Maureen, Marie and Marjorie Boyer, all of Fairfax; one brother, Joseph Boyer of Wayzata, Minn.; one sister, Marian Kern of Wadena, and his father, Joseph Boyer of Puyallup, Wash.

Rosary will be today at 8 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be at Fort Leavenworth National Cemetery, Kan.

The family asked that memorial contributions be made to the Marin County Heart Association.

FRANK GOBBI

Funeral arrangements for Frank Gobbi of San Rafael are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley. Gobbi, 80, died Monday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Italy, he had lived in California and Marin County 35 years, residing at1330 Fourth Street. Gobbi was a retired construction worker.

There are no known survivors.

TEIICHI YOSHIOKA

Funeral for Teiichi Tom Yoshioka, 68, of Petaluma, will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Enmanji Buddhist Temple, Sebastopol.

Yoshioka died Sunday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was born in Koloa, Kauai, Hawaii, and moved to San Francisco in 1916 to attend Healds's Business College.

Yoshioka moved to Petaluma after World War II. He had been employed by Bethlehem Steel Co. until his retirement three years ago. He was a member of the Sonoma County J.A.C.L., Japanese Association, and the Enmanji Temple.

He is survived by his wife, Fumiko; two daughters, Carol Haan and Joyce Kawahara of Petaluma; two sons, Lloyd Yoshioka of Petaluma and Milton Yoshioka of San Jose; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Otani of Petaluma and June B. T. Johnsen of Hollister; a brother, Hiroshi Yoshioka of Petaluma and 10 grandchildren.

Concluding service will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma, followed by inurnment at Chapel of the Chimes, Santa Rosa.

STELLA ANTICEVICH

Funeral for Mrs. Stella Anticevich, a native of Sausalito, was held yesterday at Church of the Nativity in San Francisco.

Mrs. Anticevich died Sunday at a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. She was 81.

Mrs. Anticevich, a resident of San Francisco for the last 35 years, is survived by her son Chester, a member of the board of directors member of the San Francisco Musicians' Union; a daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Barbaria of San Francisco, and four grandchildren. Her late husband, Mark Anticevich, was a Sausalito businessman.

Burial was at Holy Cross Cemetery, San Francisco.

Ecology Study Fund To Be Asked

The Marin County Board of Education has approved applying for state funds to initiate a countywide environmental education program.

However, according to Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy, while the application will request about $40,000 to finance a complete program, the board expects the state only to provide between $5,000 and $10,000.

If only limited funds are received, Mauzy said, the county will proceed with preliminary surveys and studies for the program.

He said a study committee organized last year and made up of educators, trustees and officials of the Audubon Canyon Ranch will proceed with the study to insure no duplication in various programs now being considered by some Marin school districts.

The matter was first presented to the board in November, but board members refused to approve submitting the application pending more complete plans from the committee and its staff.

Mauzy said the application deadline is Jan. 15 and he expects and answer from the state within 20 days.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

TRANSPORTATION — Approved a transportation agreement with the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council for rental of the council's bus at $25 per day.

MULTIHANDICAPPED — Approved submitting an application to the state department of Education for funds for two experimental classes for multihandicapped children.

NEGOTIATOR — Appointed Robert E. Spain, director of administrative services, as board negotiator for nonteaching personnel. He already is the board negotiator on teacher contracts.

CONSTRUCTION — Delayed awarding a construction contract for an occupational training shop at Magnolia Park School pending a decision by the county supervisors on an appeal from neighboring homeowners who have asked the workshop be moved from its proposed location adjacent to homes.

REED DISTRICT — Referred to Supt. Virgil S. Hollis a statement from the Reed School District that it wished to continue with regular county services.

GIFTS — Accepted $3,900 from the Marin Ballet Aquacade, $190 from the Deer Park Villa Restaurant in Fairfax and $2,000 from Valerie Corvin of San Francisco for educational equipment.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to Jan. 18.

Slow Trials Are Attacked

NEW YORK (UPI)—Defendants in federal criminal cases must be tried within six months of arrest or the charges must be dropped, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals Council ruled Tuesday in an attempt to speed up trial procedures.

The ruling, which applies to district courts in New York, Connecticut and Vermont effective June 5, also mandates a jailed defendant must be released on bail or on his own recognizance if he is not tried within three months.

Further, the ruling states U.S. attorneys who prosecute the cases must make every effort to arraign defendants who may be serving sentences on other convictions, or file a detainer with the authorities having custody of the prisoner.

Window-Snoop Hearing Set

Stanford Edward Terry, 23, and Timothy John Blain, 20, both of Fairfax, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana.

The two were arrested at their home when drug agents saw Blain through a window smoking a pipe of the type used to smoke narcotics. Agents said they found suspected hashish and marijuana at the residence. Blain is also accused of a misdemeanor count of having a pipe for smoking drugs.

Bird Watchers Sight 193 Species In Marin

Marin County bird watchers appear to have earned third place in a national bird counting competition staged between Dec. 22 and Sunday.

John Winter, a scientist at the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, said yesterday the combined forces of the Marin and Golden Gate chapters of the National Audubon Society and the observatory unofficially counted 193 species of birds.

The Marin count, taken from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday, produced such sightings as that of a peregrine falcon, European wiggeons and blue gray gnat catchers.

Winter said numerous white and brown pelicans and a surprising munber of whistling swans were sighted.

He said unofficial counts showed Freeport, Tex., sighted about 205 species and Cocoa, Fla., about 195.

While Marin may not have taken top honors in species counted, he said, it should be tops in the number of birds counted.

The combined forces fielded about 165 bird counters.

The idea of a holiday season bird census began more than 70 years ago with a proposal by Frank M. Chapman, curator of the Natural History Museum in New York City. He was dismayed by a 19th Century hangover of Christmas-season hunts in which local sportsmen chose up sides and took to the woods, killing every creature they could find. The side with the most carcasses won.

Official results of the 1970 bird census will not be released for several months, Winter said.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Five persons died in two neighboring villages in Andhra Pradesh state after drinking fermented coconut palm Monday, the Press Trust of India reported today.

Bennett Pledges To Go After Big Businesses

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Consumer advocate William M. Bennett has begun his first term as a member of the State Board of Equalization with a pledge to campaign for higher taxes for big business and a better break for small taxpayers.

"The people will no longer stand for the kind of things we have," he said of the state's present tax structure. "We all know that big business gets a better break on taxes than you and I."

In an interview Tuesday prior to attending his first business meeting of the tax appeals board, he predicted that if the legislature did not soon pass tax reform legislation, initiative measures would be placed on the ballot.

"If the large taxpayer is favored over the small taxpayer, the law has to be changed," he said.

Calling economics "the basis of political equality," the Kentfield Democrat predicted "taxes will be the issue of the 70s."

Bennett, an attorney, said that his position as a member of the board would allow him to "speak with authority" for tax reform. "I look forward to speaking on tax matters."

A former member of the State Public Utilities Commission, where he was a strong advocate of consumer interests, Bennett was elected to the board last November to succeed the retiring Paul R. Leake, a Woodland publisher.

Take Officer Back, State Tells Council

A state hearing officer has recommended that a Sausalito police sergeant, fired last May, be reinstated but demoted to patrolman.

In making his recommendations, Hearing Officer Paul A. Winton admitted Sgt. Thomas H. Zink "had been guilty of inexcusable neglect and incompetence in the performance of his duties. He has used bad judgment (and) disregarded (police) department policy, rules and procedures."

But Winton added that he did not feel Zink's actions warranted his dismissal from the Sausalito department, although he said "cause for disciplinary action . . . exists."

The 33-year-old Zink was fired in May after 11 years on the force. In a letter which notified Zink of his dismissal, then Acting City Mgr. H. Eric Borgwardt charged the police officer with several offenses, including arriving for work late, out of uniform and with the odor of alcohol on his breath.

It also accused him of "negligent handling of a firearm," "use of a stimulant while on duty," "emotional instability" and "an inability to maintain a satisfactory relationship with subordinate officers."

Winton's report, which capped testimony from city employees, psychiatrists and persons representing the fired officer, was presented to the Sausalito council last night. The extensive hearings, for which Winton was paid $50 per hour by the council which hired him, were held at city hall in November and early December.

The council, which must make the final decision in the case, has set a hearing on the matter for Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. in the city's main firehouse. The session will be closed to the public and the press at the request of Zink's attorney, Mayor Alexander R. Imlay said.

The musical will be presented in about six weeks under the auspices of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts.

103rd Candle Placed On Marinite's Birthday Cake

Ava Campbell celebrated her 103rd birthday today at a quiet noon party with her daughter and friends at the Fifth Avenue Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael.

Mrs. Campbell, who describes herself as "very, very old," nevertheless keeps track of national events through newspapers and books and finds time to write poetry, her favorite pastime.

"She even has recently commented on the need for government reform," said George Davis, hospital administrator. "But poetry and her daughter's schooling in Rome are still her main topics of conversation." Her daughter is Mrs. Donald deFremery of Portola Valley.

Mrs. Campbell has resided at the hospital for five years and was honored on her 100th birthday with a special birthday congratulatory message from former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The first copyright law was passed in 1790.

Council Overrules Zoning Objections

If planned unit housing developments are permitted in Sausalito's single-family residential zones, the units must be separate, without common walls and roofs, the Sausalito City Council agreed last night.

The lone dissenter in the council's action was Councilman Stephen A. Fraser, who said the action would "greatly limit design possibilities" and increase the likelihood of tract-like developments.

The council submitted its proposal to the city planning commission, which had originally proposed a change in the city's zoning ordinance to allow such development in single-family areas. Also turned over to the planners were recommendations from fire Chief Charles E. Masten on the method of locating units to permit efficient fire protection.

The council stood firm on its earlier decision to allow nothing but detached structures, despite pleas from several persons in the audience and objections from the city's planning director and the chairman of the planning commission.

H. Eric Borgwardt, the planning director, said he did not "professionally agree" with the limitation. And Chairman Robert L. Nissen also asked the council to reconsider. "The planning commission and council can be diligent in reviewing plans for all future developments and seeing they come forth in the best interests of the city," Nissen said.

Attorney Hugh Lawrence agreed withNissen, urging the council members not to tie the city's hands, but rather consider each proposal on its own merits.

Lawrence said he felt it was not economically feasible to build small, separate structures in a planned unit development in Sausalito.

In separating the units, "you are eating up open space as you go along and making it difficult to generate any large spaces around the buildings," a person in the audience said.

Councilman Robin Sweeny said she believes that "open space is being used to force buildings with common walls and a common roof on a community," not in the interests of conservation, but of economics.

Councilman Wyman Hicks said he was convinced any planned unit developments in Sausalito, even those with common walls, roofs and foundations, would still be priced out of the reach of the average family.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

HEARING — At the request of developers Frank Lynch and E.R. Fitzsimmons, postponed until Dec. 19 a public hearing on a planning commission denial of a zone change necessary for a proposed 400-unit planned apartment development on Wolfback Ridge.

LOT SPLIT — Approved a request from Arie Slikkerveer to allow property between 428 and 440 Sausalito Boulevard to be subdivided into two parcels. The council removed three conditions which the planning commission had placed on the subdivision after the city attorney said two of them were not legal.

BICYCLE PATHS — Approve.. routes for north and southbound bicycle paths in Sausalito as recommended by the city's recreatio commission and directed the com mission to go ahead with plans t establish paths in the Marinshi, area.

UNDERGROUND — Approved, . principle, an underground utility district for property on Secon. Street between Richardson an North streets. But the council with held final approval until the cit can determine the cost required to relocate a fire alarm system now located on utility poles in the area.

CONSOLIDATION — After a report from the fire chief, voted to spend $1,270 as the city's share in a study to determine the feasibility of consolidation of Southern Marin fire districts.

DEVELOPMENT — Set Dec. 19 for a public hearing on a proposed 18-unit planned housing development on Santa Rosa Avenue near Glen Drive. Developer David Hunter has already received planning commission approval for the development.

AWNING — Approved an encroachment application by William Thompson for an awning for a restaurant and tobacco shop at 705 and 707 Bridgeway.

AGREEMENT — Agreed to extend for three years a joint powers agreement between the city and county for joint planning activities.

FOOD THAT WAS WALKED FOR

Robert Morgan of San Anselmo sets aside bottles while Colleen Fitzhenry of Kentfield stacks cans of peas and Annette Lareau of Fairfax puzzles over the contents of an unlabeled can. The three, co-organizers of the Marin "Walk Against Hunger," were at the San Rafael office of the Economic Opportunity Council sorting food whose shipment to Marin was financed by proceeds from the walk. The $7,786 contributed to the EOC by the hunger walk will pay shipping costs for $200,000 in federal high-protein food targeted for 500 Marin families with nutritional deficiencies, according to Richard Nielsen, program director of the supplemental food program.

Unofficial Nod To Apartments' Designs

The Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee last night unofficially approved the design of three apartment developments planned for various parts of the city, according to Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill.

Although the committee has no jurisdiction over the projects, it has requested developers to bring tentative plans before it to spot any major problems before the drawings reach the planning commission, McGill said.

The committee approved the concept of 160 apartments to be built by Securities of America on Shelter Ridge, above Highway 101. Preliminary plans will be considered by the planning commission Monday.

Also approved in principle was a 14-unit townhouse development to be built on approximately one acre at 230 Miller Avenue by Lyman Emerson.

McGill said the townhouses would be similar in design and construction to 120 units planned by the Cal-Fong investment on 27 acres in Alto Bowl. The Emerson development would serve as a pilot project for the Cal-Fong one, McGill said.

The committee also approved 203 apartments to be located on 14.96 acres on the Richardson Bay shore adjacent to the present Shelter Bay apartments. The architectural design and the density of 15 units per acre were approved in principle by the committee.

Planners Want Better Access For Terminal

C&M Delivery Inc., had requested a use permit for a freight forwarding terminal at 21 Bridge Street.

The commission said that an access easement, known as Clark Street, should be improved before more traffic is placed on it. The commission suggested that other property owners on the easement be reached about needed improvements.

The Petaluma Planning Commission also:

HOSPITAL — Set a public hearing for Feb. 17 on a request by Quantas Development Co. to change the single-family residential zone to professional-medical behind the Washington Square Shopping Center and McDowell School. A 200-bed hospital and medical offices are planned.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Feb. 2 on a request by Young Brothers to rezone seven acres on North McDowell Boulevard.

Hunt For Tam Valley Robbers

Marin County sheriff's deputies were looking today for two men who invaded a Tamalpais Valley residence Monday and robbed the occupant of more than $6,000.

The victim, Nicholas J. Guercio of 504 Barone Lane, told deputies that one of the two men, both of whom wore nylon stockings over their heads, told him that he had been "fingered."

Guercio said the men, both armed, forced their way into the home when a babysitter, Hanna Kumihara, answered the front door at about 10:30 p.m.

One of the men told him, Guercio said, "Nick, you did me a favor but a close friend of yours put the finger on you. I have to do this."

When they demanded money, Guercio said, he gave them seven $100 bills from his pants pocket. They got 56 more $100 bills from a closet safe they made Guercio open, he told deputies.

After pulling the telephone cord from the wall, the men fled in a late model car, he said.

One of them, armed with a sawed off rifle, was between 28 and 32 years old, about 6 feet tall, 145 to 150 pounds and wore white overalls, Guercio said.

The other carried a German luger and was 25 or 26 years old, 5½ feet tall, 145 to 150 pounds and had dark hair, he said.

Youth Panel Picks Permanent Chairman

Paul Cohen of Mill Valley, acting chairman of the Marin County Youth Commission, was elected permanent chairman last night at a meeting at Marin General Hospital.

Other permanent officers elected were Carol McClure of Ross, vice chairman, and Laurie Packard of Corte Madera, secretary.

New officers were to have been elected in May, but commissioners postponed the election because of rapid turnover in membership when youths left for college.

In other business, commissioners set an area discussion session on youth problems for 7 p.m. next Wednesday at the San Rafael High School faculty dining hall.

"This will be a chance for students in the San Rafael area to voice their concerns to the youth commission," said Cohen. "It is the desire of the youth commission to try to better represent youth in the San Rafael area by hearing about their concerns directly."

He said sessions will be scheduled in other parts of the county.

The commission also recommended that $1,000 in county seed money be allocated to the Music Switchboard of Marin, which operates a telephone service at 882 College Avenue, Kentfield. David Hutchinson, director of music switchboard, said his organization serves as a clearing house for young musicians looking for jobs and bands which are looking for members.

The money must be approved by the board of supervisors.

Bridgeway's Widening Continuing

In a matter of days — if the weather holds — Bridgeway will become a four-lane street from Sausalito's northern city limits to Napa Street.

The city council voted last night to accept a right of entry from the Northwestern Pacific Railroad to complete widening of the street on lands the railroad owns on the east side of Bridgeway.

City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger said he hopes work will begin within the next few days on the approximately one-block area, just north of Napa Street, which is still to be widened. At present, there are two southbound lanes, but one northbound lane in that area.

In November, the council awarded a contract for the work to Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael, whose low bid was $16,318.

Wohlschlaeger said the right of entry, which the city has been seeking for months, allows the city to begin construction, under certain conditions imposed by the railroad, before a price for the easement has been determined.

The city engineer said he did not know how much the railroad will charge the city for the easements, but said the price will probably be based on several factors, including value of surrounding land.

New Eagle scout

Terra Linda Boys To Get Eagle Ranks

Two members of Boy Scout Troop 76 of Terra Linda will receive scouting's highest honor at a court of honor Jan. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at Christ Presbyterian Church.

Receiving the Eagel rank will be Michael C. Coln, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Olav Coln of 1065 Las Ovejas Avenue, and James P. Kellogg Jr., 17, son of retired Army Lt. Col. and Mrs. Kellogg of 595 Thornwood Terrace.

As an Eagle scout project, Coln prevented erosion on a hillside in Sequoia National Forest. Kellogg worked with retarded children at the Forest Meadows Development Center in San Rafael.

Kellogg, junior assistant scoutmaster of the Terra Linda troop, has also held all other leader positions in the troop. He joined the Boy Scouts in 1964 in Ankara, Turkey, and switched to the Marin troop in 1966.

Coln is a junior at Lick-Wilmerding High School in San Francisco, where he is on a committee which draws up student schedules. His hobby is electronics.

Christmas Trees Will Be Burned

Novato residents may dispose of their Christmas trees by taking them to the Novato Fire District's drill tower on Atherton Avenue between Olive Avenue and School Lane today and tomorrow.

The Novato Professional Firmen's Association will conduct tree burning both days. Trees will be accepted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Reed Policy Hearing Set On School Goals

Public discussion of proposed goals, philosophy and teacher evaluation in Reed School District was assured last night, largely because of intervention of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin.

A statement of goals and philosophy of the district, worked out during a long period by a staff-citizen committee, was presented to the district board meeting by Robert Hayes, committee chairman. Stanley Friese, who as interim superintendent had prepared the board meeting agenda before returning to his job as assistant county superintendent of schools, had recommended its adoption at last night's meeting.

However, Eleanor Martini of the League of Women Voters urged that public hearings be held before the adoption.

"After proper public hearings, goals in education would have a greater impact on our community," she declared. "We want the school goals established by the democratic process."

Trustee Thomas D. Price, saying "the League of Women Voters took my speech," proposed that last night's discussion be considered as the first public hearing, and that copies of the statement be circulated throughout the district and written comments invited, with further hearing and adoption set for the board's second meeting in February. This won approval of his fellow board members.

The League of Women Voters and Reed District Teachers Association both asked delay until the Jan. 19 meeting of adoption of proposed policies on evaluation of teachers. These, among other things, provide that a teacher must serve at least 75 per cent of the working days in three consecutive school years before being considered for permanent tenure.

Shirley Backen of the League of Women Voters objected to provisos that evaluation of teachers be solely by superintendent and principal. The league, she said, feels it should include the teaching staff, plus a measure of student progress as a gauge of the teacher's effectiveness.

Hal Bickel, chairman of the certificated employees council, asked that the evaluation policies be made matters of negotiation.

On board agreement to delay adoption until next meeting to allow further study, Bert Skaggs, executive director of the California Teachers Association's Council of Marin, wanted to know whether discussion of the policies was to be in open board session. "I hope you might direct your negotiators to go into this with the employees' council," he said.

"Does the CTA oppose a board considering matters such as this in open session?" demanded trustee Leo Souza.

Study Of Sewage Plan Necessary

The Tiburon Sanitary District must participate in a study of sewage disposal in Southern Marin but not necessarily the improvement district recently formed by the Marin Municipal Water District, the Tiburon board has been told.

President Robert A. Sterling said the board learned Monday that it does not necessarily have to join the improvement district, set up by the water district to look into consolidating collection of all sewage from Southern Marin.

Sterling said the board had been under the impression that a Dec. 22 decision by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board held that Tiburon must join the Southern Marin district as a condition of the regional board's approval of any construction grant application.

But further study convinced the Tiburon board, Sterling said, that it is required only to join "a subregional plan" and not necessarily the improvement district.

Sterling said his board still is convinced that a tertiary treatment plant is the district's best hope and will continue to fight joining the improvement district.

In connection with this issue, the board approved hiring Corollo Engineers of Oakland to conduct a dispersion study of the effluent from the district's treatment plant on Paradise Drive.

Non-Teaching Pact In Reed District

Reed School District settled its contract with non-teaching employees last night and headed today into what board and teachers hoped would be the final session on teacher contracts for the current school year.

Nancy van Ravenswaay of the Reed District Teachers Association told the board that impasse threatened over one clause in a proposed written contract. She said teachers had no objection to written contracts — "we don't even mind there being a no-strike clause."

The objectionable sentence, said Mrs. van Ravenswaay, is this: "It is expressly understood and agreed that said laws, rules and regulations may be changed during the term of this agreement and that the parties hereto shall be bound by such changes."

"Teachers feel strongly there is really no contract if that clause is unchanged," she said. "A contract in our way of thinking is subject to change only by mutual agreement."

She said the teachers had a legal opinion from a California Teachers Association attorney that the language (prepared by Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel) would make the contract illegal.

Chairman Gordon C. Wright said the board would discuss this with its negotiating council, now consisting of Business Mgr. Victor Butler, acting Supt. Irwin Karp, and Godino, during a closed session. The council was to meet with teacher negotiators after school today.

There was no mention of dispute over salary. The board has offered a 6 per cent raise to those teachers signing the contract.

The Reed School District Board also:

TEACHER RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations of Mrs. Grace Basom and Mrs. Kathleen King, teachers on leave; Patricia O'Callahan, Del Mar School science teacher, and Sara Van Kirk, Reedland Woods School teacher, both of whom have already left, and Mrs. Susan Kline, Reed School teacher, as of the end of this school year.

OTHER RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations of Mrs. Joan Jestadt, Del Mar School teacher aide; William Bindrim, Larry Kaltvedt, Herman Salvisberg, and Levi Harris, custodians, and William Pettit, maintenance man, and hired Mrs. Jacqueline Cloidt as teacher aide; Joseph Collings, John Park, Jess Cabral, and Daniel Williams as custodians, and Peter Senter as maintenance man.

TRANSFERS — Granted permission for Michael Hall to complete the year at Granada School although his parents have moved to Larkspur; denied an interdistrict transfer for children of Dr. and Mrs. Hans A. Burg of Sausalito, approved by the Sausalito district, pending action by the county board of education, but granted the Burg children permission to attend temporarily Reed district schools. Trustee Souza voted against this arrangement, wanting to grant the transfer outright.

Pair To Eye Candidates' Backgrounds

The Reed School District board, its field of candidates for district superintendent winnowed to three, last night named a two-member committee to check closely into the backgrounds of the three finalists.

The decision followed an expression of concern on behalf of the Reed District Teachers Association by teacher Kathleen Jensen, who said, "Teachers are concerned about the need for consistent, educationally sound, responsible leadership."

It came as the district found itself without even an interim superintendent, Stanley Friese having returned to the county schools office Monday on orders of his boss, County Supt. Virgil S. Hollis.

Sitting in as "acting interim superintendent" was Irwin Karp, principal of Reed, Belvedere and Tiburon schools. The board appointed him to continue acting "on a day-to-day basis," with B. J. Dennis, Bel Aire School principal, to fill in as acting principal of the other three schools.

Chairman Gordon C. Wright said he planned to meet with Hollis "to see if we can resolve the interim superintendent problem." The board last month asked Hollis to continue to allow Friese to serve on loan indefinitely, but the county superintendent refused.

Trustees James B. Richwagen and Thomas S. Price were named as the committee to conduct the final investigation of the three superintendent candidates — and to do rescreening of other candidates in case none of the three turns out to be available or acceptable. Their task apparently will include out-of-state travel, as Wright said two of the three finalists are from outside California, with the third a Southern Californian.

Space Widow To Marry Again

EL LAGO, Tex. (UPI)—Pat White, the widow of astronaut Ed White, is engaged to an employe of the space agency.

Ligrani, 43, said he and Mrs. White, 36, are neighbors. He also said he knew White, who was killed Jan. 27, 1967, when the cabin of his Apollo spacecraft caught fire on a Cape Kennedy launching pad.

Different Shrimp And Sole Dishes

Highlighting with boldness, ripe olives do wonders for fish and seafood dishes. Whether it is shrimp or the delicate sole, the nut-like flavor of the ripe olive enhances these delicacies from the sea and adds special interest to sauces and casseroles.

Shrimp, one of the most favorite of all seafoods, takes on an exotic flair in this Indian style dish. Curried just enough to appeal and accented with the ebony hue of the ripe olive, the sauced shrimp is topped with flaky coconut and browned to golden appeal. Fluffy rice, chutney, and thin slices of cucumber and tomato make perfect accompaniments.

The fillet of sole is quick to prepare and lends itself to many ways of serving. For a new twist, spread filets with canned ripe olives. Roll up filets and poach. Then put sole rolls in a shrimp custard sauce and bake. A fascinating casserole with a delicate air.

Then for the informal meal, a platter of tender spaghetti served with a ripe olive-tuna sauce is a family favorite.

The canned ripe olive is a convenient, versatile food and is ready in any season. With nine sizes from which to choose, ripe olives are available as whole, unpitted, whole pitted, sliced, or chopped.

SHRIMP TAKES on a exotic flavor with slightly curried sauce and topping of shredded coconut. Rice, chutney and thinly sliced cucumber and tomato are the accompaniments.

RIPE OLIVE BUFFET SHRIMP

4 cup minced onion
½ cup chopped pared apple
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 cup chicken broth*
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup canned pitted ripe olives
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon half-and-half
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound raw shelled deveined shrimp
⅔ cup shredded coconut

Prehead oven to 375°F. Mix together bacon, onion, apple, curry powder, broth, lemon juice, and simmer for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Drain olives, and cut in halves if desired. Add to sauce. Blend cornstarch with half-and-half, and stir into sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture has thickened. Set aside. Melt butter in heat proof baking dish. Add shrimp, and bake in preheated oven for 5 to 10 minutes, until pink and cooked through. Spoon ripe olive curry sauce over shrimp and mix lightly. Sprinkle with coconut. Bake about 15 minutes longer, until coconut is lightly toasted. Serve at once from baking dish. Makes about 4 servings.

* Or 1 cup water, combined with 2 chicken bouillon cubes.

 If frozen shrimp is used, defrost completely and drain well before cooking. If in-shell shrimp is purchased, about 1 pound 5 ounces will give 1 pound after shelling and deveining.

RIPE OLIVE SOLE EN CASSEROLE

1 cup canned pitted ripe olives
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon parsley
3 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dill weed
1 cup milk
½ cup grated Gruyers cheese
¾ cup cooked or canned shrimp

Preheat oven to 350° F. Cut ½ cup of pitted ripe olives into ¼-inch slices. Cut remaining ripe olives into halves. Sprinkle sole with the seasoned salt. Arrange ripe olive slices on solefilets. Sprinkle with parsley. Roll each filet and fasten with a toothpick. Bake in shallow pan for 20 minutes, or until fish is opaque and flakes easily with a fork. Drain well.

Place a rolled filet in center of each of six individual baking dishes. Beat eggs until bubbly. Add salt. Heat milk just to boiling. Stir into eggs with cheese, shrimp and ripe olive halves. Divide mixture among the individual baking dishes. Put dishes in pan containing 1-inch of hot water. Bake for 30 to 35 minutes or until custard is set. Makes 6 servings.

SOLE ROLLS go into a shrimp custard sauce before baking to create this different way to serve filet of sole. Here they are baked in individual serving positions.

Put A Custard Around Bits Of Meats With Vegetables

After days of seven-course dinners, hours of cocktail parties, jars of jam, loaves of homemade bread, dozens of cookies, cakes of all varieties and numerous bottles of wines and liquers, what does one want most? If a loud cry arises for "simple food," and "low calorie dishes," then this light main dish custard may be exactly what you are looking for.

Most people are familiar with dessert custards, but few think to use the same easy concept for a main dish. The easy concept? Add beaten eggs to a thin white sauce, stir in seasonings, pour into a casserole and bake. The variations are many.

Try bits of smoked thin-sliced ham with diced carrots in the smooth custard. No other seasonings are needed, because the sugar cured, smoked ham imparts a special savory flavor. Also try thin-sliced turkey with chopped broccoli or thin-sliced beef with spinach.

Ham Carrot Custard, Turkey Broccoli Custard or Beef Custard Florentine are all for the calorie counters in the crowd. None contains more than 175 calories for a satisfying one cup serving. With this versatile dish you can practically lose weight while you eat.

HAM CARROT CUSTARD
(175 calories per cup)

1 package (3 oz.) thin-sliced ham
1 can (1 lb.) diced carrots
1½ cups skim milk
2 tablespoons flour
Dash pepper
4 eggs, beaten

Preheat oven to 350°. Tear ham into small pieces. Drain carrots. In a medium size saucepan, combine milk and flour. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in ham and carrots. Cool slightly. Stir in eggs. Pour into a deep 1-quart casserole. Place casserole in a larger pan, containing 1 inch water. Bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 1 hour. Makes 4 servings.

TURKEY BROCCOLI CUSTARD
(170 calories per cup)

Substitute 1 package (3 oz.) thin-sliced turkey breast meat and 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped broccoli. Pre-cook broccoli and drain well before adding to milk sauce.

BEEF CUSTARD FLORENTINE
(160 calories per cup)

Substitute 1 package (3 oz.) thin-sliced beef and 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach. Pre-cook spinach and drain well before adding to milk sauce.

Chicken Romaine Salad Is Tasty For Post-Holiday Weight Watcher

Salads are the weight-watcher's best friend. A crisp main-dish salad can be the basis for a nutritious, low-calorie meal.

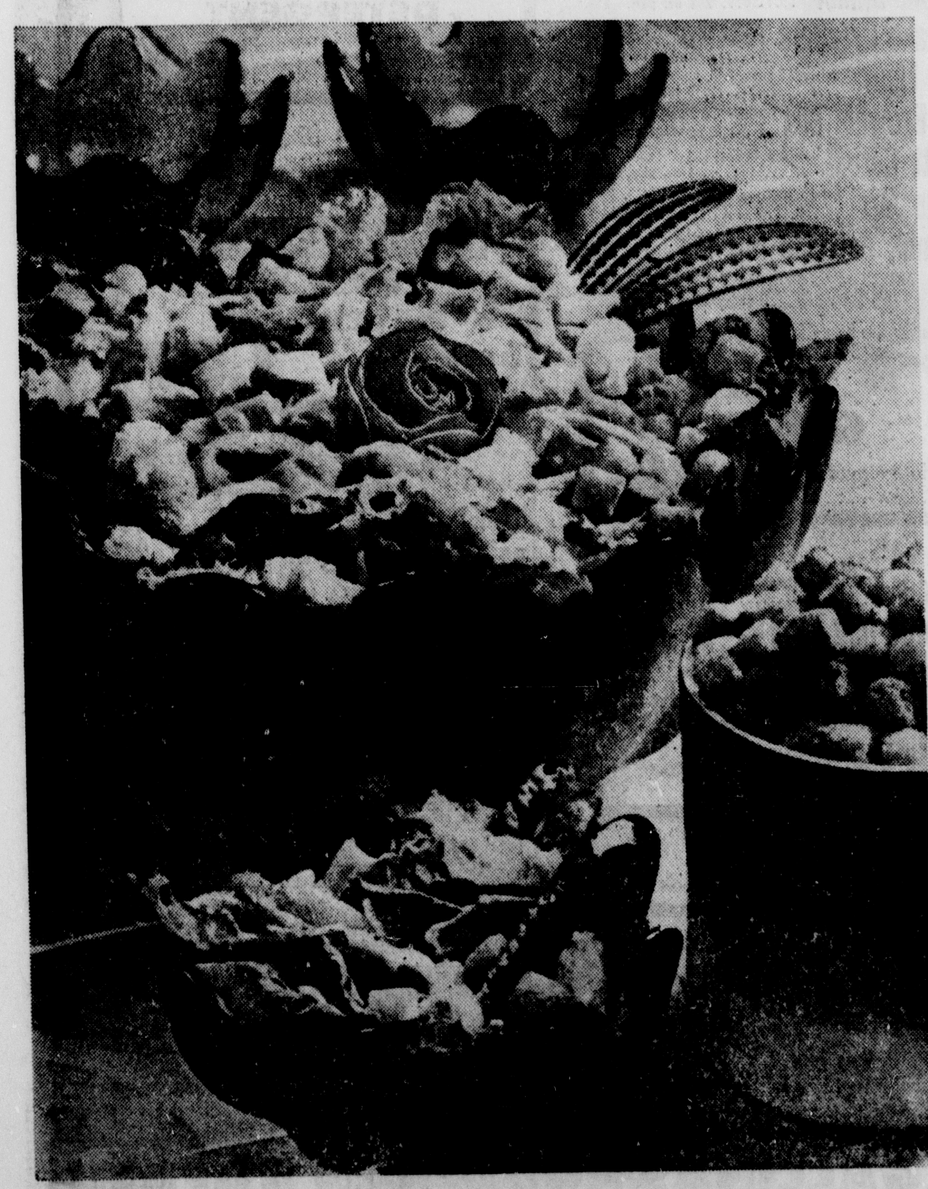
The sharp, butter-nut taste of romaine gives unique flavor to Chicken-Romaine Salad. Chicken, Parmesan cheese, and crisp croutons mingle with the romaine for a flavor treat even non-dieters will enjoy.

Center a tomato rose atop Chicken-Romaine Salad and serve to luncheon guests. Dieters can eat heartily because the salad contains only 121 calories per serving.

To make Chicken-Romaine Salad you'll need:

1 head romaine, torn in bite-size pieces (8 cups)
2 cups cubed cooked chicken
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
⅔ cup low-calorie Italian salad dressing
4 teaspoons tarragon vinegar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup croutons

Combine romaine, chicken, and Parmesan. Mix salad dressing and next three ingredients. Toss half of the mixture with croutons; don't soak. Add to salad with remaining dressing.



EVEN NON-dieters will like this Chicken Romaine Salad that includes Parmesan cheese and crisp croutons. The salad contains only 121 calories per serving.

Pork Roast For Change

This pork entree accented with cinnamon apple rings and sliveredalmonds will be a taste treat and a family favorite.

For a nutritionally balanced meal serve this pork loin entree with browned potatoes, buttered green peas, celery and carrot sticks, hot biscuits, sherbet and a favorite beverage.

GLAZED PORK ROAST WITH APPLE RINGS

4 to 5 pound boneless pork loin roast
1 teaspoon salt
1 jar (10 ounces) apple jelly
¼ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 sticks cinnamon (about 3 inches)
6 whole cloves
¼ cup slivered almonds
4 firm cooking apples
¼ cup sugar
Red food coloring
4 firm cooking apples
¼ cup sugar
Red food coloring

Rub outside of roast with salt. If a meat thermometer is used insert it in center of lean portion of the loin away from fat. Place roast on rack in shallow uncovered baking pan. Roast in slow oven (325°F.) until fork tender, about 3 hours, or until loin reaches an internal temperature of 170°F.

Prepare glaze and apple rings. Combine jelly, corn syrup, water vinegar and spices. Heat and stir until jelly is melted. Simmer gently 8 to 10 minutes; remove cinnamon sticks and cloves. Combine ½ cup of glaze and the almonds; brush glaze over meat several times during last 30 minutes of roasting time. Pare, core and cut apples into slices ½ to ¾ inches thick.

Add sugar to remaining glaze; tint as desired color with red food coloring. Heat in skillet until syrup is hot and bubbly, stirring constantly. Cook apple slices in syrup just until tender so they still hold their shape. Serve apples and remaining glaze with roast. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

Mountaineer Linda Has Also Modeled

By PAT BALMES

Linda Griffin looks more like a model than a mountaineer, but the Stanford University senior trekked in the foothills of the Himalayas, scaled Half Dome in Yosemite and climbed Mounte Blanc in Switzerland last year. "It's really not her life style," says her mother, a pediatrician. "Linda is a very fragile girl."

The willowy bonde has been a model, too, at Emilio Pucci's Italian villa where he creates colorful sportswear on his models. A house and fashion show model, Linda remembers, "We modeled bikinis in cold weather, shivering." She remained in Italy for three months to model, after studying six months during her junior year at Stanford's Italian Villa. There she studied international economics, Italian and art with both Stanford and Italian professors.

LINDA'S FATHER initiated Audubon Canyon Ranch Wildlife Sanctuary project at Stinson Beach 10 years ago and has been chairman for the past two years. A member of the scientific expedition that explored Kipahulu Valley on Maui, Hawaii, Dr. Griffin helped add the biological preserve to Haleakela National Park.

"Before he would marry my mother," grins Linda, "she had to go on a camping trip. She was reluctant." She kids her mother that she'd better start training for Sierra Club's Nepal outing in the spring that Martin Griffin will lead. A pediatrician, Mrs. Griffin works for Marin County Health Department's Child Health Conference, a clinic held regularly in different towns for parents under a certain income.

During high school, Linda "explored Mt. Tamalpais thoroughly" with Katharine Branson High School's hiking club and while at the American School in Lugano, Switzerland, she went on long hikes, staying in mountain huts overnight.

This year the Stanford senior has spent spring and summer in three of the world's mountain ranges. In April she trekked with her father's group by elephant, landrover, air and, mostly, on foot from Nepal's Indian border to Tibet's southern border. They traveled about 100 miles, from 400 feet elevation in the rhino country of swamps and jungle to fields of scrub rhododenron at 13,000 feet.

"DAD WAS leader and doctor for the natural history trek. A doctor was more necessary than a leader for the 10 women and eight men," Linda remarks. The trekkers took tablets to prevent malaria. Dr. Martin treated a village chief along the way. Returning along the same route "he almost had to set up a clinic because so many villagers wanted to consult the doctor. Next time he'll take many more medical supplies," says Linda.

"We had inspection daily to see that our toes were protected. The Sherpa guides go straight downhill. They never heard of switchbacks! That's awfully hard on your toes," says the hiker. To break in her boots Linda began to wear them as soon as she knew she was going to Nepal. "I wore my boots day in and day out. They looked funny with my bathrobe or a nice dress, but Dad said it was important to get my boots broken in and to know my equipment."

Nepal attracted the naturalist group because it has the world's greatest concentration of rhododenron species. The April trek was timed for blooms at different elevations against a backdrop of 24,000 foot peaks and ice fields, and the migration of the large, colorful mountain birds.

The party flew to the birthplace of Buddha, The Terai, a National Game Refuge on the Indian border where the last of Nepal's rhinoceros and tigers are found. In three days on elephant back and in a landrover, they saw 163 species of birds and flished out a dozen rhino.

"WE STAYED at an American-managed rustic lodge on stilts owned by the King of Nepal. Water was hand pumped up to the rooms. You could hear through the woven-mat walls. Our lights were kerosene lanterns; highly flamable! We left the hotel at 5 a.m. each morning, coolest time in the low jungle area, to see birds, rhinos, wild deer and buffalo," recounts Linda.

Game wardens in this National Wild Life Refuge have orders to shoot game poachers on sight, but they seem helpless against local cattle grazers, who drive their water buffalo into the preserve daily, and tree croppers, who cut down branches for animal fodder. They will strip this rich forest and meadows of 15-foot elephant grass to a sunbaked area of low grass and little wildlife, Linda believes.

Leave-taking of the game preserve took two days. The traditional heavy drinking of the Hindu New Year prevented pilots flying into the grass shack and windsock airport. For two days the trekkers commuted by elephant back and jeep between Tree Tops Lodge and the air strip to see if the plane had finally come, going back and forth twice a day.

"Outside the hotel it was like the Renaissance Faire," she recalls. The Kathmandu Valley, crossroads of migrating birds, is at four and five thousand feet elevation. It reminded Linda of Marin's green hills.

"WE TOOK jeeps up to Trisuli Bazaar from Kathmandu and started the 10-day trek. I walked ahead with the scout-interpreter to find the next campsite," says Linda, a fast walker and youngest among the trekkers. Linda carried a day pack: lunch, sweater, rain gear and some Nepalese books.

"We carried candy for kids, who preferred cigarettes and balloons. Thirty-six porters carried tents, supplies and bedrolls. The 10 Sherpa guides pitched camp and cooked meals. The Sherpas loved the Frisbees Dad brought. These mountain tribesmen from the Everest region were first employed as guides by Sir Edmund Hilary on his Everest assault.

Their trek circled from village to village along the cultivated, terraced hillsides.

"Once the Sherpas stopped at an inn to cook dinner for us. We gave the village children balloons and sang 'Ol' MacDonald

SWINGING A prayer wheel, Linda Griffin of Kentfield models a Tibetan hat and necklace from the "mysterious, medieval world of Kathmandu, capital of Nepal." Linda trekked with a naturalist group led by her father, Dr. L. Martin Griffin, in the foothills of the Himalayas last summer. Returning, she scaled Half Dome in Yosemite and then flew to Switzerland to climb Monte Blanc, Europe's highest mountain.

President Plans To Put Women In High Places Says An Aide

By HELEN THOMAS

Frederick V. Malek, special assistant to the President in personnel, says "we should have more" women in ranking jobs. He says that a woman will be picked for her job in the future "not because she's a woman, but because she is good."

"We want good people," he said. "We're going to find them."

IN A women's liberation sense, Malek says, "I share the philosophy that we're under utilizing a great reservoir of talent.

As for himself, Malek says his wife is "very happy to be a housewife."

Nixon has appointed about a dozen women to the big jobs.

EVEN WOMEN who supported him in the past presidential election are disappointed with the administration's record in some respects. Their impact on his administration seems small although the President himself professes not to see it that way.

There are handicaps on the other side. Persuading a woman to drop everything and accept a top post in government is not easy. Women of great talent often are committed to their homes, their towns, their own environment.

President Lyndon B. Johnson promised at the outset of his term that he would appoint 50 women to important posts. He made a good start. But no President has approached the record of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt —who appointed Frances Perkins as secretary of labor — and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who named Oveta Culp Hobby to his Cabinet as secretary of health, education and welfare.

One woman who does sit in on the White House decision-making process is Virginia Knauer, Nixon's consumer affairs adviser. Mrs. Knauer is at the White House every morning at 7 to attend the regular staff meeting.

Foam Ski Boot

The big stir in ski wear concerns the anatomically molded ski boot. No two pairs are alike. They're made by injecting plastic foam into a ski boot and then shaping it to the contours of the right and left foot. Within 15 minutes, skier removes cast. After 12 hours, he has a ski boot that's said to allow him perfect control on the slopes.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

Great Expectations For Ankle Length Told By Top Designer

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK,

NEW YORK (UPI) —Will the ankle-length dress, for wearing to the office and everywhere else, pull the nation's garment district out of the doldrums next fall and winter?

The question isn't even academic to designer Shannon Rodgers, who's counting on American women going for it in a big way.

Rodgers turns out creations for the firm of Jerry Silverman, a part of the Warnaco fashion conglomerate. Silverman's firm does $25 million a year at wholesale prices and racked up a 10 per cent increase in 1970.

CONSIDERING THE generally depressed state of the garment industry, that's a good track record. So when Rodgers speaks about ankle-length dresses being accpted, it's worth a listen. Rodgers made his prediction about ankle-length dresses while participating in apanel discussion at opening sessions of the New York Couture Business Council's 56th national "press week!"

He's putting his drawing board, scissors, needles, pins and thread where his mouth is. He said there are plenty of ankle-length dresses for day in the fall and winter collection he's working on right now.

If other designers follow suit, the next question is will yet another hemline hassle develop, a la mini-midi?

Rodgers doesn't think so. In an interview he expressed great expectations for the ankle-length dress for daytime, noting that already it is pushing the pantsuit off its popularity perch on the cocktail and dinner party circuit.

"Women will like it for day because it looks so darn well," he said.

Min Matheson, head of the label division, also was optimistic about the future of the American garment industry. Despite the closing of some firms, she said "the picture is not all black."

"Ww are out to sell great American fashion," she said.

However, the tone of a report from Vincent Monte-Sano, council president, was pessimistic.

He said the fashion industry is "in its darkest period since the depression (of the 30s)." He blamed oversell of the midi by segments of the fashion industry, including manufacturers, retailers and the fashion press.

Blackwell Announces '10 Worst'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Saying it was hard to name only 10 from "the millions of fashion mistakes made by women in 1970," fashion designer Mr. Blackwell today announced his 11th annual list of the world's 10 "Worst Dressed" women.

At the top was Sophia Loren, whom Blackwell described as "A 1950 B movie costumed by Polly Adler."

Others in order, with Blackwell's descriptions, were:

—Shelly Winters, "The skinny-dip look on a stuffed sausage."

—Marlo Thomas, "Halloween everyday."

—Faye Dunaway, "Mulligan stew. . .has Faye done-away with fashion forever?"

Cynthia Anne Hiatt To Be Bride Of H. E. McFarland

The engagement of Cynthia Anne Hiatt to S/Sgt. H. E. McFarland has been announced by her parents Col. and Mrs. Robert C. Hiatt of Novato.

She is a graduate of Novato High School and attended the College of Marin, Brandon's Professional Schools in San Francisco and Church College of Hawaii in Laise, Oahu, Hawaii. Cynthia is a member of the Order of Eastern Star and is an employee of the display advertising department of the Independent-Journal. Robert C. Hiatt II of Novato is her brother.

Sergeant McFarland, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hirom McFarland, is also a graduate of Novato High School. Recently returned from two and one half years in Viet Nam, he is stationed at Ft. Hood, Tex. with the Army. Jerry Taylor of Corte Madera is his brother.

"Brings a new flavor to a favorite recipe...

That's what I like about LAMB."

Why search for brand new ways to serve the same thing? Reach for one of your own favorite main dish recipes – and simply switch the meat to lamb! There's a great variety of protein-rich cuts you can choose. This low-cost bone-in lamb stew is a winter-time favorite at our house. Here's my recipe.

BONE-IN LAMB STEW (makes 4 servings)

2 tablespoons butter
4 lamb neck slices, about ¾-inch thick
2 medium-sized carrots, sliced
2 medium-sized onions, sliced
2 medium-sized green peppers, chopped
2 medium-sized tomatoes, chopped
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Melt butter. Add lamb and cook over low heat until browned on both sides. Add carrots, onions and peppers and cook 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Cover and cook over low heat 45 minutes or until lamb is tender.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

They Saved For Years But May Never Get Started On Cruise

DEAR HELEN:

Looking back over 40 years, you can see the mistakes — when it's too late to change them.

I earned good wages. My wife is a good manager, so I let her take care of the money. As the years went on, we went out less and less. There was always an excuse — the children needed clothes, the trip "wasn't worth it," but mainly — "We're saving for retirement so we can enjoy ourselves."

So we sat in front of the television, watched other people's travel movies, and our bank account grew. At first I tried to persuade my wife that spending for amusement wasn't a mortal sin, but the few vacations we took were never "right." She'd get tense and worried — like I was robbing her of her old age.

After awhile, the virus took hold of me, too. We'd have that pot of gold when we got to the end of the rainbow, and then — we'd live.

Last year I retired. My wife fought against it. "The money," she wailed. "What will we do without your paycheck?" I have an adequate retirement fund — over $500 a month — plus a big savings account, enough to see us through until we're 110. Inasmuch as we won't live that long, I expected to go go on the trips we denied ourselves and the children all those years.

Or did I really? If my wife suddenly changed her tune and suggested a 'round-the-world cruise, I must be truthful and say I'd find excuses to stay home. The habit of years is too great. I no longer yearn for the travelling and enjoyment that I once thought would be great. It's too much trouble, making plans — and hearing her shudder at every check we write.

Advice won't help, Helen. I'm writing this only as a warning to young couples. Spend as you go. Don't save it for that someday or you'll get into such a rut that someday will never come. —MISER AGAINST MY WILL

DEAR MISER:

Advice might help — if your wife were advised by the children, her doctor, pastor, friends — and you asked the advice of a travel agency who would take the planning hassle off your hands.

Rise up and assert yourself, man. You might be surprised how fast a woman changes, when her husband takes the reins. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We moved here last spring and the neighbors helped a lot. I got a job and, when vacation came, the lady next door started looking out for our children, aged 14 and 15. She has a teen-age girl and boy. They also have a swimming pool with a high fence around it.

One day last summer I got sick and came home from work early. I stopped at my neighbor's to let the children know, and was I shocked. Our two girls were swimming with the other two teen-agers, all nude. Just as I got to the pool, the mother came out of the house, also nude.

Naturally, I found another place for our children to stay while I worked. Now we're thinking about selling our house, as we can't condone this depraved kind of goings-on.

What bothers me is our children thought so little of it that they didn't mention this so-called skinny-dipping. And the woman had the nerve to ask my husband and me to swim. I thought they were such great people — before. I've said nothing to them — but:

Are we right in leaving? — S.F.

DEAR S.:

Nudists aren't depraved — they simply have different attitudes about clothing. If you don't like skinny-dipping, stay out of their back yard, but don't feel threatened. Their moral values are probably as strong as yours. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

She Made Three Mountain Trips Within Four Months Last Year

Had A Farm,' because they would recognize the animal noises," recounts Linda. At that village they saw horsemen and tried to rent their horses. They were refused. Horses are so rare and valuabel in Nepal they are trained to buck off anyone but their owners.

THEY LEARNED there are no cats in Nepal because they are thought to be witches and all killed.

After returning to Marin, Linda climbed Half Dome in Yosemite in June. "My friend went up the hard way. But I went up the easy way, with several other people," says Linda.

And in July Linda found herself in the center of the Swiss Alps. She had been recruited by her father's friend, Leo LeBon of a travel agency in Oakland which arranges tours for mountain climbers and handles all overseas travel for Sierra Club, to hostess at a ski and climbing lodge there.

"I went ahead to Chamonix to open the chalet and hire a cook and maids," says Linda. They planned to climb Monte Blanc, Europe's highest mountain. "The French call the climb 'facile', but you'd better be in good shape," she warns.

TO PREPARE for the climb, Linda first climbed a small mountain. Another day she hiked a path that wraps around Monte Blanc at 7,000 feet, with some French boys and a girl.

"We had to give up because of a blizzard in July!"

On the two-day climb of Monte Blanc, Linda accompanied a group of 20 women and 180 men. "There was a lady who was 60 and a young French boy," she said. By lift, train and walking they arrived at the hut at Gouter at 13,000 feet. "The moonrise and sunrise were beautiful from that hut. We rose at 4 a.m., planning to be at the top of Monte Blanc by 8:30 a.m. and down again before afternoon, when avalanches sometimes occur. When we came to an avalanche corridor, we roped together and ran! Some Italians were yelling, causing rocks to fall."

These three mountain treks within four months triply confirmed Linda's interest in conservation. This Christmas the co-ed solved the problem of Santa Clara County people who bought live trees but had no place to replant them after the holidays. Linda arranged for trees to be collected on Stanford's campus and claimed by Santa Clara County Parks and Recreation Department for replanting in parks, along highways and other areas needing landscaping.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Counseling Services Free Debtors Of Overwhelming Problems

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — If you think you have financial problems — and who doesn't? — consider the situation that confronted one young factory worker who came into a credit counseling service.

Although his weekly paycheck was only $75, he was paying $40 of it in alimony to his former while trying to support himself and his new wife on the rest. In addition, he owed $3,800 to various creditors.

He was thinking of going into bankruptcy so he could wipe out his debts and start over again. As a last resort, he visited the credit counseling service, and now he is glad he did.

THE MAN who heard his case at the counseling service immediately got some of the largest monthly payments drastically reduced under a plan whereby they could be paid off over a longer period of time.

Other parts of the plan, to which the credit victim and his wife agreed, included having his new wife look for a job, having the former wife accept lower payments and having the man seek overtime work on his job.

What the counseling service did was to set up an arrangement which, if followed, would free this man of his overwhelming debt and thereby save him from worse problems that often arise because of financial difficulties.

Financial problems are the most frequent cause of marital problems, and overextended credit is the top cause of financial problems. At the root, of course, is a lack of consumer education.

A ONE-STOP credit counselor cannot re-educate a credit victim, but he can do a lot to help such people escape from the trap once they fall into it. In some cases, all that is needed is advice. In other cases, the problems are insurmountable.

Experience with credit counseling services in 121 cities where they now operate shows that about half of the people who come in are put on a pro-rating system for paying off debts.

The pro-rating system is based on a frank recognition of a debtor's bills and a sincere interest in getting out of debt. The counseling service can often make arrangements that an ordinary citizen could not do in getting payments reduced and stretched over a longer period.

For many consumers, the trip to the counseling service is the last stop before bankruptcy or worse. In some cases, less than 2 per cent, bankruptcy is advised as the only alternative left.

BUT THE main purpose of the service is to help people avoid bankruptcy. This works to the benefit of both the consumer himself and to the merchants, bankers and other businessmen who put up the money to pay for the service.

The nation-wide system is operated by the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, Inc., located at 1819 H Street nw., Washington, D.C., 20006. The foundation is a non-profit organization sponsored by manufacturers, distributors, retailers, lending institutions and insurance companies.

Until recently, the foundation has not sought to publicize its work very much for fear that it would arouse the hopes of more people than its various counseling services could handle efficiently.

But with the addition of 30 new services this year and a sweeping change in personnel, the foundation is preparing to eventually expand the present 121 programs into 800.

That is a monumental project, but so is the credit problem in the United States.

Lynn Ann Regalia Exchanges Vows With James Sloan In San Rafael

Carol Ann Regalia was her sister's maid of honor and Sandra Ann Scheiner of Novato was the bridesmaid. Charles Byrl Sloan of Petaluma was his brother's best man. Seating the guests were Charles Van Schalscha of Rancho Cordova and John Giromini of Santa Venetia.

The couple are living in Long Beach.

Both are graduates of Terra Linda High School and she has been employed by Salomon Brothers in San Francisco. James is serving with the Navy at Long Beach.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Byrl Sloan of Santa Venetia and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario J. Regalia of Terra Linda. She is the sister of Sally, Judy and Patty Regalia.

Mrs. Lucien Libarle Leader For St. Anthony's Farm Auxiliary

Elected to be the first president of St. Anthony's Farm Auxiliary is Mrs. Lucien "Red" Libarle of Petaluma. The auxiliary was organized last April and created for the purpose of decorating the new mens' facilities at the farm, located on the Bodega Highway west of Petaluma.

In addition to this project the women hope to assist in the gradual rehabilitation of the men who seek guidance from St. Anthony's. Since its inception the auxiliary has collected blankets, pillows, furniture and clothing for the farm. Individual Christmas gifts and a complete wardrobe including shoes for each man are now being gathered by members from proceeds netted from last month's fund raising effort, a luncheon at the farm. Any woman from either Marin or Sonoma County is invited to join.

Mrs. Libarle is also active in the Petaluma Community Guild, Santa Rosa Symphony League, Hillcrest Hospital Auxiliary and the Catholic Social Service, Petaluma Unit.

A native of San Francisco, Emily Libarle attended Santa Rosa Junior College and St. Luke's School of Nursing in San Francisco. She and her husband own a laundry and are the parents of Mrs. Warren Hinckle III; Daniel, Marc and Jeff Libarle, 17. Her pastimes include reading, music, decorating and travel.

St. Vincent Club Leader

"To give financial support to both our grammar and high school is the purpose of the St. Vincent's Mothers Club," says Mrs. Charles L. Matteri, now serving as president.

A 13 year member Evelyn Matteri served as vice president last year. She invites any mother with children attending either of the two private parochial schools to join the organization.

The club's annual bazaar, held in November, attracts more than 400 shoppers. Members are also considering another fund raising event for spring.

Born in San Francisco Mrs. Matteri has lived in Sonoma County 44 years and is a graduate of both St. Vincent's Grammar and High Schools. She and her husband, a creamery worker at Petaluma Cooperative Creamery, are the parents of Kathy, 18, Susan, 17, Marie, 15, Linda, 14, Peggy, 11, and David, 8. All six children attend the same schools that their mother did.

Board Turns Down Draft Instruction

The San Rafael Board of Education last night agreed that although draft counseling may be a needed course at San Rafael High School, a young teacher who has been involved in the peace movement is not the man to teach it.

The board upheld earlier decisions by officials at the school turning down an appeal by Richard Delgado to teach a "mini-course" concerning the ins and outs of the Selective Service Act.

School Principal Alan W. Ellsberg pointed out that Delgado recently had written an article in the high school newspaper describing how to get a medical deferment. Ellsberg said the duty of the school was to "educate not to indoctrinate."

He described young Delgado, however, as a good and impartial mathematics teacher.

Board members also questioned whether it might not be more effective to offer draft information either in a civics class or through school counselors and instructed the administration to present further information.

In other action last night, board members described their meetings with faculties of all the district's schools where they heard such large and small gripes as stopped up sinks and a need for reading programs.

The board also approved an approximately $5,000 expenditure for improvements at West End School, including carpeting halls and the library and moving library books into the hall in order to allow the library to be used for other activities.

Board members Carl J. Brown and John C. Pfeiffer said last night they will not run for re-election, and Herman L. Childress said he doubted that he would run.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Reduced Charge

Guy P. Runnels, 21, of no known address, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing a device for smoking marijuana.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. set sentencing for Jan. 29.

Runnels was earlier charged with possessing a marijuana cigarette when he was arrested Oct. 20 outside the home of a Larkspur man who had complained to police about a prowler.

11 Health Agencies Plan Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco area chapters of 11 national health agencies announced Tuesday they will hold a combined fund-raising campaign.

Such a campaign would be in competition with the United Bay Area Crusade which has said it is stopping contributions to a number of its one-time members. The Crusade did not name the agencies it had dropped.

No date was set for the health campaign.

Agencies joined in the new drive are the American Cancer Society, the Arthritis Foundation, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the American Heart Association, the Kidney Foundation, the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., the National Association for Retarded Children, the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, the United Cerebral Palsy group, the Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Indian Elections

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Elections Commissioner S.P. Sen Verma announced today India will hold elections for a new parliament March 1 instead of Feb. 26 in an effort to allow more time for campaigning.

Roofing Firm Hit For Pollution Acts

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Bay Area Air Pollution Control Board is asking Superior Court to shut down a roofing company it contends has been in "continual violation" of the law for six years.

In an unprecedented move on Tuesday, the board called the Lloyd A. Fry Roofing Co. of San Leandro the most chronic air polluter in the district.

Judge Robert Croninger rejected a request for a temporary injunction and set Jan. 21 for a hearing into the merits of the case.

Mathew Walker, the district's legal officer, said the suit aims at shutting the company until it installs anti-pollution devices.

Fry spokesmen said it would take from six months to eight months to install $100,000 worth of equipment but Walker said even those devices would not bring Fry into compliance with new anti-pollution laws.

So far the district has fined Fry $85,000—alleging 170 violations, each with a maximum fine of $500. The company has appealed the fines.

The company makes paper felt impregnated with tar for the manufacture of shingles.

"They have an oily mist coming out of their stack which settles to the ground and gives people in the neighborhood headaches," Walker asserted.

Winter Program Signups Due

Signups are being taken for San Anselmo's winter parks and recreation program. Classes still open include judo, folk guitar, bowling, dog obedience, arts and crafts, dressmaking, drama, music appreciation and tennis, plus the tiny tots and dancercise programs.

Registration is at city hall.

Gore To Seek Baker Ouster

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Former Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., pledged Tuesday to work diligently in 1972 to defeat Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the man Gore feels organized his defeat at the polls in November.

"Senator Baker organized the campaign to take me out of the Senate in 70. I expect to organize a campaign to take him out in 72," Gore told newsmen.

In the meantime, Gore said, he would be on the faculty of Vanderbilt University on a part-time basis and had received offers from other Tennessee schools of a similar nature.

He said he would visit Harvard University next spring for two weeks as a visiting lecturer in the political science department.

Welfare Home Claimed Damaged

DAILY Independent-Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 6, 1971 19

By LARRY MOWELL

A San Francisco woman has claimed that a San Rafael home she rented to a welfare family a year ago in "good, clean condition" has been left in such a state of disrepair and disarray it would cost $10,000 to fix it up.

Sylvera M. C. Sobel, landlady of the house at 1312 Third Street, said she evicted the tenants after her house was abated as a health hazard. The house, she said, must be sold because of its unrentable condition.

A recent inspection by an Independent-Journal reporter found the cellar and rear balcony of the house crammed with trash. Filth caked walls, ceilings and floors. The icebox contained three trays of picked chicken bones and an empty soft drink carton.

The yard of the aging, brown-shingled building was an obstacle course of rusted bicycle parts and soggy lumber. Clothing and household furnishings were strewn about, left behind by the residents.

"They just live like animals," Mrs. Sobel said of her evicted tenants, Wilma Litteral, three of her children in their teens, and a grandchild.

The Litteral family, now staying in a San Rafael motel, has a history of scrapes with the law and health authorities. Mrs. Litteral was placed on a year's probation on October 10, 1969, for allowing a public nuisance to exist at her residence, then at a different location.

One condition was that she have weekly garbage collections.

Mrs. Sobel blamed the county Department of Public Social Services for the condition of her house, which, she claims, was damaged and cluttered with garbage because welfare workers have been "too nice" to the Litterals.

She said no garbage had been collected because garbage bills were not paid.

The Litterals, according to their social worker, Mary Cutler, could not afford about $4.50 a month for garbage removal after payment of $200-a-month rent. (The I-J sought to determine how much Mrs. Litteral receives in monthly welfare payments, but the Marin County Counsel's Office said the information is confidential under state law.)

A county official said there are hundreds of complaints about garbage accumulation in Marin every year.

Maurice B. Scott, supervising sanitarian of the county health department, said cases such as the Litteral's are not uncommon. Last March, for instance, a home in Santa Venetia was abated for a wall of trash around the structure and homes in Bolinas have caused complaints to the county board of supervisors.

Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, said that complaints about garbage accumulated by welfare residents are received by her office less than once a month.

Added to the garbage and filth problem that forced the health department to abate the Litteral residence is the threat that another low cost residence will be lost.

Officials throughout the county have lamented the loss of low-cost residences replaced by businesses, but that may be the fate of the Sobel property.

"I couldn't afford to fix it up. We will just have to sell it to somebody who wants the lot," Mrs. Sobel said.

Mrs. Cutler doubted there was $10,000 damage done by the Litterals. She said there was structural damage when the family moved in and, during the family's stay, the front stair caved in and the roof leaked, causing water damage. "This is a very old house," she said.

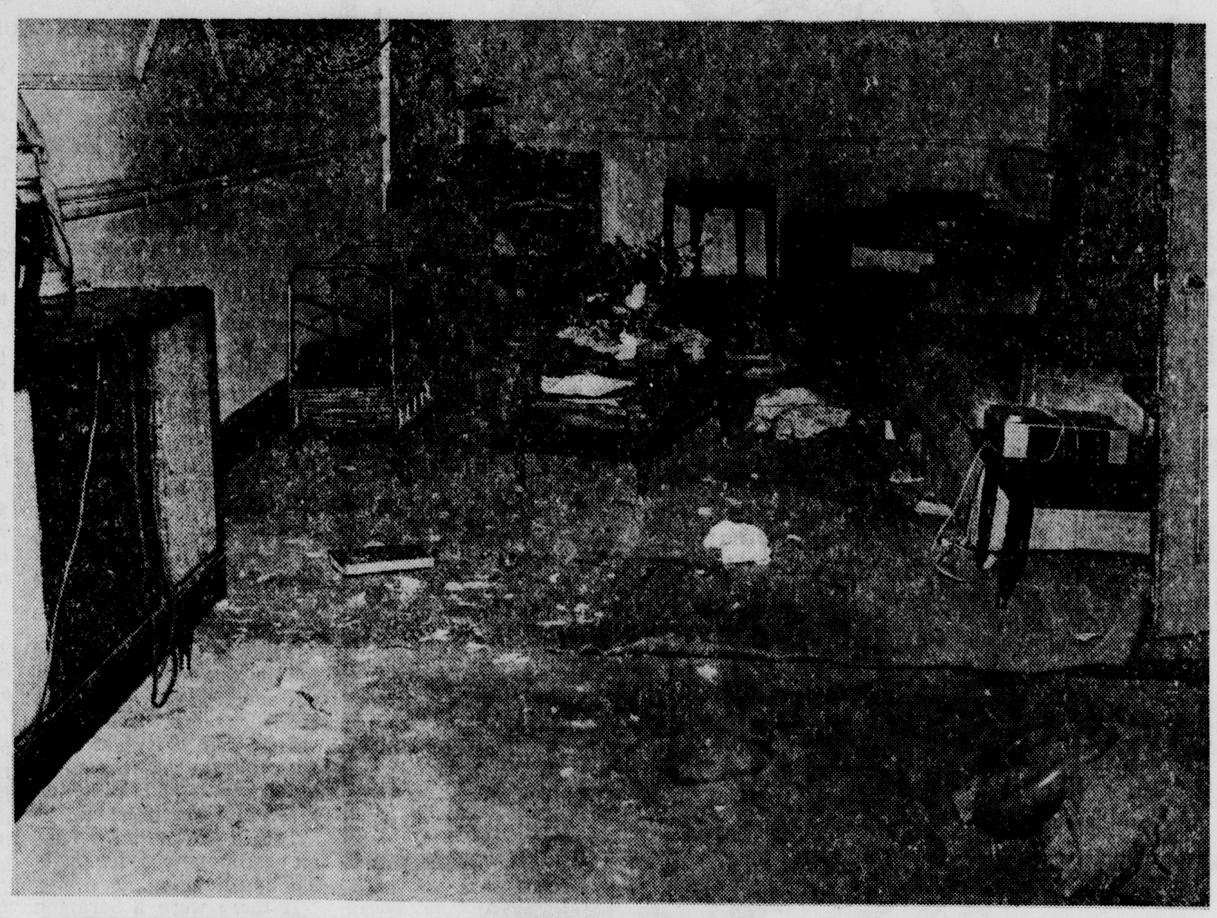
Although minimizing Mrs. Sobel's view of the damage, Mrs. Cutler said, "I felt they were not living up to standard."

Mrs. Cutler complained to the health department, which ordered a cleanup, when she saw mice in the house.

When the health department intervened, however, it also alerted Mrs. Sobel that she was responsible for removing the garbage. "When I went to see the condition of the place, they had human excrement all over the place and the sanitary people wouldn't handle it," she said.

Mrs. Cutler disagreed. She said she and Mrs. Sobel had gone through the house twice during December and "it was swept and clean" despite the accumulation of garbage.

"They had responded to quite a few things that Mrs. Sobel had requested," Mrs. Cutler said.



LIVING ROOM — The living room of the former Litteral residence — remains in the condition it was in when the tenants were evicted. A social worker who handles the Litteral case said the family made an effort to clean up the house after health department complaints.

NONTENANT DAMAGE — A leaking roof caused a rotting ceiling and peeling plaster in the living room at the house at 1312 Third Street. Social worker Mary Cutler claimed that much other damage the landlady, Sylvera M. C. Sobel, attributes to her last tenants was due to decay of the old house.

GARBAGE BIN — Some of the garbage that caused the Marin County Health Department to abate the residence at 1312 Third Street still clogs the basement of the home. The abatement notice caused the landlord to evict the welfare tenant.

Panel To Discuss Health Planning

"Marin County's Role in Regional Health Planning" will be discussed by a panel of speakers at the annual meeting of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin at 8 p.m. next Wednesday at the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. auditorium in San Rafael.

Speakers will be James Brusstar, associate director of the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council; Dr. Elliot Rapaport, coordinator of regional medical programs, and J. Fred Silva, associate planner for the Association of Bay Area Governments. Mayor James F. Reed of San Anselmo will moderate the discussion.

Rep. Mailliard Plans Report

Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, will give a report on the 91st Congress and answer listeners' questions on the "Marin Sounding Board" program at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, who also represents a portion of Marin County, will also appear on the program if he returns home from Washington, D.C., in time, according to moderator Kitty Oppenheimer.

The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Arraignment On Car Theft Count

Steven Raymond Sokol, 20, of 885 Bridgeway, Sausalito, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of car theft.

He is to enter a plea Wednesday.

Sokol was arrested by Sausalito police last Saturday driving a car which police said was stolen minutes earlier from in front of 207 Woodward Avenue.

Bagley Received $25,793 During 1970 Legislature

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was second among his 120 colleagues in the Legislature in receiving the most money from the state during 1970.

Bagley, in addition to his basic salary of $16,000 a year, received $9,793 in living expenses, interim per diems and travel reimbursement. He was second only to former Assembly Speaker Bob Monagan, R-Tracy, who got $26,382, according to totals compiled this week by the controller's office.

Most legislators got about $22,000.

During both the 1969 and 1970 sessions, Bagley was chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee, thus traveling extensively on tax matters. His expenses last year included $1,100 for flights to Washington, D.C., to seek the Nixon Administration's support for nationwide tax reform.

The above figures do not include the costs of two other privileges enjoyed by legislators — a free car and unlimited gasoline credit card privileges.

The total cost of running the 1970 Legislature, including staff salaries and all operating costs, was $21,457,000. This total included more than $500,000 a year for retired legislators.

Costs are certain to be higher this year, if only because 1969 legislators voted themselves a hike in base pay from $16,000 to $19,200, effective last Friday.

Legislators also get $25 a day per diem living expenses during legislative sessions, including Saturdays and Sundays. This allowance, totally exempt from taxes, added up to $5,450 for those who had no unexcused absences from the 1970 session.

Bagley's total of $25,793 included $5,375 in these per diem payments. McCarthy got $5,400 in per diem.

Legislators also get $25 a day and transportation costs for authorized interim trips within the state, and on out-of-state trips they are allowed transportation and either $20 a day or actual hotel costs and $12.50 a day. Bagley collected $4,418 in these payments, including the $1,110 for his Washington trips.

Bagley Seeks State, Local 18-Year-Old Voting Rights

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Amendment of the California Constitution to allow 18-year-olds to vote and run in state and local elections was proposed in a measure introduced yesterday by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Dec. 1 that a new law by Congress to give the vote to 18-year-olds applied only in elections for federal office, not to state or local elections.

Five other legislators also proposed plans to reduce the voting age for state and local elections yesterday, and two assemblymen presented measures that would extend to 18-year-olds all the legal rights of adults — including that of drinking.

Bagley commented that "the old slogan of 'if you're old enough to fight, you're old enough to vote' has been replaced by 'if you're old enough to vote for president, you're old enough to vote for county assessor.'"

A similar measure was introduced in the upper house by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco. Among its co-authors was Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Bagley declared that young people must be allowed "to participate within the system at all levels. The existing senseless duality of separate and unequal ballots must be eliminated," he said.

(Peter C. Meyer, Marin County elections officer, estimated Monday that maintaining separate voter lists and ballots for 18-year-olds would add about 20 per cent to the county's election costs that now total about $60,000 a year.)

Bagley's constitutional amendment, ACA 1, would have to be approved by a two-thirds margin in the next statewide election in June 1972 if it passes the Legislature. Thus, if the amendment eventually passed at that time, the state's 18-year-olds would not qualify for full voting powers until the general election in November 1972.

Cash Reported Taken From Store

About $165 in cash was stolen Dec. 29 or 30 from a safe at the Dollars and Sense variety store in Larkspur, police said yesterday.

Officers said the burglar broke into the store at 1100 Magnolia Avenue by crawling underneath the structure and cutting a large hole in the floor.

Loma Verde Nomination

Klaus K. Mund of 1030 Via Escondida has been nominated as 1971 president of the Loma Verde Homeowners Association.

James A. Pettipas was nominated for vice president, Beverly Swenson for treasurer, Marian Burrell for recording secretary and June Owens for corresponding secretary.

Biennial Repeal Session To Improve Legislature?

Now that the California Legislature is back in session (it paused barely long enough for the election), it seems as good a time as any to take a look at what we have allowed this creature of government to do with itself.

Not so many years ago, the legislature met in the odd-numbered years to act on a biennial budget. Only money bills could be considered at this session unless the governor held it in special session for other matters. In the even-numbered years, the legislature in regular session managed to enact a wide variety of laws. Yet the sessions — budget or regular — generally were rather short.

Biennial appropriations caused some difficulties. So in 1947, during Earl Warren's incumbency in the governor's chair, the system was "reformed" to permit annual budgets. The idea was that the legislature was to adopt a budget within 30 days after convening. With that out of the way, it would go into regular session to act on other matters.

IT DIDN'T ALWAYS work that way. Governors added various nonbudgetary matters to the special budget session, and it became the exception rather than the rule to get the budget disposed of within 30 days. Budget delays got so bad that in 1965, Gov. Edmund G. Brown did not get the budget until June 30, the last day of the fiscal year. Naturally, the sessions got longer and longer.

In 1966, the legislature "reformed" itself again, by means of a constitutional amendment approved by the voters in the same election that put Ronald Reagan in the governor's chair.

The "reform" abolished the constitutional provision that legislators be paid $6,000 per year, enabling them to raise their own salaries. And it did away with the special budget session.

WE HAVE SEEN the results: The legislators, their pay much higher, are in no hurry to wind up their deliberations. They have been in so little hurry, in fact, that both of the last two years the budget did not reach the governor until after the June 30 close of the fiscal year. And, as we mentioned, the sessions have grown so long that they barely adjourn for election.

All this, of course, has added tremendously to the cost of the legislature. It has added also to the costs of other state government functions, because the legislators when in session require all sorts of services, reports, etc., from the other branches.

If it has done anything to improve legislation, or make the state government function more efficiently, we fail to see it.

WE HAVE a suggestion:

Suppose the legislature every second year be limited to adopting a budget and repealing laws? No new laws. Just get rid of some of the old ones.

As things stand, getting a law off the books — no matter how archaic it may be nor how unworkable it may have proved — is extremely difficult. The legislators are too busy enacting new laws.

Making every second session a "repeal session" should balance things up a bit. Also, it should mean that at least one year out of two, the lawmakers would go home in time so something could be accomplished by the rest of the state government.

CRLA Fund Veto Brings Usual Howls From Spender Fraternity

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — As usual, every time the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan attempts to save the taxpayers some money, howls to high heaven go up from those who oppose him.

This happened in the case of the veto to a $1.8 million federal grant for California Rural Legal Assistance, Inc., another unnecessary bureaucracy squandering the taxpayers' money.

Although Reagan is accused by his detractors of depriving the poor of legal assistance, the real reason he vetoed the appropriation was because the CRLA just wasn't doing the job it was supposed to do.

THE HOWLS started when Cruz Reynoso, director of CRLA in California, and some of his assistants flew to Washington to urge over-riding the Reagan veto. It will be interesting later to check the expense accounts to determine whether the officials used CRLA funds, which come from the taxpayer, to finance the trip.

California for more than a century got along without the services of a rural legal assistance program, which appears not to be dedicated to offering assistance to the poor, but to feathering the nests of the attorneys who are employed by the organization at government expense.

That the protests against the Reagan veto are political can be seen from the fact that virtually all the protestants were of the Democratic party except Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. However, Bagley is a good politician, and forward looking as well. Now that he is a member of the minority Republican party in the Assembly, he may be looking for some favors from his Democratic colleagues.

THE BILL of particulars charging the office has not done its job within the meaning of the federal law is amazing to say the least. CRLA's major mission was to represent the poor in civil cases. But diversions from this major mission include:

"Representation of people charged with crime, use of legal processes to harass public and private organizations, solicitation of clients, counseling and organizing students to challenge school authority discipline systems, and the undue fixation of energies on cases with extraordinary publicity value."

The bill of particulars came up with a dozen specific cases in which the CRLA is claimed to have exceeded its authority. And the governor's office promises to reveal many more cases.

The bill of particulars charged that the conduct of employees of CRLA was "outrageous and irresponsible."

There may be some hope for the taxpayers after all if the administration can start the new year by cutting off a comparatively useless agency for two million dollars.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Will Communist Party Aid Angela?

As the Angela Davis trial progresses it will be interesting to observe the actions of the Communist party U.S.A. By her own admission she is a Communist and should therefore be entitled to full party backing in the coming trial.

The Aug. 7 affair, however, appears to have been conducted outside the framework of party policy. Although Communist tactics never shrink from violence it has been party policy for members to remain in the background while dupes perform the deeds. In fact the party in recent years has been attempting to cloak itself in an air of respectability. Violent acts by the militant New Left reveal a lack of discipline that the Communist party cannot tolerate.

So far there is no indication that the party is ready to pull out all stops to defend Miss Davis. . .

Different View Of Angela Davis

May I offer a rebuttal to the letter from Bob Cardozo which appeared in the Dec. 30 edition of the I-J.

Mr. Cardozo is very obviously anti-Angela Davis. He complains that she ran, fought extradition and raised her fist in a Black Power salute of protest. If you were black and accused of murder, conspiracy and kidnapping because you were the registered owner of the weapons used, wouldn't your natural instinct be to run and then avoid being returned once captured as long as possible if at all? A Black Power fist raised in protest for what, Mr. Cardozo asks; perhaps in protest of second class citizenship among other things.

Mr. Cardozo also claims Miss Davis returned in "arrogant militancy and smug defiance". I suggest the word "pride" be substituted for "arrogant" and "dignity" for "smug." The picture taken of her at the time of her arrest depicts that considerably better than any words could. . .

No decent citizen opposed to violence can help but be appalled by the tragedy which took place at the Civic Center. Yet another tragedy may be in store if Angela Davis is forced to spend her youth in prison as the result of an uptight, prejudice white establishment who fears the new found pride of the black race. . .

If she is innocent, and if by some miracle 12 fair minded citizens can be found to render a just and honest verdict, let us hope that she will not become so imbittered as to be blinded to the needs of a total society.

Emphasize Good, Reader Urges

This is the last day of the year, and I feel that I must say something about the Independent-Journal.

With each passing day, newspapers become the conveyors of news which is predominantly dismal, depressing, tragic and violent. The biggest headline in your paper on Dec. 30 was "1970: Tragic Episodes Mark Violent Year," followed by an article which recapped some of the worst incidents we've had in Marin in 1970 — deaths, murders, bombings, etc. — a wonderful note on which to end a year in which no one has had an especially easy time. This is typical of your emphasis on news — the worst items always seem to get the biggest lines and more and predominant space; the helpful, informative and cheery articles are buried.

As a newspaper, and especially as the only newspaper in Marin County, you have a particular responsibility to your readers. You have the power to create an entire mental and emotional attitude just by what, through arbitrary emphasis, you put on the front page. You are an organ, and entity, of the community in which you exist, and without which you would not exist. Because of the nature of a community, each member's action has an effect. The reason that we have lawlessness, violence, discontent and frustration today is not because our lawmakers and legislators and educators have failed, but because each individual member of the community has given up the responsibility for his own actions — has ignored the effects of his behavior. If we are not each personally responsible for our actions, whether direct, or indirect as through voting, for instance, we cannot expect others to be so. Your newspaper is no exception.

I do not expect the I-J to stop printing unhappy news — that would be evading reality. But to continually emphasize only that kind of news which is depressing, frustrating and even angering, without offering your readers any constructive means of directing the negative energy which you have aroused, is irresponsible. In many instances, the source of the news is so remote that there is no opportunity for constructive reaction. So who needs it?

Emphasize the many good things that people do for each other in Marin: there are community-oriented centers and organizations, and even private individuals, news of whose activities need not be limited to the society pages. The word "ecology" is in everyone's mouth these days, but has anyone considered the ecology of the community mind? Has anyone considered that if the good as good leaders and good news, are not "recycled," that the community as an entity dies, just as a forest dies when all the trees are removed and none replanted? . . .

THE DRUMMONDS

Open Letter To Senate Leaders: Congress Requires Dedication

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — To Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader:

To Hugh Scott, Senate Republican leader:

You are, of course painfully aware that the Senate cannot afford to keep up the sorry performance it put on in recent months.

Something adequate will have to be done to enable the Senate to transact the public business efficiently and effectively.

It hasn't been doing so. Every senator knows it, most American voters know it, and it is evident that they are losing confidence in the ability of the Senate to do its part to govern the country.

THIS IS a perilous mood for the Senate to have created, and it is crucial that at the very start of the new session Jan. 20 it show evidence that the grievous stalemate, inertia and failings of 1970 will not be repeated.

This is no time for partisan recriminations, for political name-calling.

If there were a Scranton Commission investigating the functioning of Congress it would certainly conclude that the senior members of the Senate should exercise their "reconciling influence" to put their own house in order so that it can get on with the job.

This is a time for leadership to lead — both in the Senate and in the White House.

This is why we venture to address this plea to you, Senator Mansfield and Senator Scott, and to your other 98 colleagues.

WE ARE INCREASINGLY convinced that tidying up the machiners of the Senate is not the primary answer. It is desirable. It will help. But something more important and more valuable is necessary.

What is more important and more valuable is for every senator, beginning with the leaders, to examine what he is contributing to the spirit of the Senate and to measure that spirit against the yearning moods of the nation whose acute problems have outdistanced the solutions.

We believe that the qualities of mind which the Senate can and must bring to bear upon its work are these:

1 — WILL — The will to transact the public business expeditiously and responsibly and the will tosearch for and each constructive legislative compromises.

2 — GOODWILL — The goodwill and mutual respect essential to make democratic government work better now, this month, this year — a new reservoir of goodwill and mutual regard to which President Nixon, the Senate and the House must contribute.

3 — AWARENESS — The awareness that our government of divided power must find a way to use its powers more unitedly or falter at the most critical moments in our history.

We can't afford to falter, and what is most needed to insure that we succeed is a new spirit of will, of goodwill and of awareness that will put the welfare of this precious nation ahead of every lesser motive.

Strong arguments can be made for ending the seniority methods of choosing committee chairmen and reducing the veto power of the filibuster. Other changes in rules and procedures are needed to give the Senate the tools to do its job. Now is the time to make these changes.

But more important is to reform the spirit of the Senate and o enable the senators themselves, individually and collectively, to lay hold on the will, the goodwill and the awareness of how much the nation needs their best.

We have no doubt that this is what you, Senators Mansfield and Scott, most want to help bring about.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Strom Thurmond's Gospel: Epistle To Carolinians

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Everybody in the administration, the Congress and the press has had his swing at explaining why the nation's legislative process dragged on amid the sound of popping corks at the New Year. Everybody blamed everybody else.

But nobody else told it quite the way it was told by the venerable J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. In a message to the folks down home, the erstwhile states' righter, Democrat and independent, for six years now a member of the Republican Party, told them what he assumed they wanted to hear —that is, that Congress is in such a mess because "it has taken upon itself to perform many tasks which are not suited to the federal government."

Classic states' rights philosophy, right out of Thurmond's own presidential campaign back in 1948, and for that matter right out of the speeches of his fellow South Carolinian, John C. Calhoun, as long as 150 years ago. Calhoun used it to defend slavery. Thurmond used it to defend segregation and hominy grits. But in the waning days of 1970, the senator accompanied the classic complaint with further observations on the nature of Congress today.

IT IS AN eloquent outcry, essentially against the simple fact that the world keeps on growing. It doubtlessly will be heard in the proper spirit by the people of South Carolina who have revered Thurmond for so long.

But how seriously can anybody else take it when they remember it was J. Strom Thurmond who set a senatorial record of 24 hours and 18 minutes of lonely filibuster — back when he was a Democrat — speaking against the innocuous civil rights bill of 1957?

"CONGRESS HAS itself to blame," says Thurmond, "for undertaking to draft and debate legislation on every conceivable facet of daily life. The constant encroachment into areas of historic state responsibility has created a legislative logjam which the members of Congress seem unwilling or unable to handle."

The result is not merely volume of legislation, he continues. "Senators are now required to be expert in scores of technical requirements. . .Proposals ranging from school integration to welfare reform to environmental control and complex tax measures will have a hidden and unsuspected result when put into effect."

Even the sponsors of legislation often do not fully understand the eventual results of their bills, according to Thurmond, and while the committee system allows members and staffs to develop specialties, even this does not suffice in assessing the impact of new laws on various regions. "A senator or a congressman sometimes must be both sociologist and prophet to tell whether a given bill will adversely affect his people."

Well, who doesn't have the same problems?

THURMOND IS MERELY paraphrasing the grievances of the students who draw his scorn with their demonstrations against the bigness and confusion of school life. He is throwing up his hands in much the same way those bureaucrats he despises do in OEO, and HEW and HUD, when they are up against a program that needs doing but just won't work. It is the same cry you can hear in a columnist's office when he realizes he is going to have to sieve through a mountain of committee reports before he is qualified to comment on a particular legislative issue.

Misunderstanding On Apartments? Larkspur Council Will Decide

Larkspur land developer Niels J. Schultz Jr., rebuffed a month ago by the planning commission when he proposed another development adjacent to Corte Madera Creek, claims the commissioners acted in ignorance.

In a "fact sheet" drafted by a San Francisco public relations firm, Schultz maintains the commission misunderstood the location of his three-story apartment building which would stretch across two lots.

The building would not be on the creek but rather 66 feet back from the mean high water line, says Schultz, "a setback greater than that provided by most of the buildings now constructed in that area adjacent to the creek."

THERE MIGHT be a misunderstanding, but it is doubtful that it is by the commission, which has spent months studying the question of setbacks from the creek.

Rather, it would appear, the commission's unanimous rejection of Schultz's plan was based on the position that it doesn't want a massive structure situated near the creek.

In rebuttal to that argument, Schultz says the commission erred if its rejection was so based. The apartments under consideration, he claims, are similar to others near the creek and "provide more of the ecological amenities which the Schultz Building Co., the planning commission and the city council as well consider important."

He lists those "ecological amenities" as the building's utilization of only half the space it is entitled to under the building code, its height as being 10 per cent under the maximum allowed, and its 66-foot rear setback.

This last will "permit a wide lane of open space for the use of the residents," Schultz adds.

THE PLANNING commission's rejection was primarily based on the building's failure to be consistent with "the general design of the neighborhood."

It noted three sections of the code dealing with architectural supervision as the basis for denial. Briefly, the code states that for architectural supervision to be granted the building must lend itself to the harmonious appearance of the city, be compatible with the area in which it is located, and not be detrimental to the general welfare of the neighborhood. Those points were used by the commission. Others include optimum use of the land and adequate traffic circulation.

Tonight, the city council will hear an appeal from Schultz of the commission's action. Its decision, whether to uphold the commission or overrule it in favor of revenue producing development, may well set the tone for Larkspur's future control of such developments.

Paris Talks Will Enter Third Year Bogged Down

HONG KONG (Toronto Telegram News Service) — "This is a unique momentin history," said the U. S. Ambassador. "Today, in this new meeting in Paris, the search for peace in Vietnam enters a new state. Today, we begin together the search for an honorable and enduring settlement to the conflict which divides us."

The speaker was Henry Cabot Lodge, Washington's former Ambassador to Saigon. He was addressing the first enlarged session of the Paris talks on Jan. 25, 1969.

Almost two years after the hopeful statement Mr. Cabot Lodge made in Paris, the negotiations are still bogged down, and the end of the war is not in sight.

In fact, 1971 is likely to be another indecisive year in Indochina (Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia).

The United States has gained absolutely nothing in Paris.

If the inflexibility of both sides has not altered there, certainly in Indochina the scene has changed radically since that first enlarged meeting two years back.

The two most dramatic events in Vietnam in 1969 were the beginnings of the U. S. withdrawal from Vietnam on July 8 and the death of president Ho Chi Minh on Sept. 3. These two events hold the key to Communist intransigence in Paris. Ho Chi Minh died with the call for victory over the United States still on his lips.

But, of course, the events in Cambodia during the past nine months have rendered the situation much more complex. On March 18, Prince Norodom Sihanouk was ousted in a coup, and on May 1, the United States and South Vietnam began their lightning operations against the Communists in Cambodia.

Fighting spread and intensified in Laos. Within a matter of months, the Vietnam war in 1970 became the second Indochina war.

Another factor that seemed to explain Communist stubbornness in Paris was public disinterest in the conflict in the United States. The American people were so tired of the Vietnam war, they pushed it right off the front pages.

Now that the boys were being brought home, it was no longer a hot issue. Pollution, strikes, drugs, and student unrest made the headlines.

Even the Pentagon's recent efforts to free prisoners held in North Vietnam did not manage to revive public interest in the crisis. Nor did the threats to Hanoi by President Nixon and Secretary of State William Rogers about a possible intensification of the war.

But after two years of negotiations at the round table in Paris, the peace the United States seeks seems as distant as ever.

As if the accumulated frustration was too much to bear, the Pentagon recently unleashed the heaviest series of raids of the war against the Ho Chi Minh trail.

In the White House, officials said that infiltration of troops and supplies in Indochina was about 30 per cent higher than one year ago.

These signs of a possible new Communist offensive could trigger another round of U. S. bombings against North Vietnam, a development that would slow down the Paris talks even further.

The war in Indochina has moved into a transitional rather than a decisive phase. Nixon has kept his promise that U. S. casualties would be held to a minimum, and yet he has not abandoned Washington's allies in Saigon.

As the United States moves into the second decade of direct involvement in Indochina, weekly American casualties are down to between 20 and 30 killed.

This compares with 300 to 500 U. S. troops killed each week during the height of the Communist Tet Offensive in 1968.

The United States has no intention of repeating the horrors of 1968 —the peak year of the war when almost 15,000 Americans died in combat. The total number of U. S. troops killed in the conflict stands at more than 44,000, but ever since the bombing against North Vietnam was halted, the weekly casualty figures have been dwindling.

It is against such a background that the deadlocked Paris talks continue week after week. Neither side wants to break off the negotiations, yet nobody comes up with a new initiative.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

More Trustees Quitting; Reason Not Hard To Find

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Greater than usual turnover of membership on California's district school boards may be expected when nearly all of the more than 1,000 of them hold elections in April.

This will not be, in most cases, because of any voter attitude of "throw the rascals out." It will be because many incumbent board members have decided against seeking another term.

A reason for this is not hard to find. A spot check among trustees shows many feel the job has become little more than a year-around wrangle with teacher representatives over salaries and working conditions.

THIS HAS COME about for two reasons: the growing militance of the teacher organizations, heightened by the rivalry for control between the California Teachers Association and California Federation of Teachers, and the action of the legislature two years ago in writing into the education code a provision that teacher salaries may be increased at any time during the year.

This raise-at-any-time provision — which last year's legislature extended to non-teaching "classified" employees as well — has resulted in prolonging negotiations between school boards and teacher representatives into virtually a year-around operation in many districts.

IT WORKS like this:

When a school district starts budgeting for its next fiscal year (a process already under way in most of them), it perforce must base its figuring on how much it received the previous year, adjusted to include any tax increase the voters have approved — or possibly a special "override" which does not require such approval. The board — or its negotiator — must deal with the teachers' demands on the basis of the known district income. To meet legal requirements, the board must make its contract offers before either state subventions or increase in assessed values are known.

Until the law was changed to permit raises at any time, the board had a chance to settle salaries, and then, if more money proved available, to use some of it for other purposes or perhaps be so fortunate as to build up a reserve fund.

THAT IS NO longer true. Now, whenever the tax take turns out to be a little larger than forecast, or more money is forthcoming from the state, teacher representatives are quick to demand that itbe added to the salary budget. Although the teachers are under contract at certain salaries, the law allows them to reopen negotiations for pay boosts at any time.

So much of school trustees' time is devoted to the resultant wrangling that many school board members feel their jobs have become those of labor negotiators — which is not what they sought when they ran for office.

THIS YEAR'S negotiations are going to be tougher than ever before. The CTA is beating the drums for "master agreements," which is another name for a labor union contract spelling out in detail what the employer must do — to be signed by the negotiators for CTA and board, just as union contracts are. This goes well beyond the matter of salaries. And it is legal under the Winton Act.

Either way, the salaries specified in the contracts are not binding. The legislature took care of that with the law permitting raises any time during the year.

'Summertime' Scheduled At Mill Valley

"Summertree," the off-Broadway play that won the 1968 Tony Award, will open at 8:30 p.m. Friday as the next production of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts.

The play also will be staged in the center at 267 Buena Vista Avenue at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday and on Jan. 15, 16, 22, 23, 29, 30 and Feb. 6.

Reservations may be made by calling the Greyhound bus depot in Mill Valley.

Diagnosis Order For Petaluman

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Lewis E. Meyers of Petaluma, charged with felony drunken driving, was committed yesterday to three months at the Vacaville Medical Facility for diagnosis.

Meyers had pleaded no contest to the charge that his car struck Dennis Stankalis, 17, of Petaluma, severing both the youth's legs on Nov. 17.

Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. granted the request of Public Defender Marteen Miller for the commitment and said he would sentence Meyer when he was returned.

Deputy Probation Officer Everett Mederios had recommended a nine-month jail sentence and a period of probation. Mederios said Meyers, 59, has shown remorse and was not contesting liquidation of his assets to help defray the medical expenses of Stankalis.

FIRE CALLS

11:29 a.m., San Anselmo — False alarm at Sunny Hills School.

2:08 p.m., Larkspur — Short circuit ignited spilled gasoline in a car at Redwood High School parking lot, car belonged to Scott Colburn of 100 Wellington, Ross. $200 damage.

2:12 p.m., San Rafael — Contents of garbage can afire at Terra Linda High School; minor damage.

SOUTHERN SONOMA

McGees Plead Guilty To Count

Harold Neal McGee, 25,and Richard Louis McGee, 24, both of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest. Sentencing was set for Feb. 5.

The two were arrested Dec. 28 after Harold McGee allegedly aimed a gun at a neighbor.

Man Bound Over On Burglary

Kenneth Paul Botai, 21, of 103 Lansdale Avenue, San Anselmo, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of burglary.

Arraignment was set for Jan. 18.

DANCE REVIEW

Nureyev Shines In 'Don Quixote'

By MARIE RAMEAU

SAN FRANCISCO — The Australian Ballet presented its second San Francisco performance of "Don Quixote" last night at the Opera House. This lively ballet, produced by Rudolf Nureyev after Marius Petipa to the music of Ludwig Minkus, can be appreciated from several perspectives, regardless of the fact that neither Nureyev's revival nor the original was totally consistent with Cervantes' literary masterpiece.

First of all, the Australian company, with its strong English roots, is here shown in a new light. Having seen the Russian version of the ballet, the source of this production becomes quite apparent. Lucette Aldous, for example, as Kitri assumes much of that vivacity and vigor characteristic of Plisetskaya in this incredibly demanding role. As Basilio, Nureyev was, of course, as always, phenomenal.

As a study of period style, Nureyev's staging of Don Quixote's dream displays his affinity for the Petipa style of choreography — a style which constitutes a rigorous test for even the best of dancers. The test was admirably met by corps and soloists alike, even if one could have wished for a softer, more ethereal image of Dulcinea than that presented by Miss Aldous, who in Act I distinguished herself by her devilishly animated dancing and acting.

This scene is one of ballet's loveliest moments — a quasi-eastern, yet totally classical — interlude within the Spanish setting. The tutus, noticeably, somewhat resembled those seen in the late 19th Century photographs, and the tasteful stage designs were nowhere more delightful than in the dream scene.

Missing, however, in Act III, was the original pas de deux. As performed last night, it somehow appeared not to measure up to some of its traditional high points. For instance, the continuity was interrupted by the appearance of another soloist between the pas de deux proper and the variations; and Kitri's variation minus the familiar pas de cheval would be difficult to imagine.

This is, however, the best ballet San Francisco has seen since either the Bolshoi or the Kirov companies and brings with it another memorable experience: Sir Robert Helpmann as the lovable, demented Don Quixote who designated himself the valiant successor of the medieval knights-errant. An extra performance of "Don Quixote" has been scheduled for Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the Opera House.

Artists To Display Works At Cannery

Acrylics by Patricia Zippin of Tiburon and the "Galactic Hatchery" of Suzanna Broughton of Mill Valley will be displayed daily from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. except Sunday, when the gallery will be open from noon until 9 p.m.

EOC Board To Discuss New Budget

A proposed $350,000 budget for fiscal 1971-72 will be discussed by the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council board at 8 p.m. today at the EOC office at 1004 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

The budget is $50,000 higher than the current fiscal year's according to W. Robert Lomax Jr., executive director.

The federal government pays 80 per cent of the budget with the remainder coming from local taxes and donations, he said.

The board also will receive a report on the December membership drive, Lomax said.

A nominating committee to pick a slate of officers for next year also will be elected. The slate will be presented either at the February or March meeting, according to Lomax.

An orientation meeting for 15 new board members will be held at 7 p.m. before the regular meeting.

Other items to come before the board include a request for $2,500 for a bus for Head Start program, receipt of $7,500 of $15,000 for an emergency food program, setting a date for the annual meeting, and setting salaries for three new jobs of transportation coordinator, neighborhood center coordinator and nutritionist.

Motion Filed In Conspiracy Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A U.S. attorney filed a supplemental motion Monday in the government's request that bail be denied Seattle Seven conspiracy defendants.

Attorney Stan Pitkin presented the motion shortly before the deadline set by the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, which took the papers under study.

In question is the refusal of Judge George H. Boldt of Tacoma, Wash., to grant bail to the seven persons whom he cited for contempt after declaring a mistrial. They had appeared before him charged with conspiring to destroy government property during an anti-war demonstration.

The appellate court first ordered Judge Boldt to grant bail but then stayed that order and told the government to "make a more adequate showing."

Driver Treated

Richard Gentry, 28, of Santa Rosa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital today for head cuts suffered at 1:30 a.m. when his pick up ran off Highway 101 at East Washington Street, Petaluma, and struck a tree, the California Highway Patrol said.

Big Four Output Drops 2.1 Million

DETROIT (UPI) — The Big Four automakers built 8,795,140 cars and commercial vehicles in North America in 1970 — 2.1 million vehicles less than they produced during 1969.

General Motors Corp., which was struck for 67 days by the United Auto Workers in the fall, accounted for all but 233,861 of the decline.

GM, Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. released their 1970 production figures this week. The figures showed that 7,417,341 new passenger cars and 1,653,909 commercial vehicels rolled off their assembly lines during 1970.

County GOP Reorganizes; Broomhead Named Again

The Marin County Republican Central Committee, with one unexpected hitch, reorganized itself Monday and reelected chairman Rodgers C. Broomhead of Ross.

But voting on several other officers was postponed when contest developed over electing a vice chairman.

Past vice chairman Elizabeth Rowen of San Rafael had been expected to be reelected, but several other committee members indicated they were going to back another candidate for the position, Broomhead reported.

Broomhead said he postponed a vote on the issue to a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Monday at party headquarters, 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael. Also set for Monday was balloting on the women's vice chairman and treasurer.

In other action, Mary Lee of San Rafael was reelected committee secretary.

Eviction Board On Housing Agenda

A proposed tenant eviction panel, to review and make final decisions on all evictions from Marin's public housing, will be considered by commissioners of the Marin County Housing Authority today at 7:30 p.m. in the Golden Hinde Housing Project, 5 Golden Hinde Avenue, San Rafael.

The commission will also elect a chairman and vice chairman for 1971 and hear a report on the status of recruitment of a deputy director for the housing authority and redevelopment agency. Executive director Wallace K. Shepherd said more than 100 persons have applied for the post.

RARE ACTION

Reagan Seeks Peace With Demo Leaders

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Like the mountain going to Mohammed, Gov. Ronald Reagan has trekked to the offices of Democratic legislative leaders to seek peace and an open mind on his welfare and tax reform proposals.

Both Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti told Reagan they believe the 1971 Legislature will enact a statewide tax increase over his objections.

In a surprise and rare move, Reagan marched upstairs from his first floor Capitol suite to the office of Moretti Tuesday for a 30-minute private meeting. Then, trailed by a parade of newsmen and aides, he ascended another flight to Mills' office.

All sides later agreed the significant thing about the visits was not what happened during them but that they happened at all.

"I don't very often get out of that corner office and I get claustrophobia down there," said the governor.

It was seen as a step toward conciliation with legislators in general and Democrats in particular.

During his first term, Reagan frequently was criticized by legislative leaders — including Republicans—for not touching base with them on major issues.

Democrats regained control of the legislature Monday for the first time in two years and, although only holding slim majorities in each house, will dominate the key committees that will consider Reagan's programs.

"We both came out smiling. Neither one of us bit the other," quipped the governor after emerging from a 20-minute chat with Mills, a San Diego liberal who helped kill his $1 billion tax revision program last year.

Reagan asked both Democrats not to adopt hard positions against his tax and welfare reform proposals until they are outlined in his annual state-of-the-state message to the legislature next Tuesday.

Moretti and Mills made it clear they believe any "tax reform" should include a tax increase.

Reagan invited the two legislative leaders to communicate with him directly in the future and bypass middlemen.

"At least we'll not be fighting this year for lack of knowing each other," said Moretti.

OATH PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Persons who belong to and believe in the aims of "subversive" groups would be barred from public employment under legislation filed Tuesday by Republican Assemblyman Robert H. Burke.

The Huntington Beach lawmaker said his proposed constitutional amendment and companion bill would provide a "clearly stated loyalty oath" which meets court objections that the old oath was "unduly vague, uncertain and broad." The state and U.S. Supreme Courts have struck down California's loyalty oath as unconstitutional.

FAIR BOARDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Little Hoover Commission Tuesday received a subcommittee report on its inquiry into a staff proposal on the possible consolidation of district fair boards.

The report said public hearings would be held Jan. 21 at Los Angeles, Jan. 28 at Fresno and Feb. 11 at Santa Rosa on the proposal.

Similar attempts at cutting down the number of boards failed to win passage by previous legislature.

The current proposal would cut the number of existing fairs from 76 to 38. About $8 million a year is spent by the state on some of the fairs.

COAST PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A conservation measure creating a commission to control development along California's coastline was introduced Tuesday by Assemblyman Pete Wilson R-San Diego.

The bill, similar to one sponsored by Wilson last year which was defeated in the Senate, sets up a California Coastal Zone Conservation and Development Authority. It also establishes five regional coastal zone boards.

BRIDGE PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill authorizing construction of a bridge over the Sacramento River near Antioch to replace a bridge damaged to last year was introduced Tuesday by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek.

The existing drawbridge became inoperative when a freighter struck it. The new span would be financed by a bond issued that would be paid off by tolls.

Nejedly also submitted a bill permitting the state to operate ferryboats when bridges are knocked out of use over major waterways and roads.

Sausalito Ferry Issue Up Today

The site for a ferry terminal for Sausalito will be the subject of a public hearing before the city planning commission today at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Controversy over the terminal's location erupted in November when the Golden Gate Bridge District, which operates the ferry, altered earlier plans for a terminal in northern Sausalito and a downtown whistlestop. The district said it planned to put the terminal in central Sausalito, and the city planning staff objected.

Skull Fracture In Accident

Mark Syrus Mohtashem, 6, of 1771 Grant Avenue, Apt. 14, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when he ran into a car on Grant Avenue, east of Eighth Street, Novato police reported.

Police said the boy was headed across the street to play at Marion School playground shortly before 4 p.m. when he ran into the side of a car driven by William Ellingsen, 36, of 2038 Shady Lane, Novato, police said.

The boy was reported in good condition today at Novato General Hospital.

Ambulance Service Charges Reduced

Although the cost of medical care is generally rising, Bay Cities Ambulance Co. of San Rafael has announced a reduction in charges for ambulance service which will average about $5 a trip.

"Marin County still has the lowest ambulance rates in the Bay Area," Daniel D. White, general manager of the company, said. He added that private ambulance companies in the East Bay and on the Peninsula range from $10 to $15 per trip higher than Marin rates.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

If you begin choking on a piece of meat, try to tell your dinner companions by pointing or in any way possible. Do so immediately, because seconds count. At least they will know that you are choking and not hvaving a heart attack or stroke. In many instances, it is a simple matter to remove an object from the throat and spare your life.

A PERSON CAN die within 10 minutes from asphyxiation. If the problem is not recognized (even by a physician at the scene) the individual may die while being rushed to the hospital. Choking is sudden, the victim collapses quickly and the apparent lifelessness is easily mistaken for a heart attack.

When attempting to remove the food, open the mouth, insert a finger into the side of the throat, try to get under the particle and flip it out from the passageway.

ANOTHER METHOD is to press quickly and hard on the diaghgram. This tends to force out the air in the lungs and, hopefully, the obstructive material along with it. The time honored pat on the back may make the victim gasp and inhale the piece of food further into the windpipe. It can however, be used as a last resort. A physician may use a penknife to make an opening in the windpipe of the unconscious person.

If you choke when eating alone, stand up and bend over the back of a chair with the arms extended. Gravity and a slight relaxation of the throat usually provide enough space to breathe around the obstruction. This is a temporary measure but lifesaving until the bolus is swallowed or help arrives.

CHOKING SEIZURES are more common in older persons with partial or complete dentures. They cannot feel the food or determine whether they have chewed it long enough. Those with dental trouble are likely to swallow food without chewing it properly. Be on the alert when these factors are added to a few drinks before dinner and failure to cut meats small enough.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

CYSTOCELE

Mrs. R.C.E. writes: What is a cystocele and can it be treated? I developed this condition after I had my baby.

REPLY

A cystocele is a herniation of the bladder into the birth canal. The defect occurs when the muscles surrounding the vagina are overstretched and no longer hold in the in the bladder, especially on straining or coughing.

STARVATION AND DISEASE

F.L. writes: A friend insists starvation will cure any disease known to man. What do you think of this idea?

REPLY

Starve long enough and you'll be cured of everything — including living. Your friend comes from the "starve a cold" era.

FUNERAL FUMES

L.C. writes: I live over an undertaking parlor and the formaldehyde really gets to me. Are these fumes harmful to my health?

REPLY

No. Consider moving if the odor is unpleasant or embarrassing.

DIZZY AFTER DRINK

R.S. writes: Why does a mixed drink make me dizzy for 2 or 3 hours?

REPLY

Gifted Group's Speaker Named

J. Richard Suchman, director of the Ortega Park Teachers Labratory in Woodside, San Mateo County, will be speaker at the January meeting of the Marin Association for Gifted Children.

The meeting will be next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the library of Davidson Junior High School, San Rafael. Suchman's subject will be "Learning, Plus and Minus Teaching."

Suchman is an educational consultant with special emphasis on professional development of educators and the learning environment.

The meeting will be of special interest to teachers and student teachers, according to Mrs. Ray K. Bolinger of the association, but will be open to the public.

Streptococcus Cases Leading

Although gonorrhea cases continued to plague Marin County, streptococcus infections easily led the list of communicable diseases reported last week by Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

Seventy-nine strep infection cases were reported throughout the county, 37 of them in San Rafael. There were 25 reported cases of gonorrhea, one of tuberculosis and two of infectious hepatitis, as well as one of amebiasis, commonly called amoebic dysentery.

New Sign Ordinance Is Wanted

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night re commended that the city council pass a new sign ordinance.

The proposed new ordinance, hashed out in three public hearings, would limit signs to a maximum of one square foot per foot of building frontage or one-half square foot per foot of lot frontage up to a maximum of 200 square feet, according to Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

The proposal also would allow signs that clearly meet the ordinance's requirements to be constructed without a permit, Hotchner said. Other signs would require a permit from the planning staff while a few would require approval of the planning commission, Hotchner said.

The existing ordinance requires planning commission approval of every sign to be put up in the city, Hotchner said.

He said the audience last night was composed mainly of service station operators and gas company representatives concerned about requirements on gas station signs.

The commission decided gas stations would be restricted to 100 square feet of signs, each not more than 36 square feet, Hotchner said. Free standing signs would be limited to 21 feet and temporary promotional signs and gimmicks would be barred altogether, Hotchner said.

Last night the commission added clauses governing movie theaters and projected signs, Hotchner said. Theaters will be permitted to use poster cases upon receiving permission from the planning staff, but must abide by the rules governing other businesses on other signs, Hotchner said.

Projected images will also require permits, Hotchner said.

Present signs that do not conform to the ordinance would have to be removed between 90 days and three years after passage of the ordinance depending on value and use, Hotchner said.

Flashing signs and revolving signs, barred in the proposed ordinance, would be removed within six months, Hotchner said.

The commission recommended the proposed ordinance unanimously, the planning director said.

Fairfax Plan On Drugs To Be Heard

The start of an educational program on drug abuse for Fairfax School District students will be planned later this month, district trustees were told last night.

Supt. H. Reginald Hammond said today his staff will meet Jan. 29 with a study committee headed by June Thurnau, district nurse, to determine mechanics of starting the program.

The new program, Hammond said, will be interwoven with classes in health and safety, social studies and science.

Not only will it deal with the dangers of drugs, he said, but it also will emphasize the value of drugs to science and medicine.

The board last night also was told district enrollment stood at 1,060 students — a loss of six students since the Dec. 15 meeting and of 40 students since last June.

In other action last night, the board set Feb. 3 for a special meeting with parents to discuss district goals and objectives, approved a maternity leave for teacher Judith Garber and a leave of absence for secretary Mary Lally.

Aliens Reminded

Federal immigration officials today reminded aliens they must register at either an office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service or at a local post office.

Officials said the law requires all noncitizens, except diplomats and other foreign representatives, to report their addresses to the government each January.

Marin Youth Not Rushing To Register For Voting

Although Marin County 18-to-21-year-olds are now able to vote in federal elections, they are not standing in line to register, according to county elections officer Peter C. Meyer.

"The voter registration for Marin County has been extremely slow," Meyer said, "despite the Dec. 21 Supreme Court decision that granted the vote to 18-year-olds."

Meyer said that only 10 new voters register per week in any of the 50-voter registration centers in Marin County, and that the number of new 18-year-old voters was negligible.

Even registration centers in College of Marin area, likely spots for new, young voters, have reported no increase, Meyer said.

Meyer attributes the apparent disinterest to the length of time before youths can vote. No elections other than the June 6, 1972, federal elections are pending where they can vote, he said.

"Then, just like their elders, they'll wait until the last two weeks before the registration closing date to register," Meyer said. April 13, 1972 is the closing date for voter registration, 54 days before the 1972 election.

Meyer said he will meet with members of such organizations as the League of Women Voters on Jan. 19 to discuss how youth can be educated to their voting privileges and how and when they should register.

Hardin Predicts Ecology Advance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will move toward a cleaner environment because the nation is aroused over the problem and willing to pay for a solution, Agriculture Secretary Hardin said.

And the nation can have both a cleaner environment and ample food for the rest of this century, at least, if it makes the right decision about land use, Hardin told an environmental seminar for newsmen.

Asked why he was predicting more progress than had been made in environmental improvement in earlier years, Hardin replied, in effect, that there is now a "national consensus" for environmental action which did not exist in the past.

Ailing Bourguiba Flys To U.S.

The route from his residence to the airport was heavily guarded and only his two nieces were allowed to see him off. They said he appeared tired.

Bourguiba, 68, has not fully recovered from a hepatitis attack which forced him into six months treatment at a Paris Clinic last year. He suffered a coronary thrombosis attack in 1967.

Stork Does Double Duty

ADSTOCK, England (UPI)—Two expectant mothers named P. Seaton turned up at Adstock's 12-bed hospital at the same time Tuesday. They both gave birth to boys at 2:55 a.m. and the babies weighed almost exactly the same.

"Amazing," said chief nurse Delia Frost. "Neither mother had ever met the other before.

Mrs. Patricia Seaton said she and Mrs. Penelope Seaton thought they might be related "but we're not."

Former Heavyweight Champion Liston Found Dead In His Home

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)— Sonny Liston, a bull-shouldered brooding fighter who developed his boxing skills in a prison ring and later won the world heavyweight championship, was found dead in his home late Tuesday. He was 38.

Deputy coroner Dick Mayne said Liston had been dead about a week. His body was found in his plush home in the Paradise Palms area near the 16th hole of the Sahara-Nevada golf course on the Las Vegas strip by his wife Geraldine.

Deputies said Mrs. Liston had been out of town for about 10 days. Mayne said an autopsy would be performed later today to determine the cause of death.

After being released from prison at the age of 21, he beat 33 of 34 opponents before winning the championship from Floyd Patterson Sept. 25, 1962, on a first-round knockout.

Liston, who was arrested for robbing a gas station in St. Louis at the age of 18 and sentenced to concurrent five-year prison terms, also kayoed Patterson in their title rematch in July 1963 in the first round. He had been released from prison after serving 29 months and had immediately turned pro.

He lost the championship to Cassius Clay Feb. 25, 1964. He also lost a rematch to Clay May 25, 1965.

Not even Liston was probably sure of his age, but it was listed as 38 in the boxing record book.

His life and career were continually filled with controversy.

SONNY LISTON
Cause unknown

He began boxing in 1953, his escape after constant run-ins with the law, but the cure didn't work. In 1957, he was back in jail again for assault.

During those first four years, he developed his reputation as a menacing puncher, losing only once in 15 bouts and knocking out seven opponents. He also got a reputation for durability in his only loss when his jaw was broken in the first round but he went the distance to be defeated by Marty Marshall on an eight-round decision.

In two meetings with Patterson, the image was at its zenith as he destroyed the champion to win the title in 1962 and repeated his one-round kayo a year later in his first defense.

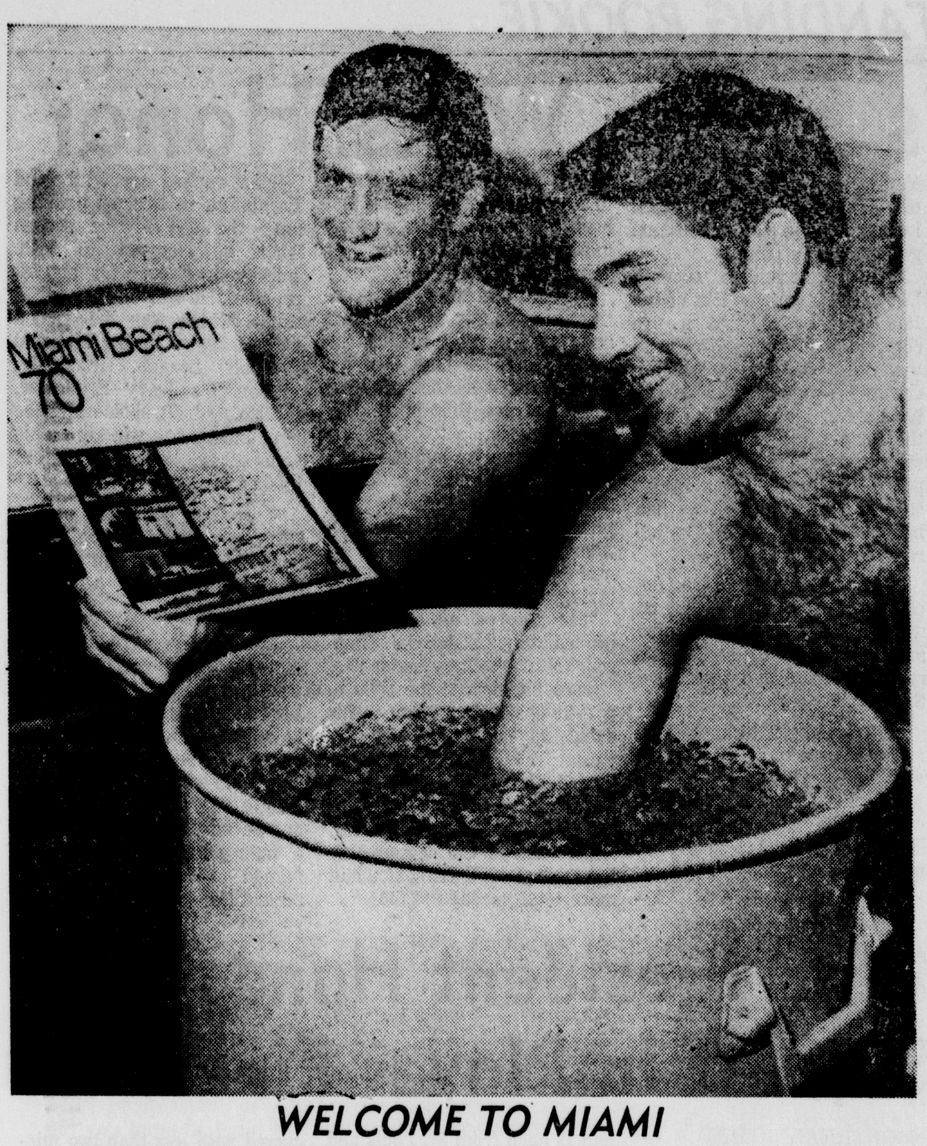
The image was shattered by the brash, young Clay, and Liston was even unable to get a license in the state of New York. He had always been linked with underground figures, and he was accused of not giving his best when he gave up against Clay in the seventh round.

He claimed that his shoulder had been dislocated during the bout, and became the first heavyweight champion to lose the title by giving up on his stool.

The rematch against Clay was supposed to come early in 1965, and Liston said he was ready. However, his associates confided that something had left Liston during that loss to Clay, and they were right.

His effort to regain the title ended in the quickest knockout in heavyweight title history, exactly one minute. Many ringsiders claimed they did not even see the punch, and Liston's image was tarnished forever.

He tried to come back, however. He scored 18 consecutive victories, including 17 kayoes, and then fought Martin in what could have paved the way to another title bout.



WELCOME TO MIAMI

JIM GILMARTIN

Here's A Hot Rumor: Plunkett To Cowboys

Hottest rumor coming out of the east has Stanford's sensational quarterback Jim Plunkett going to the Dallas Cowboys next season in a big trade with the Boston Patriots.

Here's the deal, offered by Dave Scofield of Larkspur after a conversation with a New York Times scribe: The Patriots, worst team in the National Football League thus first in the college player draft, will pick Plunkett as their first choice and then trade him to Dallas for running back Calvin Hill, speedy wide receiver Bob Hayes and offensive guard John Niland."

Boston already has a very expensive quarterback in Joe Kapp and can't afford another one like Plunkett. Also, the Pats need bodies like the aforementioned Cowboy trio. And, it is no secret that Hayes and Hill are not in good favor with Coach Tom Landry.

SPEAKING OF kicking around, the portly, gray haired gentleman seen kicking and passing a football around San Rafael these days is businessman Al Tognoli. He won an autographed 49er pigskin at the Marin Goal Rushers Club meeting Monday.

ALSO,GOAL RUSHER member Pat McTigue told me that just before game time Sunday at Kezar he was offered two $12 tickets for $1. That's a scalper getting scalped.

AND SPEAKING OF THE Goal Rushers, why, oh, why, doesn't the Marin Chapter ever get Coach Dick Nolan or quarterback John Brodie to one of its Monday meetings?

I asked Brodie why he never came to Marin and he said it was too far and besides he committed himself to only three personal appearances a year.

Well, the players who appear at these luncheons get only $50, so that means the wealthy Brodie just isn't interested in chicken feed.

SPEAKING OF Brodie, there is one consolation to his defeat with the 49ers against Dallas Sunday, knocking him and them out of the Super Bowl on Jan. 17. That just means that he will be able to defend with Bob Rosburg their Crosby Pro-Am Golf title at Pebble Beach that same day. Aren't you happy for Brodie?

YES, VIRGINIA, the famous Goodyear blimp of television overhead fame was at Kezar Sunday.

ALSO, I WAS happy to see the Kezar pressbox loaded Sunday with working press. As you know, in the past the box was loaded with politicians, their wives, children and friends.

WHEN BALTIMORE and Dallas meet in the Super Dooper Jan. 17, it will be their second January bowl meeting. In 1965 the Baltimore Colts routed the Dallas Cowboys 35-3 in that defunct Runner-Up Bowl. The game was played in Miami, by the way, site of the upcoming Super Thing.

Pro Bowl For Nolan, Madden

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Forty Niners Dick Nolan and the Oakland Raiders' John Madden, defeated semi-finalists in the NFL playoffs, will coach the NFC and AFC respectively in the 21st Pro Bowl game at the Los Angeles Coliseum Jan. 24.

The Forty Niner and Raider assistants will help their bosses prepare the two squads, it was announced Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Nolan said that free safety Rosey Taylor had notified him that he will definitely be back in 1971. In the discouragement of the 17-10 loss to Dallas Sunday, the 31-year-old Taylor said he might quit the game.

But he later telephoned Nolan to end the rumors.

And in New York, it was announced that Oakland would pick 19 in the forthcoming pro draft and San Francisco 23.

Celebrities Help Start Golf Tour

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The pro-amateur curtain-raiser for the $110,000 Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open drew a flock of celebrities today such as Bob Hope and Dean Martin from the world of entertainment and baseball's Tony Coigliaro.

Two courses, Rancho Park and Brentwood Country Club, were needed to accommodate the 432 amateurs signed for the 18-hole prelude by singer Glen Campbell, cosponsor for the first time this year with the Los Angeles Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Hope, who sponsors his own tournament at Palm Springs later in the winter, was paired with none-other-than Arnold Palmer, three-time winner of the 72-hole Open which starts at Rancho Thursday.

Freshmen Triumph

Tom Cronin scored 21 points and grabbed nine rebounds to lead the Marin Catholic Freshmen past Justin of Napa yesterday, 48-32. The Kentfield club led at halftime, 26-15.

A Very Sour Day In Prep Basketball

Marin County Athletic League basketball teams lost four games without winning yesterday, thus ending the preseason on a sour note. Only one high school — Terra Linda — was to have played again before the start of the league campaign Friday night.

Three of the MCAL's top teams lost yesterday. Redwood bowed to Westmoor in Daly City, 70-61, Marin Catholic was edged by Justin in Napa, 55-54, and San Marin lost a high-scoring affair to Sonoma, 89-81.

For Redwood, the loss will probably mean banishment from the bay area's top 20 poll, which the Larkspur team made this week at 17th. The Giants got 29 points out of center Steve McGee, and 20 from forward Scott Trobbe, but almost nothing from anyone else. They were ahead at the half by one, but fell behind for good early in the second half.

Dave Riley led Westmoor with 23 points.

Marin Catholic suffered a dismal lapse in the third quarter against Justin, getting outscored, 22-10, and proceeded to lose despite coming back with 19 points to the Braves' 10 in the final period. Bill Donellan and Tim Stone scored 14 apiece to lead the Kentfield school.

The loss, Marin's fourth against 10 victories, didn't mean much, since coach Dave Hennessy played everyone on his bench. Nine of the Wildcats got into the scoring column.

San Marin proved once again it can score at a torrid pace, but so did Sonoma. Dick Romberg and Dan Waldron hit 26 points each for the North Bay I League club, as they kept the pressure on the Mustangs throughout the game.

Center Dana LaFerriere poured in 24 points, and recently hot shooting Jim Thompson added 23, but the Novato school slumped in the second and third quarters, following which they trailed by 24 points.

Drake's loss was a heartbreaker. The San Anselmo team scrambled back from a 17-11, first quarter deficit to lead at the half, 23-22, but couldn't hold on. Three players scored in double figures for the Pirates — Jit Singh had 16, Jim Forni 12 and Mark Daubenfeld 10.

In the final game of the preseason, Terra Linda was to meet Castlemont today at 3:30 p.m. in Oakland.

Gals Begin Chase For Tennis Loot

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The cream of woman tennis players begin swapping serves today for a first prize of $4,300, their richest payoff in the history of the sport.

As usual, three gals from Australia will have a strong say in determining the eventual winner of the $15,000 British Motors Women's Pro Tennis championships at the Civic Auditorium. They are Judy Tagert Dalton, Kerry Melville and six-foot-plus Karen Krantzcke.

Seeded No. 1 is Billie Jean King of Long Beach who opens with Esme Emanuel of South Africa. Rosie Casals of San Francisco, the second seed, goes against Miss Krantzcke tonight in the elimination tournament.

Other first-round draws pit Miss Melville against Darlene Hard of Van Nuys, Denise Carter of Los Altos versus Peaches Bartkowicz of Michigan, Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., against Valerie Ziegenfuss, and Mary Ann Curtis of St. Louis versus Stephanie Johnson of Denver.

In other night matches, Mrs. Dalton tackles Francoise Durr of France while lefty Ann Haydon Jones of England opposes Kristy Pigeon of Danville.

Surprise Loss For San Rafael

In a "surprise" high school basketball game, Pinole Valley defeated San Rafael, 50-34 at San Rafael. The surprise was that the Pinole team was supposed to bring their freshman and junior varsity teams to town, and they also brought the varsity.

It was San Rafael's second loss of the year to the Spartans, and it was no contest. Mark Farrar led the Bulldogs with nine points, followed by Bill Lechner with eight.

Sonoma '5' Is Still Winless

The hapless Sonoma State College Cossacks are still winless after dropping their final preseason basketball game last night, 75-64 to Fresno Pacific in Rohnert Park.

With 4:30 remaining the Cossacks were able to come within two points of the Vikings, 55-53, but were handled by Fresno's Ron Brannan who bucketed two crucial baskets to secure the game. Brannan finished with the game high of 21 points.

Warriors Hoping To End Their Skid

BUFFALO (UPI) — It's usually windy, below freezing and snowy along Lake Erie this time of the year but the San Francisco Warriors won't mind.

If they were assured of breaking a three-game losing string, the Warriors would probably play at the North Pole. Instead they have a chance to do it tonight against the expansionist Buffalo Braves.

The Philadelphia 76ers hung a 97-92 loss on the Warriors Tuesday night at Philadelphia. That kept San Francisco in third place in the NBA West behind Los Angeles and San Diego.

Despite operating below par with a pulled groin muscle, guard Jeff Mullins contributed 18 points to the Warriors attack against the 76ers. Only other Warriors in double figures were Nate Thurmond with 28 and Jerry Lucas with 12.

Nate missed eight shots from the free-throw line and the Warriors as a team connected on only 32 of 44 from the charity stripe against the 76ers. With a little better luck from inside the gift circle, the Warriors might have pulled it out.

Philadelphia turned ice cold in the fourth quarter and made only 4 of its 20 shots from the field. San Francisco came within one point of the winners at 85-84 with 4:47 remaining and outscored the 76ers 22-17 in the fourth quarter but were never able to take the lead.

Archie Clark with 22 points and Jim Washington with 21 paced a well-balanced Philadelphia attack that saw nine players in the scoring column, four of them in double figures.

MC LAIN GOLF BUDDIE LOSES SOME TEETH

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—The blade of Denny McLain's golf putter came off its shaft Tuesday and struck a playing partner in the mouth, knocking out several teeth.

An official at Cyprus Creek Golf Club said the foursome of McLain, Don O'Malley, Jack Harrell and John Mack, all of Lakeland, Fla., was on the eighth green when the accident happened.

The club spokesman said McLain apparently had missed a putt and after tossing the ball lightly into the air swung at it with the putter much like a baseball player hitting a fungo.

High-Flying Marin Tars To Open Conference Play

By DAVID EINSTEIN

The College of Marin Tars, who have marched all but undaunted through their preseason basketball schedule, take the court tonight in San Bruno against Skyline College in their 1971 Camino Norte Conference opener.

Led by superstars Roosevelt Green and Joe Smith, the Tars have racked up 15 wins, 10 in a row, against a single loss, and have attained a reputation as one of the finest junior college outfits in California. They will undoubtedly rank in the top 10 when the first polls are announced.

But rankings and reputations mean little — "Game to game it's a new challeng," says Tar coach John Panagakis - and each game on the CNC schedule is a toughy. The league, with five of its seven teams boasting winning records in the preseason, is probably the best balanced of any league in Northern California.

Still, the Tars have to be considered favorites to win the title. In beating every preseason opponent except Los Angeles City College, the Kentfield boys displayed a scorched earth policy — their average margin of victory has been 15 points!

Panagakis sums up the vastly successful preseason succinctly — "Better shooting. We've been getting good scoring from Green and Smith (averaging 18 points apiece), and then there's always a third player; Mike Peden will be hot one day, or Kenny Gommeringer."

Yet for all their shooting ability, the Tars have hit the century mark only once, (103 points against Napa), and are scoring at the rate of only 77 points per game.

Ah, but they have held their opponents to just 63 points per game! "The defense has a lot to do with our success," says Panagakis. "Everyone's been playing good defense lately."

Panagakis hesitates to single out individuals for praise; "Everybody's contributed, and this is what makes the difference." But anyone who has seen them play will not easily forget how Green, a 6-foot-6 center with amazing body control, and Smith, an Oscar Robertson-type shooting guard, can dominate a game.

Joining them in the starting lineup tonight will be the same players who started the first preseason game. The forwards are Peden and Ed Herrnberger, and Ron Small handles the other guard spot. Small, the team's defensive standout, sat out the last two games with a pulled hamstring muscle, but he's been pronounced ready to go.

Although Marin depends largely on the starting five, Panagakis has some players on the bench who can do damage when given the chance. Reserve guard Charlie Flynn, a dangerous defensive man who has the knack for making the big play, filled in for Small so well hardly anyone knew the difference.

And when Green suffered a dislocated shoulder during the Marin Invitational tournament, Bob Duryee and Bob Ward were outstanding in minimizing the importance of his loss.

The Tars blew their final two preseason opponents off the floor in the first half; they led Ohlone, 40-17, and Cabrillo, 44-25. That, obviously is what they'll be trying to do against Skyline. "If we can get the upper hand early, then they've got to play our game," says Panagakis. "We want to control the game, make them play our slow down kind of basketball."

The Tars will need to be at their best, since Skyline is as tough a club as they will face in league play. The Titans bring an 8-3 preseason record into tonight's game, including a second place finish in the Questa tournament last month in San Luis Obispo.

The San Bruno club has height in 6-foot-8 center Earl Wilson and 6-foot-7 forward Paul Reynolds, and scoring punch provided by guard Matt Kriletich, who carries a 17 points-per game average.

Both Panagakis and Skyline coach Walt Rilliet feel this game is a perfect league opener, matching two powerful teams. If the Tars play their best, however, they might be unbeatable, both tonight and for the rest of the year.

10th Straight Term For Nash As Golf Head

Keeler Nash of Mill Valley has been elected president of the Mill Valley Golf Club for the 10th consecutive year, it was announced yesterday.

Nash, sales manager for American Van Lines in San Francisco, was first elected to the post in 1962, when the Mill Valley Club consisted of 43 members, and held four tournaments. Today there are 193 members, and 26 tournaments are scheduled for 1971.

Other officers elected for 1971 are Paul Taylor, chairman of the board of directors; Jules Prizant, vice president; Ed Victor, secretary treasurer; and Peter Pantages, publicity chairman.

Loses Amateur Rank

Redskins To Hire Allen?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Allen, fired last week as coach of the Los Angeles Rams, has been given a "solid offer" to become coach and general manager of the Washington Redskins, the Washington Post said today.

Marty Zad, the Post's executive sports editor, wrote that one Los Angeles source reported that Allen and the Redskins "are on the verge" of agreement, but quoted Allen himself as saying "as of this moment, I don't know what I'm going to do."

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland Browns quarterback Bill Nelsen will undergo a third operation on his fragile knees and club owner Art Modell said he considers it a good omen.

"If Dr. O'Donoghue had said nothing could be done then it would be a gloomy report," Modell said. "But he gave no indication that Bill's career is finished by any means."

Basketball

NEW YORK (UPI) —Rumors of a proposed merger next week between the National and American Basketball Associations were termed "completely untrue" Tuesday by NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

The recent jumping of Spencer Haywood from Denver of the ABA to Seattle of the NBA supposedly was the move needed to effect a merger between the two leagues, according to an exclusive story in a local newspaper.

However, Kennedy, contacted in San Diego, site of next week's NBA All-Star game, denied the story.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Dave Davis fired a 1744 series in the second round of the $75,000 U.S. Open Bowling Tournament here to maintain his lead after 16 games.

Davis has a 3546 total for the two rounds, for an average of 221 per game. Trailing Davis is second year pro Bob Shank, Loraine, Ohio.

Jimmy McHugh, Newark, N.J., is in third place with 3454.

AFC'S OUTSTANDING ROOKIE

Dennis Shaw Wins Honor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quarterback Dennis Shaw, whose strong passing arm and field leadership made the Buffalo Bills a potent offensive threat for the first time in several seasons, has been named Rookie of the Year in the American Football Conference by the United Press International.

Shaw, who amassed 2,507 yards through the air this past season, was named the AFC's top rookie in a balloting of 30 sportswriters, at least two from each AFC city. The Bills' quarterback won in a close race with tight end Ray Chester of the Oakland Raiders. Shaw received 12 votes to nine for Chester, a second team all-pro selection.

Wide receiver Ronnie Shanklin of Pittsburgh, running-back Bob Anderson of Denver and linebacker Bob Babich of San Diego each received two votes, and running-back Norm Bulaich of Baltimore, defensive back Jake Scott of Miami, cornerback Earlie Thomas of New York, defensive end Tony Cline of Oakland and cornerback Lemar Parrish of Cincinnati got one vote apiece.

Shaw, a graduate of San Diego State, was the last of the 1970 draftees to sign a pro contract and he missed most of the Bills' pre-season training camp. He did not become the team's No. 1 quarterback until the third game of the regular season, and the 6-foot-3, 198-pound signal-caller was rather surprised to learn that he had been selected as the AFC's top rookie.

"I missed so much of training camp that I was more set on winning a job with Buffalo than anything else," he said. "It's really amazing that I've come this far."

While most quarterbacks take several years to develop, Shaw was able to step in and do the job in his first year, and he credits his training at San Diego State for his ability to make the transition.

"We played a pro type offense in college," said Shaw. "I learned to read defenses and how to send backs out on pass patterns, and I believe that helped me a lot."

Shaw's amazing self-confidence was his strong suit, however. From the moment he stepped into the huddle in his starting debut against the New York Jets, the Bills knew they had a leader.

"He seemed so humble when he first came to us," said Shaw's favorite target, wide receiver Marlin Briscoe. "Then when he got in that huddle, he was telling guys to shut up and taking over completely."

"He showed us one thing immediately," added O.J. Simpson. "He's a helluva leader."

Shaw engineered the Bills to a 34-31 upset of the Jets in his debut as he passed for 317 yards. The following week he passed for 203 yards against Pittsburgh and came back with a 349-yard game against Miami. At the end of the season only Oakland's Daryle Lamonica had more total yardage (2,516).

Shaw ranked second behind Lamonica in overall passing until the end of the season when he slumped to fifth. Interceptions were his biggest problem. He was intercepted 20 times, which was the second highest figure in the National Football League. Ironically, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw, the No. 1 draft choice and the man expected to win top rookie honors, led in most passes intercepted with 24.

"I want to cut down on my interceptions next season," said Shaw. "I threw the ball a lot of times this year when I shouldn't have."

Chester, a graduate of Morgan State, was a virtual unknown when he walked into the Raiders' training camp, but he quickly proved himself to be one of the league's best tight ends. The 6-3, 220-pounder caught 42 passes for 556 yards and seven touchdowns and was a punishing blocker. He was named to the UPI's all-AFC second team.

Montgomery Surprises Petalumans

The Petaluma High School Trojans were upset by Santa Rosa's Montgomery Vikings in a North Bay I League opener last night, 50-48; and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park, playing without its two main stars, won anyway over Piner in an opening game of the North Bay II League, 47-44.

Montgomery's Stan Ericksen scored 12 points and controlled the boards to lead the underdog Santa Rosa team past Petaluma.

Rancho Cotate held on despite being outscored, 13-7 in the fourth quarter to whip Piner of Santa Rosa. The Cougars played without star center Ron Seiler, sidelined with the flu, and ace backcourt man Mike Wlodarczyk, out with a sprained ankle, and relied heavily on Wayne Broyles and Steve Wlodarczyk. They scored 13 and 12 points respectively.

NHL President Hands Out $6,000 In Player Fines

MONTREAL (UPI) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League President, has levied more than $6,000 in fines against players from four teams who became involved in on-ice brawls during two games last month.

Campbell also ordered center Walt McKechnie of the Minnesota North Stars to pay $250 for an incident in which he accosted a referee after being penalized.

It was the second time in less than three weeks the NHL President has assessed fines totalling thousands of dollars. Just before Christmas, he handed down a total of $15,580 in fines for similar incidents.

The first incident dealt with Tuesday occurred Dec. 26 in Toronto when the Leafs hosted the Philadelphia Flyers. The second involved the Rangers and St. Louis Blues in a game at New York the following night.

Fourteen Philadelphia players and 13 each from St. Louis and New York paid the automatic $100 fine for leaving their bench to join in the two separate fights.

Twelve Toronto players were ordered to pay $200 each because it was the second such incident involving the Leafs in less than three weeks.

In addition, Flyers goaltender Bernie Parent was asseesed $100 for leaving his crease to join in the Toronto-Philadelphia mix-up.

The Tononto outbreak occurred with less than two minutes left on the clock as Brian Spencer of the Leafs and flyer Bob Kelly skated toward their own benches for a routine player change before a face-off.

The pair collided and began slugging it out, Both benches cleared and all players began fighting.

After Spencer and Kelly were separated and officials were escorting them to their benches, Spencer punched another Philadelphia player and a second fight erupted.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Poor Visibility Can Be Dangerous

I try to keep track of the trend in boating accidents by clipping selected newspapers from across the nation. It's somewhat comforting to know that although the number of boats in use during 1970 was up by about SEVEN per cent, the accident rate appears to be holding its own or even running a little behind last year. We are getting more safety conscious.

But I've noticed that as winter came on, there were more accidents involving fog and operations after dark . . . both conditions of poor visibility.

It's obviously an area of great uncertainty when visibility is involved. I've been asked many questions along this line that are difficult to answer. Here are just a few:

Q. A man drove his boat into my dock in a fog at night and he's threatening to sue unless I repair his boat. Can he do this?

A. The $64 question is . . . Was your dock obstructing a navigable waterway? and what permission, or right, did you have to build it. I'd get a lawyer fast. In the meantime, don't touch his boat. It could be an admission of liability.

Q. I was fishing after dark when a fast motorboat almost hit me. I got his name and number. Could he be charged with an offense?

A. If you did not show a white light in time for the operator of the oncoming boat to avoid you, you are at fault. If you did show the light, then he was at fault. It's possible he could be charged with reckless or negligent operation of a boat under your state law.

Q. Will white paint make the corners of my dock stand out at night?

A. A better thing is fluorescent reflective paint or tape. The cheapest is the luminous reflector tape frequently sold in hardware stores for kids' bicycles. Put strips on your dock corners and edges, or on stakes out in the water. They will glow in the beam of a flashlight and put everything in place.

Q. What's the difference between a flashing light and an occulting light?

They both flash.

A. Flashing lights blink on at intervals; occulting lights blink off at intervals. If a light is off more than it's on, it's flashing; if it's on more than it's off, it's occulting. It's a lot harder to explain the difference than to recognize it. Such light s are used mostly on ocean approaches or the Great Lakes.

Q. Why can't you water ski at night?

A. Well, apart from its being idiotically dangerous, it's against the law. I suppose one is a consequence of the other. It's banned from one hour after sunset to sunrise in almost every state.

Q. Are directional signals required on a boat trailer?

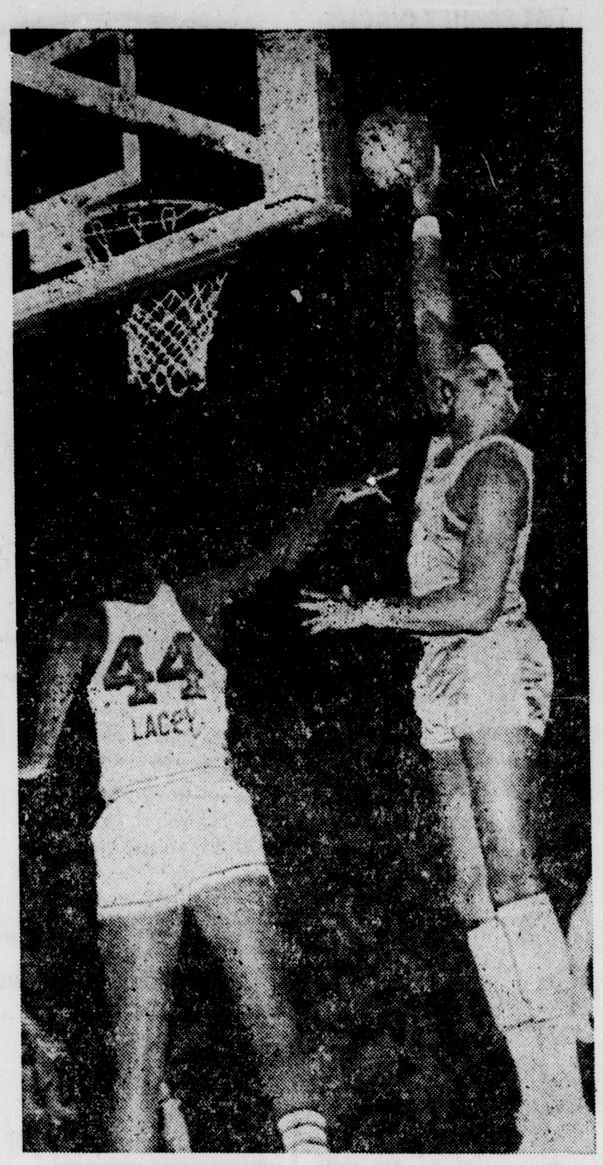
A. They are required in most states on trailers of recent manufacture.

Q. Only after I was in a collision did I know that a sailboat was required to sound fog signals. Why don't you warn others?

A. I shall. Here's what the law says: A sailboat under way shall sound at intervals of not more than one minute: (a) When on the starboard tack, one blast; (b) When on the port tack, two blasts; (c) When the wind is abaft the beam (coming from behind) three blasts.

Q. Aren't the fog signals different in the various sets of Rules of the Road . . . such as International Rules, and Inland Rules?

A. Yes they are, and the differences are too complex to explain here. Get copies of the various rules. They come in three booklets . . . International-Inland Rules (in one book); Great Lakes, and Western Rivers. The three publications are available free from any Coast Guard District Office, or Coast Guard Marine Inspection Office.



ANOTHER MILESTONE — Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers last night became only the second man in NBA history to reach 20,000 career rebounds. Sam Lacey of the Cincinnati Royals looked on helplessly as Wilt got two of his 41 points. He also got 23 rebounds, but L.A. lost, 146-112.

Seals To Open 2nd Half

OAKLAND (UPI) —The second half of the National Hockey League race opens tonight with the California Golden Seals at home to tough St. Louis.

The remaining Seals' schedule calls for 24 home games and 17 out in the snowy heartland. It gets better next week after the Seals come home from a four game trip.

The Seals have mustered only 11 wins this season, but nine have been achieved at home. Since the Seals don't plan any personnel changes, the home ice advantage may be the Seals' only hopes in catching anybody.

Coach Fred Glover tried to make a deal Tuesday, but after hours on the phone, he gave it up.

St. Louis came from way back to tie here 2-2 earlier in the season and then took a 3-2 verdict at St. Louis.

"We should have won both games," said Glover. "We gave 'em two goals here and in St. Louis we hit the post five times."

South Carolina 'Ordered' To Play In Maryland Gym

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)— Second-ranked South Carolina has been warned by the Atlantic Coast Conference that it faces severe punishment if the Gamecocks don't play Maryland at College Park, Md., Saturday night.

The Dec. 16 contest between the two teams at Columbia ended in a brawl and South Carolina officials had asked the ACC to cancel the remaining game for "the safety of our team and fans."

Gamecock officials said the situation had a precedent. Duke cancelled its season basketball games with South Carolina without penalty from the ACC several years ago following a controversy over the eligibility of a Gamecock player.

But acting ACC Commissioner Norvall Neve refused to grant South Carolina a similar "cooling off" period in the Maryland controversy.

Neve warned that if the Gamecocks fail to show Saturday, other ACC teams might cancel their games with South Carolina.

"I don't know whether or not they will do this, but I know as acting commissioner of the ACC I will take action in my office that will make the University of South Carolina ineligible to participate in post-season activities," said Neve to USC Athletic Director Paul Dietzel

USC basketball Coach Frank McGuire quoted Terp Coach Lefty Driesell as saying after the melee that "if a fight doesn't start when we play again, then I'll start a riot."

USC board of trustees chairman T. Eston Marchant said Driesell's "inflammatory remarks" as well as other information from "private but reliable sources" indicate that the game should be cancelled.

Neve told Dietzel that Maryland officials have promised to take every precaution for the game and that the Gamecocks must accept their "contractural responsibility" to play the game.

The Gamecocks, upset by North Carolina Monday night at Chapel Hill, N. C., return to action tonight

NBA ROUNDUP

Wilt Reaches New ReboundingPlateau

By United Press International

It was a night for milestones in the National Basketball Association.

Wilt Chamberlain became the second man in league history to get a careertotal of 20,000 rebounds as he grabbed 23 and added 40 points for Los Angeles Tuesday night, but despite his efforts the Lakers lost to the Cincinnati Royals 146-112. Chamberlain, who went past the 20,000 mark with 1:32 left in the first half, is second in career rebounds only to retired Bill Russell, who had more than 21,700.

Detroit's Dave Bing also passed a milestone as he got his 2,000th career assist, setting up Otto Moore and giving the Pistons a lead they never lost as they beat the Atlanta Hawks 98-90. Moore hit 12 of his 22 points in the third quarter as Detroit overcame a 12-point deficit for the victory.

Baltimore got 24 points from Earl Monroe and Gus Johnson for a 109-101 victory over Seattle. Spencer Haywood, who jumped to Seattle from Denver of the ABA recently, got 14 points in 33 minutes.

Once again, Seattle's opponent played under protest on the contention that Haywood is not eligible to play under NBA rules. The case on whether he belongs to Seattle or Denver comes up in court on Friday.

"I don't want to talk about legal difficulties," Haywood said. "I just want to play basketball and make a living. I'm not in any kind of shape yet. I do admit all this legal stuff has got me down, but once it gets straightened out my concentration should come back."

Johnson, who guarded Haywood, said, "He is going to be a great player, an asset to Seattle and to the NBA. I feel I can speak for the other guys on this team. They welcome him to the league. There will be no way to stop him once he blends in with their system and learns the plays. He was awful tight. I could see right away when I came on the floor."

In a doubleheader at Philadelphia, Archie Clark scored 22 points and Jim Washington 21 as the Philadelphia 76ers beat the San Francisco Warriors 97-92, and Geoff Petrie got 27 points to spark Portland over Boston 124-120. Chicago beat San Diego 116-103 in the only other game.

Baltimore Begins Super Workouts

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts Wednesday went through their first workouts in preparation for the Super Bowl meeting with the Dallas Cowboys 11 days from now. Their wives will be banned from Miami until the day before the game.

"Two years ago it was like a Barnum and Bailey circus," said head coach Don McCafferty, who was an assistant to Don Shula when the Colts went South in 1969 and were beaten by the New York Jets.

"This year, wives and families will not be allowed until right before game time, either late Saturday night or Sunday," McCafferty, a father of four, said.

"This is a business trip for us, not a vacation," he added.

Free Boating Classes To Start This Month

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary and Marin Power Squadron have announced plans for free boating classes.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary will conduct a free course in basic seamanship one night per week at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley.

The 8 to 10-week course, which will include instruction in navigation, maneuvering, charts and compasses, legal responsibilities and safe motorboat operation, will be held on Wednesday nights at 7:30 beginning Jan. 13.

An introductory course in small boat handling will be taught during the spring months at three Marin County locations by the U.S. Power Squadron.

The 13-week course, entitled "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling," will be held on Tuesday nights at San Rafael High School, on Wednesday nights at Redwood High School in Larkspur and on Thursday nights at Novato High School, beginning the week of Jan. 25. Starting time each night will be 7:30.

The Power Squadron, according to piloting chairman Bob Hamilton, is a volunteer organization dedicated to teaching boating safety, piloting, seamanship and handling. The course will embrace all those aspects of small boat operations, plus other subjects such as terminology, charts, government regulations.

Various members of the Power Squadron will teach the classes, which will be held free of charge to the public. Those who pass the course will be invited to join the Power Squadron, and will be eligible for more advanced courses.

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 6, the sixth day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1759 George Washington married Martha Custis.

In 1898 Simon Lake made the first telephone call from a submarine to land.

In 1919 President Theodore Roosevelt died at his home in Oyster Bay, N.Y.

A thought for today: American novelist James Cabell said, "The optimist proclaims that we live in the best of all possible worlds and the pessimist fears this is true."

Soils Testing Course Offered

A course in basic soil testing for construction will be offered by the Petaluma Adult Education Division beginning Thursday.

Classes will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. on Thursdays at Petaluma Senior High School for 14 weeks. Information about the course and class reservations may be made at the high school or adult education office at the Petaluma schools administration building.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Contract Is Unusually Good, Tourney Player Shuns Overtrick

In earlier columns of a week devoted to tournament bridge I have made much of the fact that the successful duplicate player must try for overtricks even at the risk of the contract. Only when the contract itself is unusually good can the tournament player afford to safeguard the contract rather than try for anything extra.

EXPERT'S CALCULATION

West leads the jack of diamonds, and South wins with the king. Declarer sees that he can easily win all 13 tricks if the four missing clubs are evenly divided.

An expert tournament player might play for all of the tricks if this hand came at the end of a session when he needed an absolute top score to win the event or to qualify for the next session. But at any other time the expert would be content to make six notrump since that would probably earn him a far better than average score for the hand. The expert would assume that some players would fail to reach a slam with the North-South cards, and others would play the hand at six clubs (which brings in only 1370 rather than the 1430 points for six notrump).

SAFETY PLAY

The only danger to the contract is a 4-0 split in clubs, and South can guard himself against this by a simple safety play. Declarer leads the four of clubs from his hand to see what West does.

When West follows with the deuce or trey (playing the queen or jack would make life very easy for South), declarer should take a deep finesse with dummy's five of clubs. When this remarkable finesse wins, the rest is easy.

If East had been able to win the first club trick, only two clubs would remain out, and declarer would later capture them with the ace and king. If West discarded on the first club, declarer would put up dummy's ace and return a club through East to kill one of the missing honors.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner open with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - A 7 5 3
♥ - K 10 7 4 3
♦ - Q 7
♣ - A 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards.

If he bids spades or hearts, you will raise to game in his suit. If he bids two diamonds (denying a major suit), you will jump to three hearts.

Recovery Seen For Research-Cottrell

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought shares of Research-Cottrell at 51. These dropped to one-third of my cost but have since recovered to over 30. Do you think I should hold for further recovery? — T. A.

A. Yes. The recent acquisition of Metcalf & Eddy and Connell Associates, whose combined revenues in fiscal 1970 were clost to $16 million, has broadened Research-Cottrell's stake in pollution control.

Metcalf & Eddy is an acknowledged international leader in sewage disposal; and Connell has wide experience in architectural engineering and waste treatment. A balanced firm offering total environmental management services, including "software" and "hardware", is R-C's goal.

Earnings for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1970, were up 33 per cent to 76 cents a share on a 38 per cent gain in sales, excluding Degremont-Cottrell sold November 1. A $32 million order for cooling towers received last April should begin to show up in earnings this year.

Shares, trading at about 32 times estimated fiscal 1971 results, may consolidate in the 30-40 level for the next few months. However, longer-term prospects for growth are excellent and many analysts rate the industry as one of 1971's top growth areas.

Q. I hold 200 shares of El Paso Natural Gas which I purchased at about 25-1/4. I will retire next year and my goal is both income and appreciation. — J.C.

A. El Paso is a leading natural gas transmission company, its principal market being California - a rapidly growing area. For the nine months ended September, share earnings declined to $1.11 from 1969's $1.19.

The decline primarily reflects losses recorded in Beaunit Corp's textile and synthetic fiber operations and a sharp rise in the income tax rate. In addition, El Paso experienced reduced demand for automobile tire cord due to the GM strike.

Because these adverse conditions were carried into the fourth period, full-year earnings may fall below 1969's restated $1.63. However, higher gas rates and continued strong demand should aid 1971 results. Shares look good for income and capital appreciation potential.

Stockholders Paid Double

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A double dividend was paid inadvertently to shareholders of Signet Corp., a consumer finance company with gross income of about $12 million a year, but the company may skip the next quarterly payout to square the books.

Directors last Nov. 18 declared a dividend of 7 ½ cents per share to shareholders of record Dec. 2. But the checks went out Jan. 2 on the basis of 15 cents per share.

The company said directors will meet Jan. 13 to approve the overpayment but the overpayment will be taken into consideration when the next regular quarterly dividend action is considered.

Printing Corp. Buys Facilities

NEW YORK — (BW) — Printing Corp. of America said that its affiliate, the Bookwalter Co., had completed purchase of the Cleveland printing and binding facilities of the World Publishing Co. Terms of the sale were not disclosed.

The announcement was made by Douglas M. Johnson, president of PCA. PCA is a division of American Can Co., Greenwich, Conn.

Bank Of America To Open Branch In Tiburon Friday

Bank of America will open its newest Marin County branch at 10 Main Street, Tiburon on Friday.

The location is a temporary one but will provide all banking facilities except safe deposit boxes which will be available when the bank occupies permanent quarters later in the year in a new building to be constructed opposite the junction of Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road.

The new office will be headed by Mrs. Virginia Hoffman, who has lived in Corte Madera for the past 20 years. Recently she has been on the regional administration staff in Santa Rosa. Previously she worked in the Hamilton Air Force Base and main San Rafael offices.

A ribbon cutting ceremony will be held at 9:45 a.m. on Friday, following an all day open house. Refreshments will be served, along with souvenir gifts and a guessing contest on the age of a giant redwood tree will be held. Prizes will be awarded.

Japanese Firm Seeks GM Link

TOKYO (UPI) — The country's top producer of trucks and buses will ask the government next month for approval of its financial tieup with General Motors Corp.

Kyodo News Agency said Isuzu Motors Ltd. will propose that GM have a 35 per cent ownership of Isuzu, well above the level insisted upon previously by the Ministry of International Trade and Industry.

Trade and Industry Minister Kiichi Miyazawa said he would have no objection to the 35 per cent interest in the firm by GM provided the remainder of the shares are controlled by domestic shareholders.

Market On Plus Side Once Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market advanced today for the second day in a row in continued reaction to optimistic remarks by President Nixon on the outlook for the economy in the next two years. Trading was brisk.

Newton Zinder, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co., said the market also was helped by seasonal factors, such as usual beginning-of-the year reinvestment demand.

Other factors stimulating demand for stocks were speculation that the Federal Reserve Board, which regulates the nation's credit policies, may soon announce a cut in the discount rate to member banks, and belief that a one-quarter point cut in the prime interest rate by a Pennsylvania bank would soon become widespread.

Among the most active big board stocks were Federal National Mortgage down more than a point on more than 80,000 shares, Leasco Data, fractionally higher on 70,000 shares, and Bankers Trust up more than a point on 65,000 shares.

Prices also pushed ahead in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Leasco data warrants, the most active Amex issue, was up a fraction on 40,000 shares.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was ahead about 1.92 at 837.69 after almost two hours, while the Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.42 at 92.21.

First National City, which reported a sharp rise in fourth quarter net income, rose 1¼.

Other stocks up a point or better included DuPont, Kerr-McGee, Standard Oil of Ohio, Chesapeake Ohio Railway, KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, Honeywell, Control Data, Motorola, Chase Manhattan, Walter Kidde, and Bausch & Lomb.

Satellite Move

NEW YORK (UPI) — RCA Corp. said its Alaskan subsidiary has asked the Federal Communications Commission for permission to establish a satellite communications ground station at Lena Point near Juneau. This move would create the first intrastate satellite communications system in the United States.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Marvelous Marin?

At least one visitor from Germany who was staying with relatives in the county doesn't think so, or that it's not only the weather that occasionally gets cold — but also the hearts of our businessmen.

After being escorted around to see the sights he ventured out on his own, calling at several shops and probably also stopping off for a beer or two. During this itinerary he acquired so many $1 bills in change that his pocketbook bulged uncomfortably. To lighten the load he went to a local bank to convert them back into larger denominations.

His English was limited to a few words — too few to make the teller understand that he had passed out most of his previous stock of 10s and 20s because he did not wish to become embarassed by his unfamiliarity with our currency in making exact change. Getting nowhere and feeling the need to identify himself he produced his passport and other German papers. That apparently was a big mistake, for it served only to arouse the teller's suspicions and she refused to touch his ones — though they showed no signs of being counterfeit.

Dismayed, but not giving up, he tried his luck at two more banks — with the same lack of success. Nettled by this reception, he returned to his relatives, stayed with them a day or two longer, then told them he decided not to settle in Marin and invest in buying a restaurant here after all.

At last report he and his wife were on their way to Florida where the climate is warmer and friendlier. So too, apparently, are the people.

IT IS BELIEVED that Walgreen Drugs has not given up its idea of opening a discount drug store in the Novato Fair Shopping Center, Novato — but plans evidently have not moved out of the preliminary stage and it may be a long time before any construction takes place. An 18,200-square foot store costing about $350,000 is being planned.

JOSEPH N. YARNELL of Mill Valley has opened a consulting civil engineering practice at 960 Harrison Street, San Francisco. He has spent the last 18 years in construction and engineering in Spain, North Africa and the Bay Area.

JUSTIN N. TIERNEY of Kentfield, vice president and administrative assistant to the president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, will speak on what the insurance industry is doing to handle new problems before the Marvelous Marin Breakfast Club tomorrow morning. He appears on behalf of Western Insurance Information Service.

WITH COMMISSION RATES about to be changed by the Securities Exchange Commission and the New York Stock Exchange, a firm known as Fast Facts, P.O. Box 117, Menlo Park, has put out a pocket size plastic cover slide rule containing both existing and new commission rates. It measures performance, compares securities and includes all trading charges so that exact break-even points and brokerage fees can be known in advance. Price is $2.50 postpaid.

THE NOVATO DIVISION of Western California Telephone Co. reported 14,600 telephones at the end of 1970 — an increase of 716 over the end of 1969. But new telephone connections for customers who moved into and within the division during last year was 4,080. The Novato division includes Kenwood and McCloud in addition to the City of Novato.

New Orders Up To $54.6 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI — New orders for manufactured goods totaled $54.6 billion in November, an increase of 0.7 per cent over October, the Commerce Department reported.

Manufacturers shipments declined 1.2 per cent to $54.3 billion November while the backlog of unfilled orders increased 0.3 per cent to $82.1 billion at the end of the month.

Manufacturers added $600 million to their inventories in November increasing their stock on hand to $100 billion.

EPA Grant To Salvage Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said it may be possible to turn millions of junked automobiles into treasure troves of now wasted zinc, aluminum, brass, copper, and stainless steel.

Physicists at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., are trying to work out a profitable system for recovering non-ferrous metal from junk cars which now yield only steel on a paying basis.

Their project is supported hy $210,000 from EPA and $105,000 contributed by the university. Said EPA administrator William D. Ruckelshaus: "A staggering amount of our natural resources is presently lost to use forever because salvage is not always profitable. The technique being developed at Vanderbilt, if commercially feasible, could provide the incentive to remove some of the 17 million junked cars that are now strewn throughout our countryside."

Increased Pensions

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. will increase pension benefits on Jan. 1, for all employees retired prior to 1970. Increases range from 33 1-3 per cent for the smallest pensions to a flat $10 a month. The company has 16,000 pensioners, twice as many as 10 years ago.

Baptiste Hits Safety Commission

Is the Marin County Safety Commission really necessary or can it be replaced by the county personnel office working with a safety engineer?

These questions were posed by newly seated Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste yesterday at his first session with the board of supervisors.

The eight-member safety commission meets monthly to review accidents involving county employees, determine whether an accident was avoidable, and issue reprimands where the employee is obviously at fault.

Administrative Snafu

Late last year, the commission ran into an administrative snafu when chairman Robert Bertrand of the sheriff's office missed most of the meetings. Since Bertrand carried the backlog of accident reports with him, the commission could not proceed with their accident review.

In October, the commissioners named Richard I. Uchida, senior personnel analyst, as temporary chairman and began a reorganization by setting terms of office for each member and designating alternates with power to vote in the absence of the regular members.

On a suggestion by Supervisor John F. McInnis, the board asked the county administrator's office to see if a safety engineer can be provided by the county's liability insurance carrier and to review the operation of the Safety Commission.

"They should be concerned with safety measures to reduce accidents and that's all," said McInnis. "A committee such as this may be desirable, but it has been left to wander."

Safety Commission

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom (alternate Jerry Van Soest), Sgt. George Reuss of the sheriff's office (alternate Capt. Harvey Teague), Lester Reeser of the department of public works (alternate Alfred Ravina), Agricultural Commissioner R. Allan Ballard (alternate Philip Economon), Paul Brusseau of the weights and measures office (alternate Paul Fraire), Bette L. Riebeling of the medical department (alternate Jane Drost), and Uchida of the county personnel office (alternate Jack Atkin).

The eighth member will be a county supervisor. Last year, the supervisor's representative was William A. Gnoss, but the new board has not yet named its representative.

Entry Of Plea Set In House Burglary

Robert Karry Campbell, 18, of Petaluma, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of burglarizing an Inverness residence Dec. 9.

He will plead to the charge Monday.

Suicide Prevention Center Finds Home

Marin Suicide Prevention Center has found a home base for its telephone crisis center — in the county health clinic building at Fourth Street and Grand Avenue, San Rafael.

The board of supervisors yesterday agreed to rent a portion of that building to the center and asked the county administrator's office to negotiate a rental fee and bring back a lease agreement.

Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows said the amount of rent would be set after negotiation with the center officials.

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

SEPTIC TANK — Upheld a 60-foot setback requirement for septic tank leaching lines to be installed on three acres of steep land owned by Donald S. Manion on Margarita Drive in the Country Club Tract, east San Rafael. Manion wanted a setback of 35 feet from Margarita Drive, but county health officials warned that sewage may seep down the embankment.

HOUSEBOATS — Heard from county marine inspector Richard L. Larson that code enforcement against houseboats in Richardson Bay has reached the point where the county is able to contain the houseboat colony. During December, four houseboats moved out, two were demolished, and no new houseboats have been added, Larson reported.

AGRICULTURAL — Set 3 p.m. Feb. 2 for a public hearing on the county's agricultural preserve area.

BIKE PATH — Approved payment of up to $4,000 to Hoffman and Albritton of San Rafael to prepare plans and specifications for a bicycle path and fence from Sausalito city limits to Richardson Bay Bridge. The state has approved a $30,000 grant for construction of the bicycle path.

LIBRARY — Awarded a $23,578 contract to M. G. West Co. of San Francisco, lowest of four bidders, for furnishings and accessories for the new Novato Branch of the Marin County Library.

SECURITY — Asked the Marin County Employees Association to poll its members on how they felt about the security at the Civic Center and to make a report Jan. 19.

MANZANITA — Approved an agreement giving title to the Manzanita Children's Center to the Sausalito School District as per a lease of July 1, 1967.

LIGHTING — Authorized spending $3,400 for addition street lighting on Civic Center Drive. It authorized the staff to work with the City of San Rafael and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. on sharing the cost of the lights.

HELIPORT — Authorized increasing the per passenger charge from 25 to 33 cents for San Francisco-Oakland Helicopters for use of the heliport at Sausalito in a new lease running until June 30. The company has been using the heliport without a lease for the past three years.

CLAIMS — Denied a $35,000 claim by Naomi Dominic of 27 Somerset Lane, Mill Valley, for injuries allegedly received when she stepped into a hole beside Lomita Drive on Oct. 31.

SUITS — Said County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney could file a $5,500 suit against United Pacific Insurance Co. for lack of street maintenance at Meadowland Unit One subdivision; a suit against Eichler Corp. for failure to install improvements on Weatherly Drive, and a $3,400 suit against Kent Woodlands Properties Inc. to recover the cost of clean-up by the county after development work by the company.

CAFETERIA — Despite appeals by employees groups, declined to reverse its decision of last week to grant permission to two San Rafael chefs to operate the Civic Center cafeteria. The employees said a contract should have gone to a nationwide cafeteria firm because prices would be cheaper.

Sarte Drama To Open Jan. 15

A play by existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre, "No Exit," to be performed by Pandora Productions, will open Jan. 15 at 8:30 p.m. in Brown's Hall, Mill Valley.

Leads in the play will be played by Norman Sturgis, Michelle Truffaut, Jan Duke and Gene Schankel. Pandora Productions was formerly located in Los Angeles but has moved to Mill Valley.

Subsequent productions of the play will be on Fridays and Saturdays through Feb. 6. Tickets may be obtained at the Great San Rafael Coffee and Tea Store, 936 B Street, San Rafael, or by calling Pandora Productions in Mill Valley.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Chester Nicholas Krawczuk, 21, of no known address, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana. Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Krawczuk was arrested Monday after two Sausalito policemen, dressed in civilian clothes, picked him up while he was hitchhiking on Bridgeway. Police said Krawczuk told the officers he had some marijuana "to share." A search revealed marijuana as well as hashish in a plastic bag in his pocket, police said.

Marin Move On Mudslide Insurance

Marin County will seek permission to join an emergency program which provides federally subsidized insurance to cover flood and mudslide damage to private property.

The board of supervisors yesterday asked County Administrator Alan Bruce to submit an application to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, which administers the subsidized insurance program.

The county's application will be only for the emergency program, which would give property owners the right to federally subsidized insurance through Dec. 31 of this year.

For coverage next year, the county must enter a regular, nonemergency program, which will have several strings attached, said Asst. Administrator John F. Barrows. He said the county would have to set up flood plain areas and impose restrictions on land planning and use in those areas. Barrows did not know exactly what those restrictions would be.

The supervisors decided they would not commit themselves to the regular program for 1972 until they know what the restrictions would be.

Larkspur and CorteMadera have already joined the emergency program. County supervisors asked Bruce to write to other cities, inviting them to join.

$1.2 Million To Hurt Girl

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —A young woman who was seriously injured in a 1966 auto accident was awarded $1.2 million in damages Monday in what was believed to be the highest amount assessed in U.S. District Court here against the federal government.

The award was made in the case of Marilyn Heym, 24, of Gradyville, Pa., who was injured in an accident involving an auto driven by her mother, Mrs. Mary Heym, and a government-owned sedan operated by a soldier who was on Army business.

Miss Heym, who was an accomplished horseback rider and instructor and an art student, is confined to a wheelchair, requiring custodial care for the remainder of her life.
